ROGERS RECKONS NICARAGUANS MISS ALL THE BIG ISSUES

(Special To The News)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—We sent our marines not so much to supervise Nicaragua's election Sunday as we did to keep them from being at our election Tuesday and getting into real serious trouble.

We won't vote on Sunday as we are holding our last political sermons then.

I bet you those Nicaraguans are just about ignorant enough to have nothing in their election about bigotry, religion, prohibition, pro-British, brown hats, bad English, 100 per cent, or any of those great issues that we know mean the life or death of our country.

Nicaragua is perhaps so backward and primitive that they don't know enough to believe in campaign promises.

Yours, WILL.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

Wonder who got the largest bag of rabbits on the first day of the hunting season. Come on nimrods, let's hear from you.

Several New Castle hunting parties have emigrated to their hunting lodges in the north central part of the state, to enjoy the first week of the hunting season.

Remember, when asking for the score of the New Castle High school game tomorrow, simply say "Score Please," and The News operator will give you the New Castle score.

The quickest way to mark your ballot, and get out of the way for other voters on next Tuesday is to mark an X for the straight Republican party ticket. Then you only have to mark the amendments and you are through. Voters must use all despatch possible to get through with voting on Tuesday, because of the immense number of votes that will be polled.

Remember, tomorrow is Booster Day at the New Castle High school football game. Part of the returns from the game will go to a fund to purchase new uniforms for the high school band. Be there.

While the west reports first blasts of winter, and heavy snows, weather conditions in New Castle moderated over night, and it is warmer today. Rain also fell during the night.

New Castle has much to offer tourists and many cities with half the interesting points have booklets in all motor club offices of other cities for their town. Many have expressed themselves of the opinion that New Castle should have such a book. The cost is not exorbitant and well worth the money.

There seems to be a friendly rivalry on which family has the greatest number of votes for Hoover. In this election it isn't the candidate, it's who has the largest family. North Beaver districts seem to have the blue ribbon so far. Two families located in those districts claim 35 and 28 respectively, which topples other records.

Booticians and cannedeeticians were handed a rap in the epiglotis last evening when Bishop Berry, noted temperance speaker, spoke in one of the local churches. From his remarks Pa Newc judges that Mr. Hoover is getting another vote. We forgot to ask how many votes he had in his family.

While we are still at it, mules are more human, more intelligent and more use than any other domesticated farm beast of burden, claims a

Capital Leaders Hurry To Homes To Cast Ballots

Washington Will Be Deserted Village Next Tuesday, Election Day

COOLIDGES TO GO TO MASSACHUSETTS

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON Nov. 2.—Official Washington will be deserted Tuesday, when the country is electing its 31st president.

President and Mrs. Coolidge will lead a general migration of cabinet members, officials and clerks to their homes to cast their ballots.

And those of officialdom who cannot for one reason or another leave the capital, have declared their intention of voting by mail.

The Coolidges leave on a special train for Northampton, Mass., where they maintain a legal residence. Vice President and Mrs. Dawes will cast their ballot in Illinois.

Secretary of State and Mrs. Kellogg, Secretary of Navy and Mrs. Wilbur and Secretary of Interior West will vote by mail.

Secretary of Treasury Mellon will vote in Pittsburgh. Secretary of War Dwight Davis already is in St. Louis, his home and will remain until after Tuesday. Mrs. Davis is abroad.

Postmaster General and Mrs. New will cast their vote in Indianapolis.

Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Davis will spend the week-end at their Pittsburgh home and vote there Tuesday.

No Time To Experiment With Government

(EDITORIAL)

On next Tuesday, voters of New Castle, Lawrence county, Pennsylvania, and the nation at large, will elect the next President of the United States, along with hundreds of other state and national officers.

The President elected at that time will be named for a period of four years.

This election is one of vital importance to every man or woman in New Castle and this western Pennsylvania district.

The New Castle News is interested in anything that is vital to the citizens of this district. It seeks to support and to encourage all those things which seem to be of benefit to these citizens. The interests of The New Castle News are bound together with the interests of the people of this city and district as a whole.

In the case of purely local elections, wherein normal conditions prevail, it has not been the policy of The News to attempt in any way to be dictatorial in the interest of any candidates.

Neither is it the aim of The News at this time to assume a dictatorial role. But, in the face of the situation that has developed in connection with the national campaign for President, The News believes that it would be recreant to its public duty if it did not, on the eve of this momentous election, present what seems to be the paramount interest of this western Pennsylvania district.

The most important thing before the electorate at the next Tuesday election is the welfare of the country and its individual citizens. The welfare of the entire country is a matter that is involved with the welfare of the individual districts.

And the welfare of the citizens of the United States and of our own western Pennsylvania are not things that are to be benefitted by snapping at some catch phrase, or some will-'o-the-wisp theory that may be handed out in the line of campaign bait.

This country came out of the crisis of the war depression and has gradually been brought back to a near normal basis by skillful leadership of the past few years. The nation is on the threshhold of a most prosperous era, it is predicted in many sources, and by many indications.

But, coincident with this fine outlook is the question as to whether or not this is possible of realization, unless we retain the capable and efficient leadership and general policy that has led up to it.

The News believes that it is no time for experimenting. The Republican party policies and leadership have been tried and found to be beneficial and not harmful to the country's welfare. It should be realized by men and women interested in industrial progress and prosperity of New Castle and this region that it does not take many bad ideas or experiments to slow up progress and destroy general prosperity.

It is a time to think seriously before voting.

There is danger at this time of many citizens being led to vote against their own welfare, and the welfare of this great industrial district, because of their misdirected enthusiasm for some of the side issues that have been developed during this hectic campaign.

You will have but one chance to vote, that is on next Tuesday, and it is the hope of The News that it will not be an occasion for four years of regret.

There have been injected into the campaign the matter of prohibition and of religion. Prejudice on either is likely to influence many voters on first thought. Prohibition is a matter that cannot be solved by the President, no matter who is elected. It will require an amendment to the United States constitution before there will be any real change in the prohibition situation. Are you going to jeopardize your country's welfare during the next four years for the mere purpose of registering your protest against the prohibition law? As to the question of religion, Republican leaders have time and again declared that it has no place in the campaign, and it is to be regretted that it has been given such emphasis in many parts of the country.

The tariff, immigration and a continuance of the present safe Republican policies are the principal issues of this campaign. A protective tariff should be high enough to keep the wages of the working people in this country from being destroyed by the incoming of cheap materials made in countries where wages are low. That is the Republican party aim. It is not merely coincidence that we have experienced industrial depression under Democratic revision of the tariff. This we cannot forget.

If the quota in the immigration law was brought up to a present day basis, as suggested in this campaign, not by the Republican party or candidate, thousands of more immigrants would come into this country than under the present law. This would be an undesirable thing for the country. It is said that there are more than 2,000,000 now wanting to come to this country from abroad.

Our present safe financial and other policies should be continued if we want continued prosperity. Herbert Hoover

Democratic Leaders Claim 258 Electoral Votes Are Certain

NEED 266 VOTES TO WIN ELECTION

Both Parties Concede Number Of States Are In Doubtful Class

By GEORGE R. HOLMES

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Hoover campaigning westward, seeking to bolster up real or fancied Republican weak spots in the grain belt—Smith fighting hard in the east, particularly to clinch his own New York. The Republicans drumming steadily away on the one issue of prosperity—the Democrats conducting a grand assault along half a dozen fronts, from prohibition to water power, from farm relief to religious intolerance.

Thus does the campaign draw near a close today, a campaign that has no parallel in American politics, and one as well that this near the end finds both parties confident of the result. The leaders of neither side can envision defeat next Tuesday, and, oddly enough, the confidence appears really genuine on both sides.

"Something is in the air," is the way Governor Smith puts it. "It means victory."

Predicts Victory.

"I cannot believe," said Herbert Hoover in Maryland last night, "that the American people wish to abandon those policies of government which have been maintained by the Republican party." This followed a flat prediction of Republican victory.

While Mr. Hoover steamed westward today, Governor Smith launched his final drive in New York. The Democratic finale embraces a big parade and two speeches, one in Brooklyn tonight, the other in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night. The Tammany hosts of New York plan to show the country New York's affection for "Al" in no uncertain manner in all three events.

Claims Of Parties.

The Republican managers have put out an electoral table that claims 285 electoral votes as Hoover's irreducible minimum. That number represents 19 more than the 266 necessary to win.

The Democrats have put out a similar table claiming 258 votes as Smith's rock bottom figure, with 81 more votes classes as "doubtful but leaning strongly to Smith." It is inconceivable to the Democratic managers that Governor Smith will fail to get a large part of this 31. Certainly, they say,

"Victory Special" Is Swinging Through Ohio, Kentucky And Indiana

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ON BOARD HOOVER SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE, Nov. 2.—Speeding westward, Herbert Hoover carried the Republican prosperity keynote into Ohio, Kentucky and Indiana today.

Happy over ovations accorded him throughout Maryland and West Virginia, the nominee and Dr. Hubert Work, Republican national chairman, swung into the Ohio valley with renewed confidence on the outcome of next Tuesday's Presidential balloting.

Victory Special

"The Victory Special" was the name given the Hoover train by his campaign managers aboard. Skirting Cincinnati, the special crossed the Ohio river into Kentucky this morning.

A stop of an hour and a half, with a street parade and a brief address, comprised Hoover's Louisville program, after which he was to head northward through Indiana for St. Louis, where he is to deliver his penultimate major campaign address tonight.

The first leg of Hoover's transcontinental journey to the ballot box was along the route of the historic Chesapeake and Ohio canal, which was surveyed in the early days of American nationhood by George Washington, and later became the center of

The candidates are beginning to tire, and their fight will soon close as you know, and you read many speeches both for and against, and heard them on your radio. They've told you the reason they wanted to win, and each were the best so they declare, and now its not long till the people decide who will sit in the president's chair. And I'll hazard a guess, though there's more in the race, I'll just add to this fight's heated blurb, that after election the man who will win, will either be Alfred or Herb. The others don't count in this race for the chair, and this fact they won't let you forget, get out to the polls just as soon as you can, its just forty-seven and wet.

Cars Collide At Moody Avenue

Mercer Street Corner Scene Of Another Accident This Morning

YOUNG MAN IS SOMEWHAT INJURED

Other Traffic Mishaps Are Reported To Police By Drivers

James McDevitt, aged 22, of New Castle, R. D. 2, sustained severe but not serious injuries of the hip shortly after eight o'clock this morning at the corner of Moody avenue and Mercer streets, when thrown from the car operated by his brother, when it was in a collision with the car driven by Mrs. H. J. Hope of 501 Bell avenue.

The injured man was removed to the Shenango Valley hospital immediately following the accident, where an X-ray picture was taken to determine the extent of his injuries. It was found that no bones were broken or injured and that his injury consisted of severe bruises of the hip.

According to the reports made to the police by both Mrs. Hope and L. M. McDevitt of R. D. No. 6, driver of the other car, both were driving carefully on account of the slippery condition of the streets and also the fact that there were numerous children en route to George Washington Junior High school.

Mrs. Hope was en route north on Mercer street, taking members of her family to George Washington Junior High. She slowed up for Moody avenue intersection, especially on account of school children crossing the street at that point. When she saw the McDevitt car, which was en route east on Moody avenue, she swung her machine in an effort to avoid the McDevitt car and her machine skidded on the slippery pavement, swinging into the McDevitt machine, the one young man being thrown out.

Report of L. M. McDevitt on the accident tallied with that of Mrs. Hope. Some damage was done to both machines.

Other Accidents

James A. Bell, 310 Elizabeth street, reported Thursday that he was going north on North Jefferson street, near Dean's gasoline station, and a car bearing Pennsylvania license 700-685, and driven by Mrs. Ruth Clausen, 804 Neshannock boulevard, was following his machine.

Mr. Bell pulled out to pass a truck going up the hill and Mrs. Clausen pulled out to pass his machine. According to Mr. Bell, Mrs. Clausen cut in before entirely past his machine, crowding his machine into the truck. Some damage was done. Mrs. Clausen in her report claims Mr. Bell cut to the left, causing the accident.

Mike Raich of Bessemer reported Thursday that he was driving south on South Mill street at Taylor street, when a truck of Alfonso Scarazzo, going south on South Mill street, made a left-hand turn onto Taylor street. Mr. Raich reports that he pulled to the right to give the truck room, but that they came together and some damage was done.

William Eckles of R. D. No. 4 reported Thursday that his machine was parked in front of the Eveready Inn, North Mercer street, when a machine bearing Pennsylvania license 906-771, en route north on North Mercer street, hit and damaged his car.

county farmer who has no use for horses. They will give a square deal if they get it. The trouble is they don't get one to return. They have a super intelligence. The old add simile "kicks like a mule", is something like that fable of Aesop's which tends to show that all farmers have chin whiskers and wear gum boots. Thus one agriculturist has declared himself on the mule question and says they are of more real benefit to a farm than the much touted farm relief.

Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh is to fly home from Mexico to St. Louis, in order to vote for Herbert Hoover.

Pa Newc is of the belief that the oldest car being used in the county is not over 16 years of age, if that. A horse soon goes when he reaches that ripe and mellow age, and if anyone has a car still running at that stage of maturity it may combat the old idea that a car may be as useful and necessary as a fire engine, but it will never take the place of a plug. If you have an ancient car, send a line to the gas buggy detective at The News.

Along with the faithful horse goes the pony. Few, if any, are seen any more. It used to be that every youngster who had a "well heeled" parent was the proud possessor of a knee-high pony. The coming of the automobile and increased traffic made it unsafe for the youngsters to perambulate ala Buffalo Bill on the highways and streets. Thus the passing of another institution in the American family.

ELFRIEDA KNAAK IS DEAD; STRANGE CASE UNSOLVED

Tried to Purge Self.

When he failed to keep the appointment, the girl said, an impulse to purge herself in the furnace fire overcame her.

According to her weird story, the girl disrobed and climbed to the mouth of the furnace, put her feet, then her arms and finally her head into the fiery pit. She was found, nude and horribly burned next morning in the basement near the furnace.

Throughout the long vigil at her bedside, attended by relatives, friends, Lake county authorities and private detectives, the girl had insisted that she told the whole truth, that no one but herself was to blame for her burns.

Believe Someone Shielded.

Despite her insistence, the authorities have exhausted every means to learn if any one else had a hand in the strange affair. Relatives believe the girl died shielding someone whom she loved. There are others, however, including private detectives, who have worked on the case day and night, convinced that the girl had told the truth.

The girl declared she felt no pain. And up to the hour of her death she gave no sign that she was in pain, despite her horrible burns. Physicians and psychiatrists, called into the baffling case, gave the opinion that the girl had hypnotized herself and was insensible to pain.

Hitchcock was taken to the girl's bedside several hours before she died. She had lapsed into a stupor. Hitchcock waited 45 minutes and finally the girl's eyes opened.

Recognizes Hitchcock.

"Oh Hitch," she said brokenly, and then her body writhed in agony—"the pain, the pain, the pain."

Presence of the man for whose love she claimed to have "purified" herself seemed to break the hypnotic spell that had kept her remarkably insensible to pain.

"Goodbye, Hitch—I'm going now."

That was her last conscious word.

May Have Been Doped.

Among the latest theories held by investigators was that Miss Knaak might have been burned elsewhere while unconscious or doped and then brought to the basement. Also, with this, they entertain the theory that there might be a woman in the case, a jealousy angle.

Miss Knaak was 30 years old and had attended the University of Chicago and the University of Illinois. She had taught school at Waukegan and was lately employed by a Chicago publishing concern.

Tries to Explain

The girl tried at the last moment to tell her brother and friends something which they believe might clear up the mystery.

Hitchcock, according to Elfrida's brother, Alvin, knelt at her bedside and asked her the prearranged question:

"Frieda, Freida, you didn't do this terrible thing yourself, did you?"

The girl showed that she was conscious. She looked into the eyes of the policeman.

"No," she whispered, so faintly he had to bend close to her lips to hear the whispered reply.

Council explained that sufficient funds are not available and the communication with the recommendation was sent to committee.

"Red" did not appear much interested in the many proposals of marriage from German girls. Apparently he has not turned his attention to matrimony, giving himself up for the moment to the delights of his new experience in a strange land and the interesting scenes about him.

Wants to Get Home

What "Red" wants more than anything else just now is to get back home in time to celebrate his birthday on November 20 with his sister, Mrs. Edna Hall, of St. Louis. This seemed more important to him today than the flood of telegrams and letters containing fabulous offers to exploit his sudden fame.

Not all the letters deal with business. Some offer him a good home for the news that he is an orphan has spread with the accounts of his aerial adventure.

Many German boys have written to Terhune asking his advice as to how to become Zeppelin stowaways. Judging from the number of these missives, the stowaway stunt bids fair to become quite a business in juvenile Germany.

It was understood that "Red" would first go to Stuttgart and Berlin to fix up the details of his passport difficulty. He plans then to go to Paris and London. He has already turned down one job—that of lion tamer with the Hagenback animal circus of Hamburg, which will soon go to the United States.

No Time To Experiment With Government

is a capable and safe leader for a continuation of those policies, while a change in leadership and policies would be a dangerous experiment at this time.

Many promises are made by the Democratic candidate that there will be no changes that will injure business or industry. That would remain to be seen, in the event of Democratic party success on next Tuesday. It is the people of the nation, the people of great industrial communities like New Castle, that would have to stand the brunt of the uncertainty that would ensue.

Do you want to share in such uncertainty? Do you believe it would be for the welfare of the nation and the individual? Once uncertainty as to future policies enters, the reaction of industry and business is bad.

It is no time to think of changing leadership if we have regard for our future welfare.

While there are numerous big problems to be settled by the next administration, such as that of farm relief, that is not directly a western Pennsylvania problem, everything that has been said during the campaign demonstrates that Herbert Hoover is the man to be at the helm to get a satisfactory solution of this pressing problem. Anyone can rush into this farm relief problem with a flood of promises, but solution is a matter that requires the great broad experience and understanding of a man of the calibre of Herbert Hoover.

While the nation's prosperity is not directly created by the government, yet the government policies and ways and spirit can foster and aid it, and by the same token can mar it. It is to be granted that either candidate elected would use his utmost efforts for the country's well-being and prosperity, but The News believes that Mr. Hoover and a Republican Congress are more certain to succeed in this endeavor than Governor Smith and a Democratic Congress.

Taking the situation as a whole, The News believes that the Republican plans and policies seem to be based upon established facts, rather than upon fantastic theories; upon experience rather than upon experiment; and those who have the interests of the country and themselves at heart will think carefully before they alter radically, through needless experiment, any of the conditions upon which the progress and prosperity of our country are based.

Herbert Hoover and the Republican party candidates should get an overwhelming verdict when the vote is cast in New Castle and Lawrence county.

G. O. P. LEADERS SAY 285 ELECTORAL VOTES ARE CERTAIN

he will get the eight necessary to bring his rock bottom figure of 258 up to the winning figure of 266.

The respective tables are interesting for comparison purposes, if for nothing else. Naturally, there are numerous conflicts.

G. O. P. Claims.

The states which the Republicans claim are "certain for Hoover" are: Arizona 3; California 13; Colorado 6; Connecticut 7; Delaware 3; Idaho 4; Illinois 29; Indiana 15; Iowa 13; Kansas 10; Maine 6; Michigan 15; Minnesota 12; Missouri 18; New Hampshire 4; New Jersey 14; North Dakota 5; Ohio 24; Oklahoma 10; Oregon 5; Pennsylvania 38; South Dakota 5; Utah 4; Vermont 4; Washington 7; West Virginia 8; Wyoming 3—total 285.

States that are conceded to Smith by the Republican tabulators of this table are:

Alabama 12; Arkansas 9; Florida 6; Georgia 14; Louisiana 10; Mississippi 10; North Carolina 12; South Carolina 9; Tennessee 12; Texas 20; Virginia 12—total 126.

The doubtful states are listed as Kentucky, 3; Maryland 8; Massachusetts, 18; Montana, 4; Nebraska, 8; Nevada, 3; New Mexico, 3; New York, 45; Rhode Island, 5; Wisconsin, 3—total, 120.

This table represents what the high-ups in the Republican management consider as their irreducible minimum, and beyond which Governor Smith cannot go. Most of them believe, or profess to believe, that Hoover's victory will be much greater than then 285 mentioned as rockbottom.

Democratic Claims.

Alabama, 12; Arkansas, 9; Florida, 6; Georgia, 14; Louisiana, 10; Mississippi, 10; North Carolina, 12; South Carolina, 9; Texas, 20; Virginia, 12; Tennessee, 12; New York, 45; Massachusetts, 18; Rhode Island, 5; Missouri, 18; Wisconsin, 13; Minnesota, 12; Montana, 4; Nevada, 3; Arizona, 3; New Mexico, 3; Nebraska, 8—total, 258.

Classed as doubtful by the Democratic tabulators but leaning strongly to Smith are these states: Connecticut, 7; New Jersey, 14; Maryland, 8; West Virginia, 8; Kentucky, 13; Oklahoma, 10; Indiana, 15; Colorado, 6—total 81.

Both sides claim Missouri's 18 electoral votes as certain for their man; both sides claim Minnesota's 12 as certain; both sides claim little Arizona's 3.

It will be noted that the Democrats classify as "doubtful but leaning to Smith" six of the states which the Republicans claim positively, Colorado, 6; Indiana, 15; Oklahoma, 10; West Virginia, 8; New Jersey, 14; and Connecticut, 7.

Similarly, the Republicans classify as doubtful eight states which the Democrats claim with great positiveness, Massachusetts, 18; Montana, 4; Nebraska, 8; Nevada, 3; New Mexico, 3; New York, 45; Rhode Island, 5 and Wisconsin, 13.

Barring landslides, it may well be that the answer to Tuesday's balloting will be found in these conflicts concerning the so-called doubtful states.

CROWDS CHEER HOOVER ALONG ROUTE OF TRIP

burned red flares at tiny weather-worn railroad stations as the Hoover train sped through. At Harpers Ferry, W. Va., symbol of another major episode of American history, a throng of several thousand cheered the candidate as he waved a friendly greeting from the rear platform of his car.

A similar reception greeted the special during its brief stop at Brunswick, Md. At Martinsburg, W. Va., approximately 10,000 persons met the train. Here, too, Hoover greeted the assemblage with cordial gestures from the rear platform.

Speaks in Kentucky

NORTH VERNON, Ind., Nov. 2—Herbert Hoover made a brief informal appeal for the 13 electoral votes of Kentucky when his westbound special train paused at Louisville for a short time today.

He drew enthusiastic applause from a throng which greeted him under threatening skies.

"I do not believe the American people in time of such manifest evidence of progress, assurance of peace, advancement of prosperity, advancement of education and moral forces would wish to change the policies of their government," Hoover declared after a review of Republican economic achievements since 1920. "The result of the election will affect the direction of our national thought and our national actions for many years to come."

Despite a heavy downpour in southern Ohio and Indiana the Hoover special train was greeted by large crowds at every station as it sped westward toward St. Louis, where Hoover will deliver a major campaign address tonight.

Proposed Change In Two Bridges

Plans For Bridge Widening Near Cascade Park Reach Commissioners

County Commissioners have received from the state highway department blueprints of the New Castle-Ellwood road in the vicinity of Cascade Park. The blueprints are for the purpose of showing the requirements with reference to changes in the bridge over Big Run at the park and the bridge over the railroad tracks.

It is proposed to widen these bridges to conform with the width of the road. Improvements have been completed on the road up to the bridges on each side.

Urges That Church Debris Be Removed

Claims First U. P. Church Debris And Brick Column Danger To Public

Councilman Walter V. Tyler today declared in council during the session that the ruins of the First United Presbyterian church are hazardous to pedestrians and auto traffic in alleys and streets adjacent to the building, which was destroyed by fire. As a result City Solicitor White informed council he would dispatch Inspector Dysart to confer with J. Clyde Gilfillan, owner of the property with a purpose of eliminating the alleged hazard.

"I notice the ruins of the fire" remarked Tyler. "People are using the alley, likewise automobiles which are stored there. I think some action should be taken against loss of lives."

"It was reported to us that the alley would be barricaded" replied Reeves, superintendent of the streets department.

"I am afraid that a heavy wind will blow the brick down" said Tyler.

"They claim it is not dangerous" Mayor Gillespie stated.

"I'll ask Henry Dysart to get something moving on it" informed Solicitor White who handles legal questions.

"I understand Gilfillan is going to buy it and take it out" Councilman Reeves declared.

"The fire occurred almost a year ago and the brick is still there but I'm willing to ride along with White," answered Tyler.

CHEST WORKERS MEET TONIGHT AT CATHEDRAL

The Cathedral, each one will report such an amount that the success of the drive will be assured.

Has Faith In City.

Mrs. Johnson still has faith in New Castle. She still feels that the people as a whole, and the some 1,000 who make up the list of advance givers will not desert the chest at this time.

These were the sentiments she expressed at a joint meeting of the boards of directors of the Chamber and Commerce and Community Chest, that took place at noon today. At this time, the list of advance givers was gone over thoroughly, and plans were made to see if these people could not be persuaded to subscribe in the same amount as they did last year.

"People know about the need of it the agencies, and yet they refuse to give," commented Herbert Peairs, the director of the drive, immediately before the meeting. "They must realize that the chest must be filled; that the work of the agencies must go on for the glory of New Castle. We cannot fail. When the teams report this evening, I feel rather sure that the budget will be subscribed."

A torchlight parade in honor of the crew of the Graf was the tribute of the townsfolk to the sailors of the air.

The officers and passengers of the Zeppelin were feted at a banquet at the Kurgarten hotel. Dr. Eckener, in an after-dinner speech told of the airship's bitter struggle with the elements while off the coast of Newfoundland.

He made a plea for the building of larger and more powerful airships. He stated that such ships were necessary to provide a greater margin of safety against he vicious onslaughts of Atlantic storms.

He painted a vivid picture of the storm encountered southeast of Cape Race and explained how carefully he and his subordinate officers had to handle the ship to prevent possible disaster.

DISCOVERY NIGHT STARTS AT CAPITOL ELECTION NIGHT

Discovery Night and Election Night will come together at the Capitol Theatre. The management of the theatre announced today that the Discovery Nights, which were so popular last year, will begin again this season on Tuesday night, November 6th. In addition, the management has arranged to bulletin election returns until late Tuesday night.

All local talent wishing to try out back of the footlights is asked to register at the Capitol Theatre before 9:00 o'clock Monday evening, November 5. Singers, dancers, jugglers, anything at all, if you want a chance before the footlights, come down and get in the Discovery Night program at the Capitol next Tuesday evening.

On Monday evening the usual Diamond ring will be given away. Every admission stub has a number on it and on Monday night the numbers of all week will be shuffled together and the lucky number drawn out will win a beautiful diamond ring.

Parents who want to give the youngsters a treat are urged to bring the kiddies down to The Capitol to see Nolly Tate, famous clown and his trained dogs. Also three other splendid acts including Fox Lorraine's Serenaders, one of the biggest acts in vaudeville today.

Election Boards! Count Election Before Amendments

Election boards in this city will be faced with a severe test on Tuesday November 6 when what is expected to be the heaviest vote in this county in years will be cast.

If the boards count all the ballot before passing on to the next it will be late when the returns for president are available.

In order to assist in getting the returns for the elective offices, it is suggested that the vote for president and the other offices be counted on all ballots and announced. Then count the amendment votes.

Election judges are asked to call The News when they have their totals and thus assist this paper in giving the people of this county the most complete returns possible.

School Day Shoes

For Children of Every School Age

It is very important that children's feet be comfortable, especially in the school room where little minds are working on problems that require concentration. When a child's feet are not comfortable the mind is distracted and the child becomes restless. Our children's shoes are corrective as well as protective and conducive to concentration.

National Republican Ticket

FOR PRESIDENT
HERBERT C. HOOVER, of California

FOR VICE PRESIDENT
CHARLES CURTIS, of Kansas

ONE CROSS DOES THE WHOLE BUSINESS

THE ballot which the voter will be handed next week Tuesday is of mammoth proportions. But that need not bother him. All he need do is to make a single cross like this:

REPUBLICAN | X

He will then have voted for the Hoover electors and for the entire Republican ticket.

The fourteen proposed Constitutional amendments are another matter. Each one of these must be voted on separately.

EARLY CHRISTMAS SHOPPING

IF THE repetition of a slogan with increasing emphasis year after year has had any noticeable effect in the formation of a commendable habit this is the time when evidences of early Christmas shopping should manifest themselves. Every available device for memory jogging is being pressed into service. Advertisements and letters bear the admonition "Do Your Christmas Shopping Now."

There can be no doubt that many of the objectionable features of late Christmas buying in recent years through application of this slogan have very materially been eliminated. The early shopper needs no proof that he is benefiting others by his prompt attention to Christmas buying. Store clerks are especially grateful for the relief afforded by spreading out the holiday shopping season. Postal workers are equally grateful for the extension of the rush season and the advancement of eleventh-hour mailing of Christmas packages.

THE USE OF REAL NAMES IN FICTION

THE action of a man in Kentucky who has brought suit against Edna Ferber for using his name in her latest novel brings to mind one of the most perplexing phases of the novelist's art. In this case the person in question complains that he has been placed in an unfavorable light, and the description of the character resembles him to such a degree that his reputation has suffered among his neighbors. The defense of the novelist is that the incident described is purely imaginary and that the name was taken at random, and with no thought that such a person actually existed. Nevertheless, the offended one wants $25,000 damage and an injunction restraining the further sale of the book.

The attorney for Miss Ferber takes the ground that if the use of real names were banned it would be practically impossible to publish any books. He says this would be especially true of biographies and of books such as Mark Sullivan's "Our Times," Tarbell's history of the Standard Oil Company and Werner's "Tammany Hall." But the chief contention, of course, has to do with works of pure fiction. Where are the novelists to get their names? Scores of them utilize the more familiar ones such as Smith, Brown and Jones. In such cases it is impossible to avoid treading on the corns of large numbers of real persons. In other cases writers seek for unusual titles.

The novelist's lot is not a happy one at best, but if the creator of fiction is to be held to account every time he or she uses a name that can be found in the telephone book or the directory, novelists are likely to be terribly circumscribed.

SECRET BORROWING

THERE should be a law against a husband borrowing without the knowledge of his wife, and similar restriction should be put on the women folk, thinks the manager of a loan association.

Well, now, how about that? Some of the most wonderful surprises of married life are sprung because one member of the team drives up in a new Ford, or because there is a fine gold watch on the Christmas tree.

On the other side of the slate, there is many and many a heartache because a man is found to have borrowed so deeply that the wealth he is supposed to have accumulated simply isn't there when his affairs are settled.

The making of a loan for a secret purpose without the knowledge of one's life partner, generally bespeaks distrust. And domestic discord over financial matters can have no more fertile breeding soil. The best way, after all, is for married people truly to live as one. That's what they get married for.

Beautiful Prosperity.
Reality, Or Myth?
A Happy Stowaway.
Germans Work Hard.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

According to Mr. Raskob and other Republicans converted to Democracy, our prosperity is "a myth." It is a pleasant myth for many, including owners of 24,000,000 automobiles now running in this country and buyers of 5,000,000 odd new cars made in 1928.

President Coolidge says prosperity is real. He told his cabinet on Tuesday, that conditions are ever better than they were a year ago. The fact that a national election has caused no setback, most unusual occurrence, pleases him.

Also, the President says government revenues collected next March will exceed all estimates and make any deficit impossible.

Absence of business disturbance in this election is due partly to the fact that both candidates please big business.

There are also cold facts and figures that disturb the "myth" theory. Tomorrow's distributions of dividends and interest will total $350,000,000 in cash, a new November record, to say nothing of large stock dividends, as good as cash, and not subject to income tax.

Many will say "if our prosperity is a myth, please don't disturb the myth."

When Mr. Sloan, practical man, says "pleasant surprise," he means money, or stock dividend. That's another part of the prosperity "myth."

The meaning of the word "prosperity" is often misunderstood.

It means sending children to high school, instead of sending them to work.

The French will not fail to think hard having seen that weight-carrying airship above them.

Young Terhune, the stowaway caddie on the airship, knows that it pays to be audacious. He says to this newspaper's correspondent on the airship: "I don't care if they send me home in irons, I am satisfied."

The boy will find fame and large earnings awaiting him in Germany. Hotels are anxious to entertain him, free of charge, and German movie managers await him with fine cash offers. He will screen well; courage always does.

Bacon in his essay on "boldness," writes, "There is in human nature generally more of the fool than of the wise; and, therefore, those faculties by which the foolish part of men's minds is taken are most potent.

"Wonderful like is the case of boldness in civil business; what first-Boldness. What second and third? Boldness . . . It doth fascinate, and bind hand and foot those that are either shallow in judgment, or weak in courage, which are the greatest part: yea, and prevaileth with wise men at times."

Ninety per cent of business and political success is boldness. And 90 per cent of failure is rashness.

Having proved Zeppelin success, across the Atlantic, Germany's engineers and builders are now testing huge hydroairplanes, destined for ocean flights.

For a nation forbidden by the Versailles treaty to build a hostile air fleet, Germany is doing well. She leads the world, by a wide margin in commercial aircraft.

And commercial aircraft can drop TNT and poison gas, quite easily.

An emergency board named by President Coolidge to consider railroad wages, suggests 6½ per cent increase for 66,000 trainmen. There is another straw in the wind of prosperity, and welcome. Railroad men are underpaid, from top to bottom, especially conductors, engineers and others bearing the main load of responsibility.

Railroad men live everywhere, and what they earn goes back into immediate circulation.

Men who want to sell insurance now have to go through a test at Harrisburg. One hundred and eleven applicants for permits failed in the tests a few days ago. According to that anybody cannot sell insurance now. Some changes in life insurance agents could be made for the better.

A local bimbo was carrying a jug of "moon" on Jefferson street yesterday when a couple of perpetual Washington street loafers saw him and one said "There goes a jug of moving pictures."

Men seldom strike for increased pay if the boss rides in a four-year-old car.

Part of the proceeds of the football game in this city Saturday goes towards buying new uniforms for the Higs School band. As this seems to be the only way the band will get the uniforms it's up to all to go to the game. It ought to be a rule for the president of the school board to keep the boys in uniforms. Sweet pertater!

Senator Heflin says he will vote against Gov. Smith if he gets read out of the Democratic party. He had better be careful as down in Ole Alabam they cannot register as a Democrot or Republican and then vote the opposite like they do around here. You are either a Democrat or nothing. And that is a good thing for the Republican party in the south.

Twelve bus drivers have been called into Harrisburg by the Highway Department of Pennsylvania to give some reason why their licenses should not be revoked on account of their continual violation of the automobile laws. This sounds mighty katish.

The News has always been a Republican newspaper. It believes in the principles of the Republican party and this is because this country has been built up by that great party. The Democratic party always made trouble in this country.

SPECIAL INDUCEMENT

"Tommy," said a young woman visitor at his home, "why not come to our Sunday school? Several of your little friends have joined us lately."

Tommy hesitated a moment. Then suddenly: "Does a red-headed kid named Jimmy Brown go to your school?"

"Yes, indeed," replied the new teacher.

"Well, then," replied Tommy with an air of interest, "I'll be there next Sunday, you bet. I've been looking for him for three weeks and never knew where to find him."

A Pittsburgh lady, married in 1926, wants a divorce from her husband because he married her by fraud. Most every wife could bring such a charge after being married awhile but few do because they do not want to have the laugh on them and they just suffer in silence. There is more fraud in the getting married business than in anything else because in every case at least one of the contracting parties get stung and often both of them do.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

THE PERPETUAL SUBJECT.

With funds raised by the Knights of Columbus, there is being erected on the campus of the University of Santa Clara, in California, a $100,000 weather observatory intended as a memorial to Father Jerome S. Ricard, S. J., who is affectionately known throughout California as "The Padre of the Rains."

After more than a quarter century of the study of sun spots, Father Ricard, who is now 75 years of age, has devised an original system of forecasting for Pacific Coast States a month in advance. He does not attempt day-to-day forecasting, but attempts to predict general weather conditions about a month before they occur.

With the improved scientific equipment which the new observatory will provide, Father Ricard hopes to improve the accuracy of his forecasts, which are attracting much scientific attention.

The "weather" will never cease to interest the human. If he knows nothing about why the sun shines or why the clouds roll about, he can always talk about "the weather."

"Fair and Warmer."

Debate On Socialism Charge Lively Incident Of Campaign

Republican Opinion Generally Supports Mr. Hoover's Position, While Democrats Hotly Resent Attack On Governor Smith

A long distance debate between Mr. Hoover and Governor Smith on the charge of the former that the New York executive has indorsed socialistic ideas has been made one of the outstanding incidents of the presidential campaign. The particular policies involved relate to farm relief, water power and prohibition, on which a general editorial debate was opened up by the Hoover speech in New York followed by the Smith speech in Boston.

The glorification of individual initiative which the NEW YORK TIMES (Ind.) finds in the Hoover utterance impels that paper to suggest that the Republican candidate agrees with Jefferson in the belief that "the functions of the government at Washington should be reduced to a minimum," and The Times concludes: "Old-fashioned Democrats might well welcome Mr. Hoover as a recent convert to their faith. What reception it will have among orthodox Republicans, with their paternalistic shrines, the future may reveal."

Both speakers get scant approval from the CHICAGO DAILY NEWS (Ind.), which observes: "They admit many exceptions to the principle of personal or local freedom and non-interference with business. Both are pragmatic and practical. Neither consequently is justified in throwing stones at the other." Also criticising both candidates, the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION (Ind.), after stating that Governor Smith "made a clever reply," comments: "State socialism is a vague term, and calling a given program 'socialistic' is not an argument. The question is whether it has merit and will work to the ultimate benefit of the public. Apply these tests to the farm relief and prohibition modification proposals of Governor Smith, it does seem that he is promising more that he can accomplish."

"Mr. Hoover's speech contains the clearest and fullest exposition of the evils of government in private business that we have ever heard or read," declares the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE (Ind.), yet the ATLANTA JOURNAL (Dem.), holding that Mr. Hoover "kept carefully away from the issues," contends that "his New York address stands unparalleled as an example of the art of words without meaning."

"Hoover's address was a broad statement of political philosophy. It was a striking presentation of the reasons for American progress and American prosperity," in the opinion of the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR (Rep.), and the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS (Ind. Dem.) argues as to its subject that "experience has proved that government in business leads to stagnation, stifles initiative and fosters corruption." On the other hand, citing Governor Smith's Boston references to Republican leaders whose views were similar to his own, the BROOKLYN DAILY EAGLE (Ind.) and MONTGOMERY ADVERTISER (Dem.) assert that the Smith counter-attack was "devastating to Mr. Hoover." The CHATTANOOGA TIMES (Ind. Dem.) also credits the Democratic candidate with having "bowled over the Republican nominee and riddled his New York speech."

"In the comment on the address there is wide agreement that the appeal was one of the most forceful Mr. Hoover has presented," says the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE (Rep.), while the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS (Ind.) commends it as "a brilliant contribution to political economy and constructive statesmanship," and the MORGANTOWN NEW DOMINION (Ind.) believes that "to sound political economy by wise political statesmanship Herbert Hoover points the way and we believe the only true way."

Upon the other side of the question, the ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH (Ind.) asserts: "Mr. Hoover set up a straw man, a socialistic bugaboo, to frighten business, and then knocked it down to prove that he and his own party were the only defenders of our present industrial, commercial and social system. It was a demagogic effort that will fool only the unthinking." The NEWARK EVENING NEWS (Ind.) comments on the Smith reply: "He made the charges hurled by Mr. Hoover rebound, proving that they fit Mr. Hoover's own party associates. Mr. Hoover was made to appear either unaware or unappreciative of the extent to which his party has taken up with the socialistic idea he abhors and which he tried to fasten on Mr. Smith."

"Mr. Hoover took an hour and a half to say that he holds to the general theory of government held by the large majority of the American people, irrespective of party," insists the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS (Ind. Dem.).

Confidence in Mr. Hoover's policies and their relation to prosperity and general progress is expressed by the LOS ANGELES EXPRESS (Rep.) and ROCHESTER DEMOCRAT AND CHRONICLE (Rep.). Support of his belief that private enterprise rather than government action is necessary to the welfare of the country is given by many papers, including the OAKLAND TRIBUNE (Rep.), INDIANAPOLIS STAR (Ind. Rep.), HARTFORD COURANT (Ind. Rep.), and MANCHESTER UNION (Ind. Rep.).

Smith supporters give special emphasis to the power question. "When the federal government or the states owning these dam sites insist upon developing and utilizing them for themselves," according to the NASHVILLE BANNER (Ind.), "Mr. Hoover calls it state socialism. When the power trust uses its vast wealth to buy with bribe money politicians or attorneys of influence, to invade the schools of the land and the like—and the facts are well known—the Republican candidate finds no words of denunciation."

"Governor Smith stands," avers the OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (Ind.), "for economic equality for agriculture under the protective system, for public ownership of the public's water power, and for local self-government in matters of sumptuary legislation. Herbert Hoover abhors these proposals as 'state socialism' that would cause the downfall of the republic. It will be a good thing to have a count of noses on that."

The importance of opposing power interests is stressed by the SIOUX CITY TRIBUNE (Ind.), and ASHEVILLE TIMES (Ind. Dem.), while the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL (Ind.) declares that: "The pretense that the nation is facing the abandonment of the principles of 150 years is to everyone within the sound of Mr. Hoover's voice only a campaigner's trick." The BALTIMORE EVENING SUN (Ind. DEM.) regrets that "Mr. Hoover departed from the candor and directness that mark the rest of his speech and descended to misrepresentation of the difference between himself and his opponent."

"He might have done better," advises the CHARLESTON EVENING POST (Ind. Dem.), "to have yelled 'Bolshevism', since that has a more horrific sound and would have been more effective, just as Dr. Johnson aroused the indignation of a fishwife by calling her a 'prepositon'." Denial of any socialism in the governor's policies is made by the SPRINGFIELD REPUBLICAN (Ind.), and LITTLE ROCK ARKANSAS DEMOCRAT (Dem.) The HOUSTON CHRONICLE (Dem.) concludes: "The name 'state socialism' is the stock and trade of the professional lobbyist. A paid lobbyist does not have to think. It is not his business to analyze. Patriotic consideration is no part of his equipment."

Opposition to government ownership is strongly expressed. "It has been a more or less popular doctrine," says the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN (Ind. Rep.), "ever since the days of Bryan oratory. But it never has stood the test." Similar condemnation comes from the SEATTLE DAILY TIMES (Ind. Rep.), CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL (Ind. Rep.), CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE (Rep.), WORCESTER TELEGRAM (Ind.) and OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN (Ind.).

THE OLYMPIC GAMES

Whether or not you like sports, whether or not football and baseball bore you, and whether or not, like the Englishman, you want to go out and kill something if it's a fine day, the Olympic games ought to appeal to you.

In olden times these contests were only for the Greeks and their small world.

Since then we have developed a world consciousness and it is a good thing for the youth of the world to gather from all the seven seas and test their strength.

These contests are a remarkable international occurrence. It is much better for Americans and Japanese to contend in pole vaulting than to fight one another in war.

After all, sport is about the best substitute for war. And if we are going to stop war it must be, in accordance with William James' idea, to find some other outlet for superfluous enthusiasm.

These games also get a good deal of the nonsense out of us. Children on the playground never seem to think that playing with a negro or a Chinese is any different from playing with a white boy or girl.

And if our young men compete in friendly games we are not long in finding out that English blood is no better than Scandinavian or German blood no better than Algerian.

God made us all and what God made no man should call common.

These athletes do not meet as Freshmen against Englishmen nor as Americans against Finlanders, but as men against men.

We have already learned that in the business world free competition is a good guarantee against war. War anywhere injures the pocketbook of the world. It is a good thing also to know that sports are international, and to have somewhere some arena in which the various tribes of the world can meet in friendly contest.

Anciently war was a game as well as a business and it was about the only thing in which the adventurous youth could find scope for his abilities. The knight of old enjoyed the jousts and tourneys, and battles were the sport of kings.

These amusements were dangerous and deadly. It is much better to meet in the friendly arena of the Olympic games.

After all, play comes very near being the common denominator of human activity.

Graf Zeppelin Found Perfect By Examination

Despite Two Severe Storm Periods, Big Air Liner Found In Good Condition

SHIP'S MOTORS IN GOOD SHAPE

Dr. Eckener Indicates Graf Zeppelin Will Be Used As "School Ship"

By O. D. TOLISCHUS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 2. — Despite the fact she had ridden through two gales and traversed more than 4,000 miles of air between Lakehurst, N. J., and this airport, the trans-Atlantic dirigible Graf Zeppelin was found today to be in perfect condition.

"Inspection of the ship's motors revealed everything in good order in spite of the strain to which they were subject," said Capt. Lehmann, executive officer of the air liner. "The repairs made upon the Graf at Lakehurst were perfect."

It is understood that there has been a slight rearrangement of Dr. Hugo Eckener's plans and that the Graf will probably go to Berlin on Monday for a one-day visit.

Asked about a report published by the Berlin newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung that the Graf would not be used again as a trans-Atlantic passenger liner but would be converted into a school ship, Dr. Eckener said:—

"We need four big airships for trans-Atlantic air service, and the Graf Zeppelin will not be among these. But this does not mean that the Graf might not make another trip to America. Meanwhile we shall use the Graf for touring trips and also for a school ship."

Distribution Of Ballots Under Way

Additional Booths And Ballot Boxes Are Being Sent To Large Voting Precincts

County commissioners office at the court house today looks like some kind of a wholesale house with election supplies and ballots stacked about in all available space. The bundles of ballots are done up in heavy brown paper and the other supplies are in pasteboard boxes. Election officials are coming in after the ballots. The greater part of them will have been distributed by tomorrow evening and the balance on Monday.

The commissioners are sending out additional booths and ballot boxes to the large precincts, particularly the fourth of the second ward and the two big precincts in Ellwood City. There are several other precincts in which additional booths are being erected. The commissioners are instructing election officials to call in on Tuesday if it is found that ballot boxes will not hold the ballots. A few boxes will be held in reserve to meet emergencies.

French Causes Consternation At Bar Of Ritz

Bartender Looks Blank As Customer Uses French Language

"SMART SET" ARE SPEAKING ENGLISH

Only South Americans Use French Language At Capital City

By WILLIAM IVY
(Copyright, 1928, by The New Castle News.)

PARIS, Nov. 2—This month's "Boulevardier" pictures the consternation created in the Ritz bar when a customer addressed the bartender in French.

"Un whisky and soda," said the customer. The bartender glared back uncomprehendingly, a waiter dropped a tray of cocktails, and the habitues seated at nearby tables went into a state of collapse.

Personally I think the cartoon is a gross exaggeration. I don't believe anybody ever spoke French in the Ritz bar.

Still, the "Boulevardier" is supposed to know about such things. It is the Parisian wise-cracking magazine built on the plan of the "New Yorker", and usually accepted as an authority on racing, polo, dining at Ciro's, and other occupations of the international smart set.

A great many Frenchmen—and French women—belong to this set, of course, but they all speak English, and excellent English at that.

So the language of the Ritz bar between 5 and 8 p. m.—which are the correct hours if you want to meet the "real" people—is necessarily English, and any monoglot Frenchman who wandered in there—supposing that unlikely event should happen—would feel decidedly lonesome.

There are some so-called "American bars", of course, where French is spoken a good deal. These are the bars frequented mainly by Argentinians. Argentinians who come to Paris all speak perfect French, but no English, and they are doing a great deal to keep the French language alive in the cocktail belt.

But for some inscrutable reason the Argentine element does not frequent the Ritz, and therefore the "French invasion" of mixed-drink emporiums has not spread to the well known establishment on the Rue Cambon, and does not seem likely to.

New Face Powder Popular

MELLO-GLO is a wonderful new shade—youth color. Perspiration hardly affects it and it will not leave the skin dry and drawn. Try this new French Process Face Powder and enjoy its marvelous beautifying qualities. Sticks well, stays on longer and does not clog the pores. You will surely love MELLO-GLO. PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A GOOD GUESS

"'I don't know how you feel about it, but this is certainly the country for me,' remarked Sacred Ibis to Scarlet, in a satisfied tone. 'Plenty to eat, lots of water to cool ourselves off in, Two-Legs that worship us—why, we might travel all the rest of our lives and never find another like it! It suits me perfectly.

"'Here I am, and here I intend to remain. The next thing to think about is a wife. I wonder where I shall find one? Doubtless there are plenty of lady-birds in this land, and one of these fine days I shall go a-courting, and then I and my mate will build a nest, go to housekeeping and live happy ever afterwards.'

"'Don't count your chickens before they are hatched, brother,' replied Scarlet Ibis. 'I have not seen a single bird except ourselves since we alighted here. But I like the land, all right, myself, and I intend to stay here, too, at least as long as the food remains plentiful.

"'What do you suppose will happen when the waters go down again? Will there be anything for us to eat then?'

"'Time enough for us to worry about that when it happens.' Sacred Ibis was really a very wise bird and now he made a good guess.

"'I expect that when the waters are tired of running about wherever they will, they will be glad enough to return to their course between the banks and when they flow back they will probably leave a lot of mud and moisture behind them.

"'Now I have it! I'll bet you anything that I know why the Two-Legs were praying to the Spirit of the Nile. They knew that if he sent the waters over the land it would make the land very rich. When he calls the waters back the Two-Legs will plant seeds in the damp mud and these will grow to be strong healthy plants and then when they are harvested there will be enough for all the peoples to eat.

"'Mercy! How hot this sun is. I am becoming so sleepy that I can hardly keep my head up. I simply cannot make my eyes stay open a minute longer.'

"Nor indeed did he, nor for that matter, did his companion.

"SACRED IBIS AND HIS BROTHER WERE SOUND ASLEEP"

Next—"They Call Him 'Father John.'"

EQUIPMENT DEMAND BEATS WAR TIME

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 2.—An unusually heavy demand for oil well equipment has resulted in the largest number of employes in the plant's history being carried on the payroll of the Imperial works of the Oil Well Supply company here, officials of the works said today. The demand for oil well supplies, it was said, was even greater than during the World War boom.

RICHMAN'S CLOTHES

THERE are no short cuts to the value peak established by Richman's Clothes—it has taken half a century's continuous effort to develop the immense buying power, the efficient manufacturing facilities and methods, and the 34 store sales volume necessary to produce and sell clothes so smartly styled, so rich in quality of materials, so fine in workmanship, at $22.50.

Under no other circumstances would it be possible to give value such as you will see in the new suits and overcoats we now offer at this price.

Direct from the Richman factories to you without a middleman's profit—one price, only, for any suit, overcoat, or tuxedo suit you choose.

OVERCOATS of the finest quality, and in the greatest variety, we have ever produced—Box, Raglan, Ulster, Chesterfield and Trench models in luxuriously warm fabrics of rich texture and tested wearing qualities—every fashionable pattern, shade and mixture, including deep blues and Oxford grays with velvet collars—all sizes and proportions.

SUITS in authentic single and double-breasted styles—silk decorated worsteds and cassimeres in the new shades of brown, gray and blue; twist weaves in colorful mixtures; sturdy cheviots in conservative shades—all tailored with painstaking care by skilled workers who own a $6,000,000.00 interest in this business—a complete range of sizes in all models.

Insurgent-Controlled Senate Is Likelihood

Next President May Have To Deal With Senate Packed Insurgent Group

Situation In House More Satisfactory, As Political Faith Rules

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The next president of the United States will have to deal with an insurgent-controlled senate and a house probably of his own political faith, it was indicated today by reports reaching headquarters of both parties.

The insurgents, with seven members of their senatorial bloc continuing in office and four more reasonably certain of re-election, will have a group just as strong in the next congress as in the remaining session of the seventieth. Consequently, their group appears certain to dominate legislation for another two years at least.

To overthrow insurgent control, the Republican party would have to elect twenty-two "regulars" in the 35 senatorial contests staged next Tuesday. For the Democrats to secure a reliable majority, they would have to win 24 seats, exclusive of their own insurgents. To accomplish either task, the winning party would be performing a political miracle.

The house situation lines up differently. An overwhelming victory either for Herbert Hoover or for Governor Alfred E. Smith undoubtedly would carry with it a house of the same political faith. Smith, however faces the more difficult task, as his party must overcome a forty-vote Republican majority in the present house.

Election Returns At Dinner Event

Arrangements Made For Election Night Service At Cathedral Dinner

EXPECT AT LEAST 1,500 WILL ATTEND

Election returns, both by radio and special telegraph wire will be received at the Consistory dinner to be held at The Cathedral next Tuesday evening. The returns will be secured as quickly as it is possible to receive them from every section of the United States. It will be seen that the crowd attending the dinner and dance will know as soon as people in New York or California who has been chosen president of the United States.

Indications point to one of the largest crowds that has yet attended one of these functions on hand to enjoy the excellent program that has been arranged for the occasion.

John G. Jones, is chairman of the entertainment committee and those on the inside say it is one of the best yet provided for these dinner dances. The committee will not talk out loud in regard to the entertainment arranged but promises it will eclipse all past efforts.

Patch in Charge.

Rex Patch of the Pennsylvania Radio corporation has charge of the election returns and anyone knowing Rex knows he never does things by halves. A special telegraph wire will be run into the cathedral building and an operator will type the returns as fast as they are received. One of the best radios possible will be installed and from the minute the returns are received they will be secured at the cathedral.

Special features will also mark the dance. A special orchestra will be on hand to dispense the music for the occasion.

The committee in charge of the affair is arranging to care for 1500 people, members of the Consistory and their guests, and after returns are made for that number it will be impossible to accommodate any more, so it is urged that persons desiring to attend should not neglect to send in their reservations at once.

Word has been received from Washington, Waynesburg, Carnegie, Meadville, Oil City, Franklin, Beaver Falls, Ambridge, Indiana, Kittanning, Sharon, Butler, Midland, Greensburg and even Somerset requesting reservations. It is believed that most cities within 100 miles of New Castle will be represented.

The entertainment committee is composed of John G. Jones, chairman; Harry Urmson, William E. Porter, B. H. Kannenburg, Louis B. Round, Robert K. White, C. H. Young, Robert J. Lowery, William H. Kleckner, Dan Woolcock, John M. Wallace, Jos. S. Rice, Ralph M. Campbell, David J. Jones, Charles F. Morrow and M. D. Wells.

The reception committee is composed of Howard B. Richards, chairman, and the following: Thomas W. Dickey, C. Ed Brown, D. O. Davies, W. O. Williams, William H. Wood, Nelson Schmidt, Albert B. Street, Howell T. Getty, Dr. John McConahy, Jacob Rentz, Bart Richards, Dr. H. E. Zerner and Frank W. Wallace.

FATHER OF 5 HELD AS GIRL KIDNAPER

IRONTON, O., Nov. 2.—James Fuller, of Burlington, near here, was held to the Lawrence county grand jury here on a charge of kidnaping Nellie Johnson, 16, from her home at North Kenova, on October 1.

Fuller is 45, married, and has five children.

The girl charges Fuller and an unknown companion forced her into a car on October 1 and transported her to Huntington, W. Va., where she was held captive for twelve days.

On October 12 she escaped from her rooming house prison and returned home. Fuller was arrested on the kidnaping charge this morning.

25 Cities "Place" 3 To 1 On Hoover

Odds In Favor Of G. O. P. Nominee Are Longer In Larger Localities

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Newspaper compilations of betting odds in 25 representative American cities show that Herbert Hoover is favored over Gov. Smith to win next Tuesday's election at odds averaging better than 3 to 1.

The betting odds vary considerably in the different communities and apparently are affected by many influences. Generally the odds in favor of Hoover are longer in the larger cities.

Betting in New York showed no signs of a vigorous increase today. It has been much below other elections because of the chaotic issue and the attitude of the women voters.

Wagers here average about 4 to 1, with numerous estimates striking an average of total betting in Wall street on the national result of $4,000,000 by election day.

Four years ago, the odds on Coolidge were 4 to 1 at this stage. Money on F. D. Roosevelt to win the New York gubernatorial race was at 8 to 5 today.

The states recording even money betting on the state result were New York, Kentucky, Wisconsin, Maryland, Tennessee, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Virginia, Missouri, Alabama and Ohio.

Ashville	4 to 1	Little Rock	3 to 1
Atlanta	4 to 1	Milwaukee	2½ to 1
Baltimore	3 to 1	Nashville	3 to 1
Birmingham	3 to 1	New Orleans	3 to 1
Boston	4 to 1	New York	4 to 1
Chicago	3 to 1	Okla. City	2 to 1
Cleveland	3 to 1	Omaha	2 to 1
Detroit	2½ to 1	Philadelphia	2½ to 1
Indianapolis	3 to 1	Richmond	3½ to 1
Jacksonville	4 to 1	Salt Lake City	2 to 1
Jersey City	4 to 1	San Antonio	4½ to 1
Kansas City	3 to 1	San Franc'co	3½ to 1
Louisville	3 to 1

Methodist Pastors Of New Castle District To Meet

Annual Fall Meeting To Take Place In New Wilmington M. E. Church Nov. 9

The annual fall meeting of the New Castle district of the Erie conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in the Methodist Episcopal church at New Wilmington Friday, November 9.

The meeting is for the ministers and laymen of the district. There will be three sessions beginning with the morning meeting at 10 o'clock. Dr. F. S. Neigh, superintendent of the district, will preside and a number of ministers from this city will take part in the program.

Bishop Herbert Welch, D. D., will be present and will give the address of the evening. This is the first visit of Bishop Welch to the New Castle district and it is expected that there will be many who will wish to hear him at this time.

Rev. V. L. Bloomquist is pastor of the entertaining church.

Committee Meets Thursday Night

Executive Committee Of Sabbath School Association Hears Of Work

The regular monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association was held at the parlor of the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening with the president, Robt. M. Strickler, Jr., presiding, and the following members present: Mrs. Wm. J. Marshall, County Secretary; Homer C. Drake, Home Department Superintendent; Howard Cox, Young Peoples Superintendent; Rev. Ross M. Haverfield, Christian Education Superintendent; Rev. D. C. Schnebly and Mrs. J. L. Stratton.

Mrs. Marshall gave an interesting and comprehensive report of the state convention in Philadelphia after which the matter of the mid-year efficiency conference was discussed. The tentative date set for the conference was January 25th and, as State Secretary Walter E. Myers and Staff Representative B. A. McGarvey had signified their desire of meeting with the Lawrence county organization, it was voted that they be asked to be the speakers.

Rev. Ross M. Haverfield is doing a fine piece of work along the lines of religious education and he reported that religious instruction was being given at the present time in four of the consolidated schools of the county.

Howard Cox reported that a very successful regional young peoples conference had closed this week in Ellwood City and that the interest manifested and the program presented were both unusual.

A report was given of the meetings held by Dr. M. A. Honline and L. Louis Aber, state administrative superintendent, Sunday, October 21st, and the large number that were present at these meetings which were held in various churches of the city, were highly impressed and inspired.

A COMIC SCRAP BOOK

How many of us have longed to buy all the cartoon books that tell us about the adventures of Jiggs and Mutt and Jeff and Barney Google and Tom Sawyer, that we see displayed temptingly in so many store windows! Or, if we have bought these books, how many times we have read them and re-read them, enjoying ourselves every minute! And, do you know, there is no reason why we can't make books like these for ourselves and our brothers and sisters. First take an old ledger or scrapbook (if you have neither, make yourself a scrapbook of wrapping paper, to which pages may be added from time to time) and every night, after everyone else has read the papers, clip out the "funnies" that you enjoyed the most and paste them neatly into your scrap book. A paste made of flour and water will do, if you have no other paste or glue to use. After you have finished your book, you will be surprised to find that the comic strips near the beginning seem almost entirely new and that you enjoy them as much as you did when you first read them. After you tire of the book, put it away with your other worn-out toys, and after a time it will seem new and very interesting once again.

OUR "GEOGRAPHY" GAME

To play the "geography" game, you must have an old map of any of the countries of the world, the more the better. If you use a map of the United States, cut out each individual state and drop the pieces into a hat. The European continent may be cut into its separate countries, Australia may be left complete, etc. After all the parts have been dropped into the hat, each persons playing the game must close his eyes and draw a country, state or continent from the hat. He then must trace its outline onto a piece of plain paper and then draw a picture using the outline as the general outline of a picture it resembles. Italy, already shaped like a boot, would need very few lines to show that article, while the straight lines of Pennsylvania would need a very clever person to turn it into a machine, a locomotive engine, or a little school house. Do your best, boys and girls, and in the meantime be sure to learn the names of all the parts you use in the Geography game.

BOOKS EVERY CHILD SHOULD READ

Tales From Shakespeare
By Charles and Mary Lamb

I think that most boys and girls know that Shakespeare is one of the greatest writers that the world has ever known, even though he lived so very long ago. However some of us find his plays a little difficult to read because of the old English in which parts of them are written, and it is then that we should turn to "Tales from Shakespeare" by Charles and Mary Lamb. These two writers have the clever plots and delicious humor of that great English writer. The stories are written in clear English and I know that every boy and girl who reads this article would enjoy them.

POEMS EVERY CHILD SHOULD READ

The Wiggly Waggly Polliwog
(Selected)

Oh, a wiggly little polliwog lived in a pool
On the edge of a stream where the water was cool,
Till one day he turned very green and pale,
For he found that he surely was losing his tail,
And legs were sprouting, and he caught the croup
As he crawled up the bank with a hoarse "galoup, Cathump, calump, cachug, cachook!"

"Oh, what can have happened?" he asked, with a croak;
"This seems like a regular bull-frog joke."
Then he stretched his legs for a mighty jump
And right in the water he landed, kaflump!
Which made him smile from ear to ear,
As he called to his wife, "I'm a frog, my dear,
Cathump, calump, cachug, cachook!

HI FELLERS!

Goin' to see the High School Play?
I heard that it was swell!
It's filled with dukes and twins and maids
And the funniest clown as well!
Oh yes, it's name is Twelfth Night,
And it's written by a gink
That sure knows how to make you laugh,
And yet, he makes you think. (Honest)!)
You've surely heard about him
For Shakespeare is his name;
And he and our Miss Hartsuff
Should be given all the fame
For making this year's school play
The gest in many a day.
Well, so long, fellers, I've got to go.

JIMMY AND JAMMY GO TO TOWN

(A Bedtime Story for Very Young Children)

One day Jimmy and Jammy's Mother promised to take them to town with her if they were very good little children. Of course Jimmy and Jammy wanted to go very badly and so they were just as good as they could be all the rest of the day. Jammy dried the dishes for Mother very carefully, and Jimmy dug all the nasty weeds from around the purple pansies in the garden. And then Jimmy ran upstairs to put on his nice sailor suit with the long white trousers and the blue star on the collar, and Jammy, too, ran upstairs to put on her new white dress with the little pink rosebuds on it. And when she was all ready to go to town she looked like a rosebud herself, her cheeks were so-o-o rosy!

Jimmy and Jammy each took hold of one of Mother's hands and when they crossed a street, they looked up and down that street to see if any machines were coming. You see, they were very careful children, and they didn't want a big machine to run over them. No sir-e-e-e-e!

Well, buye-and-bye, they came to a 'normous store that was so high it seemed to touch the clouds. Then they went into the store and waited while Mother bought such things as buttons, and thread, and handkerchiefs. Pretty soon Jimmy and Jammy became tired waiting and they wandered down the aisles looking for something else to see. However they passed nothing in-ter-est-ing and they were about to return to Mother again, when they saw a wide staircase leading to the next floor. Jimmy wanted to find out what was at the end of these steps and Jammy ran to ask Mother if they might go and see. Mother smiled and said "Yes," and so they climbed the steps which led to a place which looked like Santa Claus' workshop. For on every counter the most Be-yew-ti-ful toys were seen—from the golden haired dollies that could say "Mamma," to the toy trains that ran around on toy tracks! And guess what Jammy found on one counter! She found a doll house that had every bit of furniture in it just like a really and truly house. As Jammy carefully played with the house and dolls, the clerk in the toy de-part-ment smiled at her and Jammy thought him a very nice man.

After awhile, the children thought it time to return and together they walked down the steps after saying "Thank you" to the nice clerk who had let them play with the toys. But when they came to the first floor again, Mother was nowhere to be seen! They hunted down every aisle until at last they found her 'way back in a corner of the store buying some new curtains for her home. When the children found her, they both told her of the nice things they had seen and she said that she wished she could have have gone with them too. That night two little curly-heads on two little white pillows were dreaming of the nice toys just as you will dream of them tonight. So goodnight, kiddies. Sleep tight!

FARMER ENDS LIFE; TEMPORARILY INSANE

PENNSBORO, W. Va., Nov. 2. —A recurrence of insanity is assigned in the case of Arthur Brissey, 55, well-to-do farmer of Berea, whose lifeless body was found suspended from a noose in the rope tied to a tree near his home yesterday. Brissey suffered mental derangement several years ago and was treated at the State Asylum at Weston, whence he was later discharged as cured.

COKE

Coal in its most efficient form

IF you want greater heating comfort—heat with coke. If you want more heat, more uniform heat, and a more comfortable house to live in, heat with coke. If you want less furnace tending—less shoveling, less stoking, less shaking down, less bother with drafts—heat with coke. Coke is coal in its most efficient form. It is coal with the volatile matter removed, leaving the heat producing carbon in a concentrated, readily combustible form. Coke burns more evenly, makes a hotter fire, has less waste and is infinitely cleaner and easier to handle than coal.

And you can have all its advantages for practically the same cost as soft coal — simply because it is made in Youngstown as a product of the steel industry. Ask your dealer for Youngstown Domestic Coke — manufactured in Youngstown by

Bishop Berry Speaks In City

Eminent Bishop Takes Stand For Hoover In Address Here Thursday

HOOVER WILL WIN, DECLARES SPEAKER

Anti-Saloon League District Superintendent Also Speaker Here

"It is much more religious to vote than to pray on election day."

This was the parting statement of Bishop Joseph Berry, of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals, in his address on Thursday evening to some 250 persons in the auditorium of the First Methodist Episcopal church located on the corner of North and North Jefferson streets.

"Hoover will win," stated the bishop, "but we must not become over confident. We must all vote in order that prohibition may be saved for this nation. And, let me add, that prohibition has been a great success. It is much better at its worst than liquor traffic ever was at its best."

At the program Thursday evening in the First Methodist church, in addition to Bishop Berry, D. E. Cruea, district superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league also spoke to the gathering, on the coming election asking that all go to the polls this coming Tuesday and cast the vote which will mean the continuance of the prohibition laws.

Dr. F. S. Neigh, district superintendent of the Methodist Episcopal churches was in charge of the meeting and introduced the speakers to the audience. Dr. C. B. Wingerd of the Central Presbyterian church of this city offered the opening prayer at the beginning of the meeting.

Bishop Berry, noted platform speaker on prohibition subjects, stated that the coming election was not a squabble of party affiliations. Both of the parties stated the Bishop are announcing themselves for platforms that are practically the same. What we must do is to vote for the man who will save prohibition. Mr. Hoover has definitely stated that he is in harmony with this law and the other candidate has repudiated it.

Bishop Berry then explained some of the working of governmental ownership of saloons as practiced in Canada and other countries and stated that it had not been as successful as our prohibition.

Following his plea to the voters to back Herbert Hoover, in order that prohibition might be saved, the bishop directed his remarks to whether or not prohibition had failed.

"It has been an extraordinary success. It has had so much to fight. Liquor was a social custom, it was a big part of commerce, thousands had fortunes invested in it, it was habit. How can we expect to break these things, these traditions in such a very few years?

"We cannot reverse the thinking processes of an entire nation in a few years. It will take patience on our parts and a greater amount of work. Prohibition has been poorly enforced, but it is much better than liquor traffic that is legalized at its best."

Both speakers openly announced their intentions of supporting Hoover and stated that Smith's election would be the blackest thing that could happen the prohibition law and United States.

Following the meeting, both speakers immediately went to Pittsburgh where they will continue with their speaking tour.

Women's Federated Clubs

POLITICAL INFORMATION FOR WOMEN

Unless all signs fail at least three women members will sit in the House of Representatives of the Seventy-First Congress.

Ruth Hanna McCormick has educated herself for a place in the business of government. She is the daughter of Mark Hanna, President McKinley's friend and adviser. She is the wife of the late Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois. She is a nominee for Congress woman-at-large from Illinois.

This campaign of Mrs. McCormick's is not an accident. She didn't decide to run on the spur of the moment and her success is not due to her personality, her wealth and her social position. It is true that she has a charming and attractive personality. It is true that she has social position although she has never been, in any sense of the word, a society woman. She spends no time at luncheons, teas, bridge parties and formal dinners. Her friends are a conglomeration of men and women who interest her—politicians, newspaper writers, farmers, diplomats, authors, artists—anybody else she happens to meet and like.

Her position in a broader sense of the word, her place in the affairs of the state and of the nation, didn't just fall gracefully onto her shoulders. She worked and planned and then worked some more for it.

It isn't just by chance that she can discuss farm legislation and tariff intelligently. Long, hard hours or study and research supplemented by keen observation and experience have familiarized her with the problems and affairs of the nation, and she has educated herself for a place in the business of government as another would educate himself to be a lawyer or a doctor or a minister.

Mrs. McCormick is the mother of three children. They are following her career with keen and intelligent interest and she has handed down to them her vitality and energy and unshaken desire to do something worth while.

Her personal political career, is at the moment, very much in the foreground. Her election on the sixth of November is virtually assured, but there will be, win or lose, no empty space in her life. With such imagination, determination and willingness to work there must always be, just ahead, New Worlds to conquer.

Another "Ruth" who is likely to land in Congress—Ruth Bryan Owen—has been making as many as seven speeches a day and touring in her own car the eighteen counties of her district, handling her own mail, and acting as her own campaign manager. Mrs. Owen is of course well known as the daughter of William Jennings Bryan. She is also known as Ruth Bryan Owen eloquent speaker, educator and charming woman.

Mrs. Owen ran for Congress before from the Fourth Congressional District of Florida. This year her election is said to be almost certain. Mrs. Owen has also educated herself in the business of government.

Mrs. Owen hopes, above all, to interest the young people of America in politics and government. For this purpose she proposes to bring to Washington, if she wins, two young people from each of the eighteen counties of her district to study civil government at first hand.

The third "Ruth" who is running for Congress, Mrs. Ruth Pratt, from the seventeenth New York district, is also leading an intensely busy life, speaking every day and every evening—

Mrs. Pratt is running on her record as an alderman. She has been in that office since January, 1923—New York City's first and only woman alderman. Mrs. Pratt has for twenty years been notable in public service and welfare activities—including a fine piece of work among immigrant women.

REV. FRANCIS FINN DIES IN CINCINNATI

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 2.—The Rev. Francis J. Finn, 69, jesuit and author of the "Father Finn," books for boys, died here today.

He is survived by a sister, Miss Theresa Finn, supervisor of public school music, Soladin High school, St. Louis, and by a brother, Richard Dean, formally vice president of the Pullman company, Chicago.

Fourteen Amendments Up For Vote Tuesday

Chief Interest In Proposed Amendments Comes In Numbers 2, 3, 4, 9 And 10

Fiscal Officers Strongly Oppose Raising Of State's Indebtedness

By CLYDE SHUE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—Voters next Tuesday will express their approval or disapproval of 14 proposed amendments to the state constitution. Some of them have been the subject of considerable debate. Others still retain little but the designation "amendment".

Chief interest in all of them centers in numbers 2, 3, 4, 9 and 10. If they pass, the legislature may increase the state's indebtedness $138,000,000.

The state's indebtedness now is $97,888,000, the balance yet to be paid on the two $50,000,000 road bond issues approved in 1918 and 1923. The financial statement for the past 16 months showed that while the state was redeeming $4,667,000 of that debt, it paid $5,580,670 in interest on the two issues.

Bond Issues Offered.

The state's fiscal officers oppose all five bond issues on the ground that all necessary expansion can be financed in all departments of the government without any borrowing. Governor John S. Fisher opposes at least four of them. If further expansion of the program of the department of highways is desired, he believes a bond issue will be necessary and that it is up to the electorate to decide what they desire. That issue has been beclouded by the barrage of figures used by opponents and proponents, each side accusing the other of juggling or forgetting $1,000,000 items.

Next in public interest are amendments 6 and 13. The latter will permit the use of voting machines if legislation can be passed in the general assembly. No. 6 will permit courts to enlarge voting districts so as to make the use of voting machines practical and economic.

No. 1 Important.

Amendment No. 1, if approved, has much wider significance than has been generally brought out. It has been called the "state printing plant amendment." If approved it will permit the commonwealth not only to operate its own printing plant but also to supply "furnishings, fuel, paper and stationery."

Amendment No. 5 would permit the general assembly to fix minimum exemptions from inheritance taxes. Efforts to exempt small estates from "death taxes" have been held unconstitutional by the state supreme court on the ground that it was class legislation.

If amendment No. 12 is approved Pennsylvania tax exemptions would be made reciprocal with those of other states.

Amendments 7, 8, 11 and 14 are of interest only to the citizens of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. The first would permit Pittsburgh to assess properties benefited by public improvements even though they do not abut. Numbers 8 and 11 would raise the debt limit of both cities and the last on the list, No. 14, would permit the creation of metropolitan Pittsburgh by legislative enactment.

Debating Teams Being Selected At Westminster

New Castle Boy Named On Freshman Team; Debate After Vacation

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—Tryouts for the freshman and sophomore men's debating teams held last night resulted in the selection of the two teams which will face each other at the annual inter-class debate immediately following the Thanksgiving recess.

Joseph Safier, New Castle; Frank Douds, Beaver, and Dave Hunter (captain) Bellevue, were selected to represent the freshman class. Hase Munn, Bellevue; Paul Quimby, Sharon, and Kenneth Baird, Butler, were named on the sophomore team.

The question upon which these two teams will debate is, "Resolved: That the students in American colleges should have more individual responsibility in choosing courses."

Tryouts for the under-class teams were under the direction of Tau Kappa Alpha debating fraternity. Dr. C. A. Dawson, Professor A. T. Cordray and Miss Marjorie E. Brown acted as judges.

To Bury Lansing Near Watertown

Former Secretary Of State Will Be Interred At Brookside Cemetery

(International News Service)

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Burial services will be held here today for Robert Lansing, former secretary of state, following the arrival of the remains from Washington in a special funeral car. Interment will take place in Brookside cemetery, near where Lansing was born.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at the Lansing residence in Washington.

TO GIVE LETHAL GAS IN NEW DEATH HOUSE

RENO, Nev., Nov. 2.—Plans for the construction of a new lethal gas house at the state penitentiary at Carson City are being rushed in consequence of the sentencing of Robert White of Elko to be executed January 13, 1929.

The old gas chamber in which Geo. John and Stanko Jukich were executed and which excited widespread interest and discussion in the United States has been torn down.

White, convicted of the murder of Louis Lavell in Elko, has been taken to the prison at Carson City and placed in the condemned cell.

People Should Not Mail Small Cards

Postmaster Directed To Discourage Use Of Small Envelopes

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2. — The attention of Postmaster Crawford of New Castle is called to the campaign of the post office department to discourage the use of small and irregular-sized greeting cards and envelopes in the mails, according to a general order sent out by Assistant Postmaster General Regar.

Postmaster Crawford is urged to make every proper endeavor to secure the cooperation of manufacturers, dealers and the public generally in the elimination of such cards and envelopes in order that the postal service may be relieved of the burden of handling them and the mails thus speeded up.

"To this end it should be carefully and courteously explained that these small cards and envelopes seriously retard and interfere with the smooth flow of the work in the post offices," Mr. Regar states. "Such small-sized cards and envelopes frequently cannot be run through the canceling machines, thus necessitating canceling the stamps by hand and other extra handlings in the course of their facing and distribution. Furthermore, there is not sufficient space for directions for forwarding in cases where it is necessary to forward such matter in order to reach the addresses."

Wife Suicides When Husband Refuses To Cut Off Her Head

Farmer Finds Body Of Woman Floating In Creek Near Chester

(International News Service)

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 2.—After pleading with her husband to chop off her head with a hatchet, Mrs. Catherine Padlock, 40, drowned herself in Ridley Creek.

Police say the woman brooded over a recent operation.

Wednesday night Mrs. Padlock became desperate and pleaded with her husband to cut off her head, police say. He refused and tried to soothe her. Then they retired.

When he tip-toed into his wife's bed room Thursday to see if all was well and found she had disappeared. Search was started and it ended when a farmer found her body floating in the creek.

Hoover Paid Taxes While In England

Never Forfeited His Citizenship, Says Mellon In Letter

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon added his testimony to that of the State Department to refute the Democratic campaign charge that Herbert Hoover forfeited United States citizenship during his residence abroad, on Thursday.

Mellon, in a letter to James F. Burke, general counsel of the Republican national committee, declared that "Herbert Hoover has filed income tax returns and paid taxes under the Federal income tax laws for every year since the enactment of that law in 1913."

Mellon said he had personally examined Hoover returns for the years 1914 to 1925, inclusive.

Urge Voters Elect Congress Suitable To New President

Implore Voters Not To Name Antagonistic Congress To Support President-Elect

Both Parties Busy Claiming Majorities In Coming Congress Session

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Additional appeals went forth Wednesday from both national headquarters to return a congress favorable to the president elected in the battle of the ballots next Tuesday.

The appeals were along the customary lines—the new president's hands will be tied if he does not have a majority of his own party at the capital, and pledges made during the campaign will be unfulfilled if he must fight an antagonistic congress.

It is conceded that little short of a landslide either to Herbert Hoover or Gov. Al Smith will disturb the balance of power held by the band of Progressives in the senate. All the Progressives up for reelection are considered virtually certain of being returned.

Thirty In Senate Race.

Thirty seats are at stake in the senate, one having been already filled by the reelection in September of Senator Hales (R) of Maine. There is a vacancy from Pennsylvania because the contest over the election of Senator William S. Vare is still hanging fire. There is a fight in Illinois for the seat resigned by Frank L. Smith, who, with Vare, was blocked at the senate's door.

Of the 30 seats, 20 are now held by Democrats, nine by the Republicans and one by the Farmer-Laborite, Senator Shipstead of Minnesota.

Democrats Confident.

Republicans claimed that all their candidates would be reelected, and that they would make heavy gains among the seats now held by the Democrats. They are figuring on capturing places certainly in New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Missouri, Utah, Nevada and Wyoming, and predict at least an even chance in New York and Rhode Island.

The Democrats retart that their opponent's claims are preposterous for they expect to control the new senate by holding all their present seats and by gaining in Nebraska, Indiana, Connecticut, and possibly in Ohio, and New Mexico.

Control of the house hinges on about 80 seats. The present lineup is 233 Republicans, 191 Democrats, two Farmer-Labor, one Socialist and eight vacancies.

State Treasury Has Over 57 Millions

Balance Is Slightly Smaller Than In October, Says Treasurer

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—The total balance in all funds of the state treasury at the opening of November business today aggregated $57,153,782.16. The balance a month ago was $59,539,830.68.

During the month of October the total receipts of the state according to a statement made by State Treasurer Samuel S. Lewis, amounted to $13,492,054.38. while the expenditures were $15,878,102.90 .

The general fund which contains the state working balance today was announced by Lewis as $36,278,538.75.

Have Difficult Roles In Play

HELEN WEINGARTNER

JAMES SMITH

When the curtain rises next Thursday evening on the senior high school stage for the first performance of "Twelfth Night" by Miss Hartsuff's student actors, two members of the carefully selected class will be Miss Helen Weingartner and James Smith.

Miss Weingartner interprets the part of the Countess Olivia about whom the plot centers. The role calls for a development in character that begins with the haughty noblewoman who rejects a distasteful suit and ends with Olivia caught fast and quite willingly in the wiles of the blind god.

James Smith undertakes the difficult role of Malvolio, the pompous and domineering steward of Olivia. How he was beguiled by Sir Toby Belch, Sir Andrew Aguecheek and the sprightly Maria, his enemies, into thinking that Olivia was secretly in love with him and how the trio accomplished his completely humiliating downfall, forms the very diverting sub-plot of the popular comedy "Twelfth Night."

Tells Inside Story Of Bond Ring Work

Bert McHeehan Lays Bare Machinations Of Ring's Operations

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 2. — Bert H. McHeehan, Wyoming man, convicted in the national bond scandal here a year ago, told the inside story today of the ring's operations in open court.

Called as a witness at the hearing of F. D. Thomas, former coroner and candidate for sheriff, McHeehan named the West Side physician as the mysterious "Mr. Harris" who gave him the securities stolen in holdups in New York and the Middle West.

Thomas listened calmly at the recital. First Assistant District Attorney Thomas Butkewicz moved immediately to have the case presented to the grand jury. A warrant was also issued for the arrest of Joseph Sheerin.

Car Of Speeder Belongs To Police

Denver Police Comb City For Car; Find It Belonged To Them

(International News Service)

DENVER, Nov. 2.—Two Denver policemen know their automobile license number today, only after a hard, embarrassing experience.

The two officers canvassed the streets of the city in their police car one whole afternoon looking for a license number that had been turned in on a charge of speeding, but whose owner had failed to show up to pay the fine. Records failed to disclose the owner's latest address.

It all ended when they started home that evening, they discovered the car which belonged to the city and which they had been driving for several weeks was the one that carried the much searched for license number.

"Al" Smith Certain Of Gallant Vote In Oliver Street Sector

Oliver Street, On Lower East Side Of New York, Is All For "Al", Survey Shows

Governor Smith Admired And Loved By "Cronies" Of Some 20 Years Ago

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Oliver street on the lower east side, where Al Smith grew up, married and first attained fame, is aglow with a fervent hope on the eve of the national presidential election. Every voting American, Irishman, Greek, Italian Jew and Pole in the poster-plastered thoroughfare is going hook, line and sinker for "Al" and they are letting the wide, wide world know about it.

Every window in every home in Oliver street proudly flaunts an Al Smith poster. Everybody in the neighborhood is giving vent to the urge to help Al—the corner cop, the storekeeper, the housewife, the push-cart peddler, the ward politician, the flapper stenographer, each and every one of them.

For many in this melting pot can remember Al when he wore, not the familiar brown derby but one of those flat-topped bowlers that makes the family album famous. He's "our Al" down in Oliver street.

"He's the same old Al, hasn't changed a bit. Always comes back to see us. We not only admire him—we love him!"

Song and Dance Man.

There's Henry McCaddin, for instance. He relates with pride how he and Al were actors in the same cast when St. James' Literary union used to put on plays 20 years ago in the basement of St. James' Roman Catholic church just across the alley from Al's old home at 25 Oliver street.

"Al was a good actor, and pretty nifty with the song nad dance," said the gray-haired McCaddin. "Al was full of the dickens in those days."

Across the street is one of Al's strongest supporters, a Jew—Morris Sunshine, a laundryman of 35 Oliver street. He revels in telling you he washed Al Smith's shirts for 20 years—and still does!

Others in the neighborhood are less eager to talk.

Mrs. Thomas Coleman, for instance, can hardly be prevailed upon to tell of the night when Al Smith picked her out to lead the grand march at the ball but her husband—well, he'll talk about "Al" as long as you'll listen.

"He was always gallant with his hat on the side of his head," said Coleman. "Oh, the good times we had together when we were members of the Seymour Social club! He was a grand fellow then and he'll make a grand president now."

Find Meteor Crater In Central Oregon

Dent In Earth's Surface Is Half Mile Across And 250 Feet Deep

(International News Service)

BEND, Oregon, Nov. 2.—Another "pock mark" on the earth's surface, believed to have been caused by a huge meteor has been discovered in Central Oregon. The new meteor crater is reported to rival the noted crater in Arizona for markings, if not in size.

Natives in the territory surrounding the creater have known of the depression for years, referring to it as "the hole in the ground." It remained for Walter J. Perry student of geology and paleontology to explore the crater and make a detailed survey of its characteristics.

The dent is one half mile from lip to lip and descends at a uniform angle to a depth of 250 feet while about the rim a strata of lava rock appears uniformly fractured.

According to Perry polarized rocks composed of heavy black material are to be found on the craters rim and slopes. These he believes are fragments of the heavenly body.

Corporation To Build Airplanes Is Being Formed

Plan To Merger Keystone With Loening Plants; Build For Government

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—A new corporation which is expected to assume a large place in the field of airplane construction for commercial purposes is anounced with the merger of the Keystone Aircraft corporation of Bristol, Pa., and the Loening Aeronautical Engineering corporation of New York.

The Keystone company has been prominent since its organization in 1920 as a builder of military planes for the U. S. army and navy and foreign governments. A new 10-passenger Wright-engined transport plane is now under production for use on new air transport lines.

The Loening corporation announced simultaneously an award of a contract from the army air service for construction of eight new type observation amphibian planes. Under Grover and Albert Loening the company was one of the first to manufacture planes for private owners in 1917.

Edgar N. Gott president of the Keystone company said it was planned to operate both plants as separate units.

Council Views Proposed Site

City Anxious To Arrange For New Depot To House Equipment And Supplies

Members of city council today made a trip to a city owned plot of ground on Sampson street.

They must, Councilman Reeves explained today, get a new plot to house supplies and trucks.

He would like to obtain a site, it is indicated, near a railroad siding but that would cost too much, colleagues believe.

So the lawmakers journeyed toward Sampson Street.

According to Mr. Reeves city equipment and supplies are housed in widely separated points.

School Officials Present At Laying Of Cornerstone

County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling and Assistant C. F. Ball, are at Hillsville this afternoon, where the cornerstone of the new consolidated school building is being laid. Foundation wall of the new building has been completed, and work on the superstructure will begin as soon as the cornerstone is laid. The building is to be a 21 room structure and will be one of the largest consolidated school buildings in the county. It is not likely to be completed in time for the holding of much of the present term of school.

Insurance Men In Conference Here

Charles A. Tushingham, educational director of the Provident Mutual Life Insurance company spent the day with the members of the Howard Johnson agency. The meeting was held at The Castleton and was informal in character. Mr. Tushingham talked to the members on many phases of the Life Insurance Business. About fifteen members of the agency were present coming from various points in Northwestern Pennsylvania.

Doctor Lives Long Through Laying Down

Secret Of Longevity Is In A Suming The Horizontal, He Says

(International News Service)

VIENNA, Nov. 2.—A certain Doctor Julius Tichwehr, who recently died here at the age of 109, often declared that the secret of his longevity consisted in taking a horizontal position as often as possible during the day, and naturally, every night.

Whenever it was possible throughout the day, he would place his head in the direction of the North Pole and the remainder of his body parallel to the meridian line. The doctor affirmed that this position corresponded to the direction of the magnetic current running through the surface of the earth and thus permitted a kind of magnetism of the iron mass contained in the body.

Carnegie Official Approves Ordinance

Practically Certain Now That Rosena Dam Will Be Removed

Superintendent R. J. Tully, Carnegie Steel company, this city today advised members of council through a letter that the ordinance covering the removal by the city of the Rosena dam, Neshannock river, meets with the approval of the company. The measure will now be passed finally by city council. The letter was read during council's meeting in the city hall today.

By removal of the dam it is said that dredging of the Neshannock at North, Neshannock and Croton avenues will not be necessary.

Sidewalk Contracts Approved By City

Members of council gathered in regular meeting in the city hall today and approved a contract between the city and Cagnetti & Company for sidewalks construction. The company will lay sidewalks at the properties of Cohen, Cook, Dickson, Natolia and Jones. The properties are located in Delaware avenue, Pearson street, and Edgewood avenue.

Erie Railroad To Demolish Building

Some time ago City Solicitor White requested Erie railroad officials to have a hazardous building owned by the railroad in Shenango street, removed. The request met with the sanction of the officials who advised the city today in a letter read during council session at the city building, that the building referred to will be demolished. The local agent has let a contract, the letter read, to W. S. Moore who will demolish the building.

Rio Rita Pleases Cathedral Crowd

George Wintz Production Proclaimed Success; Comedians Stop Show

MISS ECKLER SCORES SUCCESS WITH DANCE

The concocting of a musical comedy such as "Rio Rita", shown Thursday evening at The Cathedral auditorium, must, of necessity, rival the 12 labors of Hercules. Playwrights get together, song writers and lyricists get together, wild conferences take place between stage directors and dancing professors. It is tried out. It flops. Gag men and play doctors are hustled in. They work. The cast works. Finally it is pronounced perfect and comes to Broadway. And, if it is too perfect, if tales of its beauties reach the hinterland, it is taken on the road for the delectation of the people who think Broadway a fairyland of dancing maidens and slightly stewed Don Juans.

As seen in the hinterland, the result is neither fish nor fowl; all of its personality has been taken away when the original cast disbands; nevertheless, it is entertaining.

Those who literally packed The Cathedral auditorium Thursday evening thought it entertaining. They applauded the comedians, they applauded the dancers and especially Miss Ellen Eckler who does not seem to have a bone in her body, and they even applaud "Jeeeeeem," the rollicking, bandit-chasing, love-smitten, matince idol.

Rita (Miss Lucia Hackley) perhaps did not come up to the performance expected through a reading of the show's prospectus, but her acting was good, her voice was good and she conducted herself in an extremely ladylike manner, even when Esteban (Jules Bennett) whispered sweet tra-la-las into her ear, and came within an ace of abducting her.

Honors for the performance go to the comedians: they proved to be the show stoppers. Ed Lovett (Jimmy Lee) was exceedingly funny: he represented a type, as did his partner, Funnyman Chick Bean (Charles Williams). Separately they caused much merriment, together their humor was of the strange sort which gave to great dry laughter, akin to heaving sobs, and when to the team was added Dolly (Ruth Fullmer) the results were terrific. If this were the 16th century instead of the 20th, the present subscriber is sure that the performers would be carried off the stage with many bravos. She is the sprightliest little comedienne that local playgoers have seen for many a day, and she instantly won the applause of the audience.

Something should be said about the work of the choruses. The dancing was good. The costuming was good, and the singing, when one considers the fact that "show girls" are not expected to sing, also was good.

City Hall Steps To Be Repaired

High Heels Of Ladies Who Visit City Hall Catch On Steps

Councilman W. V. Tyler reported to council when they gathered in the City building today that some ladies heels had caught on City hall steps and fearful of accident, he advised colleagues to let the Safety Processing company repair the steps at a cost of about $144.

Burns was in favor of protecting women from accident but said the city needs every cent.

Mayor Gillespie remarked that he was in favor of the improvement if the city had the money and voted for the motion.

Davies, Tyler, Reeves and Gillespie voted favorably and the steps to the third and fourth floors will be repaired.

Women Are Asked To Vote Early

County Republican Chairman, W. A. Eakin, has issued an appeal to all women to vote as early as possible on election day, in order to allow the men who work the privelege of going to the polls at the noon hour and after work in the evening.

If the women will vote after 8 o'clock in the morning, leaving the dinner hour open to the men, and after 1 o'clock in the afternoon, it will relieve the congestion.

Winter Avenue Bill Adopted By Council

Council today considered Winter avenue when they convened in session at City hall and adopted a measure which fixes and establishes a grade in Winter avenue. The points affected are situated between Wilmington avenue and Locust street. The ordinance will become a law ten days after today.

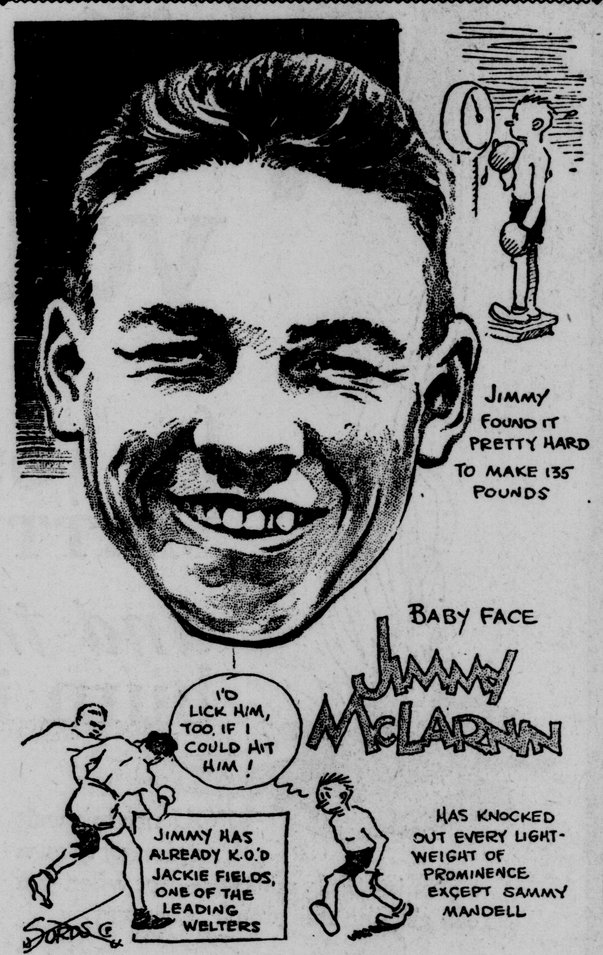
Having Missed Chance To Win Four Fistic Crowns, Jimmy McLarnin Now Goes After Junior Welters



By JACK SORDS
Sports Cartoonist-Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

Not being able to lick the champion, and having difficulty making the weight, wise little Jimmy McLarnin has forsaken the lightweight limit and gone in to mix leather and prowess with the junior welters.

McLarnin's inability to get anywhere in a bout with Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell is no reflection on Jimmy's fistic abilities. Mandell just proved to be a little too fast and seasoned a warrior for McLarnin, who, however, whipped decisively every other good lightie that he met.

McLarnin is the hardluck lad where winning ring titles is concerned. He met and defeated Pancho Villa, the little brown flash who died some time ago, when Villa was flyweight champion. But Jimmy was a trifle overweight and, of course, couldn't win that crown.

He gave Bud Taylor a few stiff battles, but outgrew King Bud's bantam division just as he was running into form where he would have a chance to wallop the hot-stepping Hoosier.

McLarnin licked Kid Kaplan, who once held the featherweight crown, but the Kid had retired as champ before the McLarnin battle, so, for the third time, fate denied Jimmy a fistic crown.

Having missed by a hair's breadth chances to win four fight crowns, and all through no real fault of his own, Jimmy now is hunting in the junior welterweight woods for big game. And Jimmy ought to go far in this division. He holds a two-round knockout over Jackie Fields, one of the best boys in the business.

McLarnin's next fight will be with Tommy Grogan of Omaha, Neb., at Detroit, Mich., November 30.

Over 250 Gasoline Stations Line Lawrence County Roads

How many gas stations do you think line the roads of Lawrence county? Would you guess 100? Or even more?

If the truth is to be known according to W. A. Brown the city-county sealer of weights and measures, there are now exactly 258 gas stations in the county. And if one takes into account the fact that each station averages three different pumps, there are about 700 gas pumps in Lawrence county or enough to pump enough gas in one day to carry the Graf Zeppelin—who cares how far.

The number of pumps says Mr. Brown is increasing and he believes that with the influx of cheap cars and cars that are not so cheap, the number of pumps will continue to increase.

London Now Has Garages In City

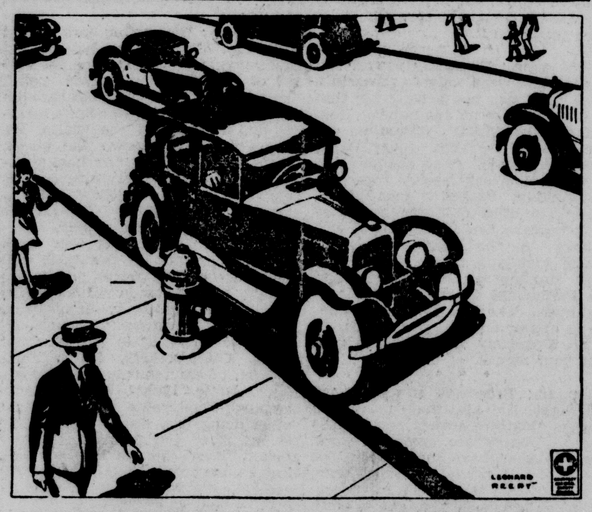
(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 2.—Following the trend in Chicago and other metropolitan cities in which large garages have been constructed in the downtown districts, London is building two structures near Victoria station and in Park road, Regents park that will house 1,000 automobiles each acording to the Chicago Motor club.

Claude Graham White noted aviator heads the projects. The garages are modeled on the lines of the Grand Central station, New York and will have two separate ways for cars going up and coming down. Each building will be eight stories high.

The trouble with marrying another one when the first bores you is that your capacity for being bored remains unchanged.

A Poor Place to Park



Although practically every motorist knows better than to park his car in front of a fire hydrant, too many autoists continue to leave their machines where they don't belong. In one large city recently the authorities assigned uniformed men to smash the windshields of all motor vehicles which were obstructing easy access to hydrants. Automobile owners, who are intelligently selfish, will refrain from leaving their cars in places where they are liable to be smashed by heavy fire apparatus whose operators have no time to remove obstacles.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

What happens to old newspapers? How many of them go under carpets, how many are used to wrap packages and are saved? Just a thought occasioned by a visit to the Mayor of Croton yesterday afternoon, Hizzoner George Gibson, who is also a Tonsorial Artist.

Times when he isn't discussing matters of state for the district of Croton, Hizzoner does considerable shaving. Now most barber shops use a fancy, prepared paper for shave papers and while Mayor Gibson has them also, he still prefers the old fashioned idea of cutting up newspapers into squares.

When you get shaved, the lather is just liable to be hung on a political speech or the account of a prize fight, a picture of Barney Google or an editorial.

What do you do with old newspapers?

While the subject concerns barbers here's one for the book. Nick Capitolo is a barber, but he also has a penchant for dressing up in Hallowe'en parades. On last Wednesday night Nick was in the parade in costume and won a prize.

The prize was a safety razor.

Ever play cribbage? It must be an interesting game for any evening you care to drop into a fire station you'll find the boys cribbing away or whatever it is the game calls upon one to do. There's a lot of book keeping in the game, with the bookkeeping done by a sort of Chinese system of pegs in a block. Over in the Sixth ward the smoke eaters claim the championship of the city.

Don't forget Saturday afternoon. It's Booster Day at Franklin Field, with a portion of the proceeds going to the Senior High School Band for new uniforms. Despite any rumors to the contrary, there will be no increase in the price of admission. It will be fifty cents and you should be there.

Slick's Income In Oil Fields $45,000 A Day

By JACK A. BRADBURY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WICHITA, Kansas, Nov. 2.—Tom B. Slick of Oklahoma City, stands alone today among the individual operators in the Mid-Continent oil field, as one of the most colorful figures ever known to the oil industry. With an income of approximately $45,000 a day from several hundred oil wells in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas that yield him 29,000 barrels of oil every twenty four hours, Slick may well be called the "Miracle Man" of the oil game.

He now has twelve wells drilling in the St. Louis pool of Pottawatomie county, Oklahoma and most of these will be oil wells in the gusher type unless the Goddess of Petroleum forsakes Slick, and so far that hasn't happened.

$75,000 A Day

Other great oil leaders are predicting that Slick will soon have between 40,000 and 50,000 barrels of oil production a day, in which case he will have a income around $75,000 every twenty-four hours, or in other words a little more than a million dollars every two weeks.

There are few major oil companies in the United States that can boast of an income as large as this individual's. Slick, in fact, owns more oil than many of the big producing concerns whose names are household words. He came from Pennsylvania a few years ago and has been striking a new gusher every time he turns around. He has his own company, Tom Slick, Inc., and owns all the stock himself.

Of a modest nature, tall and gaunt, always a cigar in his mouth, Slick rushes from gusher to gusher day and night, rain or shine, personally supervising the drilling of his wells.

Other Figures

In the last few years the Mid-continent has seen two other figures in the oil industry, that in many respects are similar to Slick—men who built up a large amount of oil production as individuals. These men were Lew Wentz, of Ponca City, Okla., and Waite Phillips, Tulsa, Okla.

The factors have worked to make Slick the great oil producer he is—his ability to drill in the right spot, and luck.

A few years ago, a Wichita man was offered a drilling deal at Burkburnett and truned it down because it did not look promising. Thirty minutes Slick strolled through the lobby of the Wichita Falls Hotel where oil men were milling about, took the deal and sixty days later had a 5,000 barrel well—Slick's luck.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES MANY A SLOW UP

But you can protect yourself

No man can do justice to his job—no woman can remain vivacious and happy — with constipation daily undermining health and strength. Aching heads, painful muscles, nervousness, blemished cheeks—these are just little things that constipation brings on. In the end, it causes more than forty dreadful diseases.

Begin now combating constipation. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve it. More—to prevent it. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran—100% effective.

Healthful and delicious with milk or cream, or with fruit or honey added. Sprinkle into soups. Recipes on package. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

ANENT CREDIT BUREAU
New Castle, Pa.,
Oct. 31, 1928.

Editor,
The "News,"
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:—

On the tomb of Johnathan Swift, in the cathedral where he lies buried, can be found the following epitaph, written by himself (before he died, of course). "Here lies the body of Johnathan Swift, D. D., dean of this cathedral, where burning indignation can no longer tear at his heart. Go, traveler, and imitate if you can a man who was an undaunted champion of Liberty."

When the writer of this letter read your article in The "News" of Oct. 30th, relating the various tricks played on merchants of our city by certain individuals, he could not resist the impulse to follow the eminent Dean's advice. The article was very entertaining and enlightening, and very much to the point, but still there are always two sides to any question.

When the "Book of Life" at the credit exchange is perused, many curious things may be found but they all reflect on certain members of the buying public, and never on the merchants themselves. Permit be to tell you an incident or two which will show you a little light on the other side of the question at issue.

A certain hardware dealer of New Castle, whose name it is not necessary to mention but who is a member of the local Credit Exchange, discovered a prospect for an electric carpet sweeper. Either personally or thru one of his salesmen, he induced the housewife to try one of his sweepers, but unfortunately he was loaded up with an old model. The lady had the sweeper on trial for three weeks or so, when a salesman working for another firm happened along and discovered it there. Inasmuch as he was representing the same make of sweeper, he showed her, by a comparison of the two models, that the new model was much superior, and sold at the same price. He made out a contract, she signed it, and gave him the initial payment. When the first dealer found that he would have to take his sweeper back to the store, he is "alleged" (good old legal word) to have tried by a process of bluff, to force the lady to pay $1 per day rental for all the time he had left the sweeper in her house. Failing in that, in order to get even with her, he reported her to the credit exchange as a "repossession for non-payment." She never knew of it until she applied for credit with another concern, and then found she was on the "black list," or whatever they call it. Your readers have been informed about what happened to pretended buyers who attempted to hoodwink the dealers. Might they not be equally interested, if your reporter could find out from the credit exchange officers, how this dealer was treated, when his action was brought to light, as it eventually was? The association is supposed to be an association of merchants for mutual help and protection. Is it not liable to fail of its purpose if it is allowed to become an instrument of mutual deception instead?

Another practice which seems to the writer to be morally wrong, although possibly perfectly legal, is for certain members, to whom the person in question does not owe a cent to give the person a rating which is called "Demand Cash. No further credit extended." It seems rather unfair to the buying public for a merchant to post this rating unless the applicant for credit actually has an account with him. Credit ratings should be based on facts, rather than by mere opinions.

Another practice by which the merchants as a whole lose considerable of the advantage which the credit exchange would be to them is the failure to report promptly on delinquencies that are wiped off by customers, as soon as their financial condition improves. Sometimes these remain on the lost for months after they have ceased to exist, and make it difficult for anyone to obtain credit who really should have it.

The writer has been informed, through an unofficial source, that even physicians are members of the Credit Exchange. We are told that anyone whose credit has been destroyed by circumstances cannot obtain service or credit from these member physicians, and sometimes it is necessary, in case of sickness, for a person to call several physicians until one is found who is willing to wait on payment for his services until it can be made. Many articles have been written and published in magazines, trying to prove that business is rapidly become a profession. It appears that professions are also becoming a business. Truly, the world does move.

These remarks may seem iconoclastic, but they are really intended to be constructive. The writer, no less than anyone else, realizes that a credit bureau is a real necessity in modern business, and rightly used and efficiently operated, is a tremendous help in many ways. But when physicians become members of it, it is time to sit up and take notice. The Great Physician, when he was with us, said, "If a man ask for bread, will ye give him a stone? Or if he ask for an eel, will ye give him a serpent?" He performed considerable healing in His time, but He was denied the benefit of a Credit Exchange. Sometimes children are sick in a family. He said "Even so it is not the will of you Father which is in Heaven that one of these little ones should perish." We presume the physician attend church on Sunday bu they are "business men" the rest of the week.

It is, as a rule, a waste of time for anyone to decry conditions without suggesting a remedy. Of course, we are always going to have the Poor with us, and as long as they are here we must have a Credit Exchange. Will Rogers has suggested a sure method for enforcing Prohibition—by passing a law making it compulsory for everyone to drink. Johnathan Swift wrote an article offering a sure cure for poverty called "A Modest Proposal for Preventing the Children of Poor People in Ireland from Being a Burden to their Parents," in which he suggests that they all be fattened and eaten. This method would appear rather inhuman today, but it occurred to the writer that if all the physicians, instead of only a few, could become members of the Credit Exchange, and become well organized, that those of the populace who are continually behind in their accounts could be allowed to die off of their own accord. The only drawback to this plan is that possibly the undertakers might also become organized, and the city would have to bury them. And besides the Chiropractors might prove troublesome before any real results could be secured, anyway.

In conclusion, we wish to repeat that we are strongly in favor of a well-managed Credit Bureau, and being connected with a business house ourselves, realize that it has a legitimate function to perform.

Very Truly Yours.
JOHN A. FENTON.

Your BROADWAY And Mine

By Walter Winchell

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—9 a. m.: People who don't belong walking over a sleeping body. The lights are out and the sun is shining. Stores are opening for business and porters are cleaning out the theaters. Programs are swept aside. Last night's opening is now an old story. Working people are hurrying to their tasks. They're going to make money to spend when the lights flicker. Nobody along the Street thinking of amusement. They'll sell you insurance, a suit of clothes, a cup of coffee, but never a laugh. If Broadway were awake it wouldn't let these people on it.

10:30 a. m.: Broadway yawns. Actors in their sleep walk to rehearsals. Some poor nut has a song hit that no one will take off his hands. Ham and eggs at Childs'. Countless actors who believe that today their break may come. Press agents going to what they call work. Broadway yawns again. Part of it goes back to sleep. The other part marches. They don't make a dent. The Street still belongs to the foreign invasion. School kids and people looking for work standing in line to get into the Paramount at the cheap morning prices. The afternoon papers begin to appear on the news stands.... Yawn, Broadway, but put your hand over your mouth.

* * *

2 p. m.: Broadway is waking up. The light, the air, the sunshine is foreign. Matinee crowds now fill the streets. Actors are going to work. Why do they have matinees? You ought to see the same show some night that you saw in the afternoon. Where do people get the time to go to theaters in the afternoon? Why don't they sleep? Actors are going to matinees. To see how they would have played the part or to applaud a fellow performer. A night club has a rehearsal in the cellar. Work all night and work all day. It's a racket. Some people find heaven in a dive. Producers having their breakfast. Big business deals written out on the tablecloths....Broadway is waking up. Theatrical folks are hurrying to their doctors. To their dentists. To take a sun-ray bath. Must keep in good condition. What's the daytime? The curtain's going up. More jazz bands are rehearsing. Some one just signed a big contract and is going to get his name in lights. What the hell good is daytime? You can't see your name in lights. Come on, Broadway, wake up. Get hot. Get dark....

* * *

7:30 p. m.: It's getting dark on old Broadway. It's getting hot on old Broadway. Actors answering the 7:30 call of the theater. Grease paint. Bring in that latest shipment through the back door, will you? She's meeting him in front of the Rialto. It's an opening night down the street. Maybe they'll holler: "Author, author!" He's invested everything in this one. Gee, I hope he clicks. He's a nice guy. The critics. I'd like to see one of them write a play. Bernard Shaw? I mean a New York critic....The sky is beautiful. In some part of the world people are looking at the moon. It's getting dark on old Broadway. It's getting hot on old Broadway. No one can see above the electric light....First nights. Glory seekers. Critics. Folks in earch of amusement. Panhandlers. Bums. Noise. Lights. Greed. Backslapping. Tomorrow's papers. What you're doing now doesn't count. The present is of the past. Pretty important, aren't you all? Ever walk through a graveyard? All tombstones read alike. Broadway is getting hot.

* * *

After Midnight: Broadway is Broadway. Broadway is making whoopee. Prohibition is only for the non-drinkers. Nobody knows what day it is. Hey, waiter, this table! Policemen standing in hallways. Long lines of cabs. We won't get home 'til morning. Don't talk like that to him. Want to get bumped off? Clubs banging on tables. That's applause. Applause that's life to an artist....

* * *

Stray lights in an office building. Strays walking up and down as if they were going places. Couples window shopping in dark windows. A practically empty street car darting through the night. Folks quarreling. Breaking their hearts. Giving it to Broadway so it can be paid. The street is practically deserted. But this is what the invader believes is the real Broadway. This is Broadway making whoopee.

Epworth League Presents Play In Mahoning M. E.

Excellent Performance Is Given; Other News Notes Of The Seventh Ward

"At The End Of The Rainbow", a play in three acts was presented in a most creditable manner in the Mahoning M. E. church Thursday evening. A large audience was present to see the performance and it is expected a larger audience will be present this evening, when the play will be given a second time.

The play is a comedy-drama in three acts and was given by members of the Senior Epworth League of the church. A cast of twenty-one persons taking part. It is a college play, the first scene takes place in the sorority house of the Theta Thi. The second scene is a masked ball in the library of Lawyer Preston's home. The third scene, the college athletic club attending a football game.

In addition to the college life, sororities, athletics, college songs and yells there is a plot which adds to the interest of the play. The plot centers about two students at the college and a will, or rather two wills. Douglas Brown, a football player, has been disowned by his father, his father dies and leaves two wills. The first will benefits Mrs. Brown, step-mother of Douglas and also her daughter by a former marriage. The plot thickens when they attempt to get the possession of a second will, of which they know exists, from Lawyer Preston. Besides drama, there is lots of comedy throughout the play. It is well presented, all characters taking their parts well. Rehearsal have been held for some time under the direction of Mrs. Gussie Owens Gordon.

Before the play and between acts selections are played by the Sabbath school orchestra under the direction of Loy Gwin.

Nellie Preston, a bride, Mrs. Thelma Booher.

Louise Ross, known as Miss Grayson, Helen Anderson.

The Imp, a Freshment, Grace Wallace.

Mrs. Brown, step-mother of Douglas Brown, Mrs. Florence Mauck.

Members of the Theta Thi sorority —Polly Price, Doris Tackitt; Elsa Ernest, Edith Johnston; Marjorie Arnold, Rilla Broom; Marie Swift, Frances Frost.

NEW LIBRARY BOOKS.

New library books are being received each week at the branch public library in the Seventh ward. Within two or three weeks a large order of books will be placed on the shelves in the library.

The circulation of books at the local branch remains about the same. About a thousand books are given out each week.

LOYAL WOMEN.

The Loyal Women Bible class of the Madison avenue Christian church had their monthly social meeting Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. J. F. Edmunds of North Liberty street. There was a good attendance of members present. Mrs. Baker was a special guest.

During the evening a brief business meeting was conducted, after which a social time was enjoyed. Later delicious refreshments were served by the associate hostesses who were Mrs. Edmunds, Mrs. J. W. McHattie and Mrs. W. R. Bumbaugh.

ENROLLMENT OF GRADES.

The first grade at Mahoning school has the greatest number of pupils on their enrollment the number in the grade is 138. The seventh grade has the least number, their enrollment being 69.

The enrollment of Mahoning school by grades is: First grade, 138; second grade, 94; third grade, 97; fourth grade, 95; fifth grade, 103; sixth grade, 115; seventh grade, 69; eighth grade, 100; ninth grade 75. The total enrollment is 886.

O. R. C. LODGE.

The Ladies Auxiliary to Order of Railroad Conductors had their lodge meeting Thursday afternoon in the Clendenin hall. During the afternoon a routine lodge meeting was conducted.

The annual election of officers was held over from this meeting until the meeting in two weeks on November 15. Preceding the lodge meeting on this day there will be a tureen dinner. Committee in charge will be announced later.

Is Grateful For The Benefits Ten Herbs Gave Him

New Castle Iron-Worker In Better Health, Since Using Famous Medicine.

"I am grateful for the great help Ten Herbs has given me," was the recent statement of Mr. William A. Clements, 220 Weaver Street, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30

MR. WILLIAM A. CLEMENTS

East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily demonstrating this famous herbal compound to crowds of men and women of all ages and stations in life.

"I had been ailing for some years," continued Mr. Clements, who is an iron-worker. "I suffered with indigestion, which was caused by the various kinds of medicines it was necessary for me to take. Sometimes I could not digest even the lightest food. I would fill with gas and bloat, and my head would ache intensely. My nerves played havoc with me, so that life was anything but pleasant. I felt tired all the time, and seemed to be full of bile. My sleep was disturbed by having to arise several times during the night.

"I read about Ten Herbs in the paper, and decided to see whether it would help me. I can truthfully say that I have been greatly benefited by your medicine. My food digests better than it has for some time. Gas and the feeling that I would have to vomit have been relieved. Headaches are gone, and dizzy spells are much less frequent. My skin has a healthier glow. I rest a great deal better at night, as I do not have to arise like I used to. That weak, run-down condition has been relieved. I shall continue using Ten Herbs, for I know it sometimes takes time and patience to fully recover lost health. I am glad to recommend your medicine to others."

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, this city, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results.

Dale Marshall May Go To School For Deaf Within Month

Pittsburgh School For Deaf Sends Application Blank For Deaf And Blind Boy

Application has been received from the Pittsburgh School for Deaf at Edgewood for Dale Marshall, states J. Lee Calahan, chairman of the Rotary committee in charge of the boy. As soon as the necessary information has been assembled and returned the boy may enter the school.

In a recent letter to Md. Calahan by the school it was stated that the school has accepted the application of the committee to enter but the formal application containing all information concerning the boy would be necessary.

According to the present plans of the committee the boy will remain at this school until he learns the manual alphabet and will then be transferred to a school for the blind. The lad is both deaf and blind.

BOOKS OR ART TO REPLACE ZOO?

Whether Governor Al Smith wins or loses his fight for the presidency, he's going to have to move his famous zoo from the gubernatorial mansion at Albany, N. Y. In its place will be either the books of history of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic candidate for governor in New York, or the works of art collected by Albert Ottinger, Republican candidate. Roosevelt collects books and Ottinger is a bug on paintings.

POOR PSYCHOLOGY

Motorists in the Adirondacks speed past the sign, "Historical tablet, stop and read!" They rather enjoy disobeying the unattractive command. They discover later that the tablet marks the spot where Theodore Roosevelt became president of the United States. They regret they hadn't slowed up to learn the details.

If the preparatory warning said, "Where Roosevelt Became President," and carried an arrow indicating the tablet, not a tourist would pass. That sign would get attention, and attention-getting is the foundation of good psychology.

WHAT DO YOU SEE?

What you see depends on you. One man goes to Africa and sees nothing but sweating natives and diamonds. Another, Carveth Wells, for instance, goes and comes back with the tale of snow at the equator, nine-foot parsley and heather that grows 50 feet tall.

The difference between a good reporter and a poor one is the ability to see.

NICARAGUA

It is not strange that few persons have an accurate conception of the situation in Nicaragua. What happens there doesn't seem to be of personal importance. Few can see that it is going to affect their work, their recreation or their life in any way. Col. Henry Welles Durham brings from Managua a new picture of the Nicaraguans. He says they're not half so riotous as the people of the United States, and that Sandino is small fry. It is interesting to know that the situation was over-estimated rather than minimized.

Pittsburgh Police Officer Seriously Wounded By Thugs

Policeman Seriously Wounded As He Battles Gas Station Bandits

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—Policeman Andrew Behr, 32, was wounded seriously here early today by one of two young gunmen whom he frustrated in their attempt to hold up and rob a gasoline station.

While one man held three station attendants at bay with a revolver, the other engaged in a pistol battle with Behr, firing more than a score of shots. The two escaped when Behr fell, a bullet in his shoulder and a wound in his abdomen.

Behr told detectives he believed he had wounded the one who duelled with him.

THERE'S A REASON

He—After all, I am sure there is no place like home.

HORSE HIT BY AUTO, RIDER IS SERIOUSLY HURT

CORRY, Nov. 2.—Suffering from concussion of the brain and possible internal injuries, Norman Parkhurst of Elgin lies in a serious condition in Corry hospital as a result of an accident on the Roosevelt highway about three miles west of the city.

Parkhurst was riding on a horse and was leading a colt in the ditch alongside the highway. His horse was struck by an automobile driven by Edgar Smith of Union City. Parkhurst was knocked from the animal and seriously injured.

At the height of five feet one can see an object on the horizon a distance of three miles at sea.

Maxwell Street On Sunday Presents Phantasmagoria Of Life

TRIES TO SHOOT SAXOPHONE PLAYER

By IONE QUINBY
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The New Castle News

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Maxwell street on a Sunday: The gypsy with her table and chairs set in between two buildings, a voluptuous curtain of tawdry red, half hiding, half revealing the forecaster of fortunes. A waspish looking merchant from up street appears, looks furtively about, then disappears behind the curtain. It's his weekly custom, but he kids himself that no one knows he goes there. He gets fine tips for his business—that of a loan shark.

* * *

Next door sits a cobbler putting new soles on the shoes of dead men. Having bought up several dozen pairs of shoes of men and women murdered or dead from suicide at the semi-annual coroner's auction he is repairing them for live men to wear. There is a pair of gilded pumps, relics of a Cicero butterfly, who killed herself in a gangster's hotel. The cobbler will gild them over for his daughter, Sadie, who fingers them lovingly and wants them for Goldie Solomon's marriage reception.

* * *

Abie Shimsky shies a dried herring at old Pete, whose bananas get more customers than the Shimsky street market, and Abie's father gives him a slap for being so wasteful. It's fall and the flies aren't so bad as in summer, so Rosie crochets now, hitting the vegetables only occasionally with a swatter. Five Jewish children play at soap-box orator in the middle of the street. The scene is a conglomeration of children, horses, street venders and housewives doing their marketing. But no one ever gets hurt in this kaleidoscopic navigation.

* * *

A new load of prisoners is ushered into the Maxwell police station after the usual clang-clang of the patrol. There is Iky, who shot bullets at his neighbor's back door because of a new saxophone. And Mrs. Abramson and Mrs. Petrowsky, whose back porch battle of words has finally reached a climax. Mrs. Abramson carries the wad of hair Mrs. Petrowsky pulled out in the fight. And the pert young thing who lives upstairs over the Levinsky's and the Marinellas, who told Mrs. Marinella that the latter was lucky to get one man to pay her rent, and then threw water at her.

* * *

In the police row also sits young Dick, who boasts at the difficult boys' room in his school that he has been arrested 26 times. He is ten and a half. He's a shade more popular than Mike Garrity, who has only a record of 100 days' truancy to his credit. And there's grandma somebody or other, who is always running away from home. She is going to be sent to the psychopathic hospital next time.

* * *

In Lipsky's grocery store there's a debate going on as to who's going to get in, Al Smith or Herb Hoover, and also if Morry Eller, politician hereabouts, will be in or out after his trial in connection with the last election ward murder. Over one street vender stall there are pictures of Smith and Hoover. Below the first picture are the words, "We got Smith cough drops here." Under the other, tied to a bundle of brooms, "This is Hoover's Sweepers".

* * *

At one stand there are maltese cats, one mangy looking goat, black derby hats marked, "They wear just so good as brown ones," neckties, shoestrings, sheet music, umbrellas and second-hand books. At another, stiff-bosomed shirts are displayed. Almost touching the stand is still another with nightshirts, one of the few places in town where they can be bought.

Politicians shouldn't overlook this: As liquor increases, so does the bitterness of the opposition to those who wink at it.

SUITOR, 66, LOSES HIS FIANCEE, WHILE SHE LOSES GOWN

YORK, Pa., Nov. 2.—Miss Mazie Schmuck and three companions, Jonathan H. Lefler, Ivan Smith and David McClune, were arrested on a charge of malicious mischief after an attempt, it is said by the police, to get possession of a bridal gown which George Orwig, 66, had purchased for his prospective bride.

The prospective bride, Miss Schmuck, 27, it was said by Orwig, obtained with him a license to wed and that she changed her mind, tore up the certificate and demanded her new dress which Mr. Orwig says he purchased.

OVED 600 DIAMONDS IN AIR CRASH FOUND

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 2.—The total number of diamonds returned since Pilot William Hopson's airplane crashed near Polk on October 18, crossed the 600 mark today. With announcement that 20 more had been returned to post office authorities, detectives are now on the trail of a traveling salesman who is reported to have obtained several the day after the plane was found. All residents of Polk who profited temporarily from the find, have returned the gems.

Prohibition In Britain Certain, Says Dry M. P.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Britain will eventually declare for Prohibition.

Edwin Scrymgeour, fiery member of Parliament for the Scottish constituency of Dundee and the only man who ever got elected to the British legislature on a Prohibition ticket, is the authority for this prophecy.

Sixty-two years of age, Scrymgeour is convinced that Britain will be dry before he reaches the allotted span of life. His chief bugbear in life is the so-called temperance worker, whom he condemns as a barrier to prohibition because they do not direct all their energies towards such a goal.

Slow In Coming

"There is a dim outlook which prevents one from making any prophecy as to how long prohibition will be in coming to Britain, but I fell convinced it will come in my lifetime," Scrymgeour told an interviewer.

"There are no signs just now," he added, "on account of the want of faith and courage on the part of the temperance force of Britain but the situation will have to be confronted before long."

Scrymgeour is organizing secretary of the Scottish Prohibition Party, which shortly is engaging in its yearly battle to obtain local option—a system of modified liquor control—in many Scottish districts. This year it is not expected the local election authorities will permit such pools in more than twenty districts.

Practical Solution

"The only practical solution to the whole liquor problem in Britain is total abolition," Scrymgeour said. "It is on these lines that only that any progress can be made, and I emphatically declare that the main barrier to the attainment of prohibition in Britain is the unripeness of the temperance party to face their professed goal.

If the religious and temperance bodies of the country were to come to one dicision on the question and proceed to attack on that one decision we should capture the great body of rank and file temperance workers in the country."

Scrymgeour has a poor opinion of the workings of Prohibition in the United States. "If we secured prohibition here," he declared, "I am sure we should make a far better job of the application of the law than they are doing in America."

South Side School Pupils Give Three Plays On Thursday

Children Of Lincoln And Garfield Building Score In Program

Pupils of grades one, two and three of the Lincoln and Garfield school rendered three interesting plays at their building Thursday. Each dramatization was depicted by the children in a most pleasing manner.

Preceding the plays, devotions were conducted by Miss Grace McCabe and a poem was recited by Jane Williams.

Characters of "Mary Contrary's Rose Bush" follow: Mary Contrary, Jean Hartland; Little Jack Horner, Martin Kuttesch; Bo Peep, Mary Joseph; Simple Simon, Stanley Derzypolski; Dr. Foster, Anthony Colella; Miss Muffet, Anna Turko; Boy Blue, Milton Rogovern, and Tommy Tucker, Valentine Kish.

Then came the poem, "A Safe Friend," by Harvey Lewis and a dance by children of grade 2B-3.

Two Colored Women Arrested

On complaint of neighbors, officers last night visited the home of Hallie Johnson, negress, 109 West Lawrence street. They were refused admittance, but remained in the neighborhood for half an hour, when Officer Thompson arrested a white man who jumped over the back fence. Later the officers gained admittance to the Johnson home and arrested Hallie and Peggy Williams, negress, who was also found there.

This morning the white man told of being invited into the place and paying five dollars to one of the women. He also explained how he had made his escape, only to be captured by Officer Thompson.

This morning before Mayor William H. Gillespie Hallie Johnson pleaded not guilty to the charge of being a keeper of a disorderly house, while Peggy Williams pleaded not guilty to the charge of being an inmate of a disorderly house.

They were ordered held for alderman's court and will be turned over to an alderman of this city, where they will be charged with the same offenses on which they were held at police court.

School Tax Exonerations

The Democratic candidate for the General Assembly in the New Castle District was treasurer of the City of New Castle for four years. His term ended the first Monday of January, 1928. During the four years of his term, he drew as compensation for his services Eighty Thousand, Eight Hundred and sixty-one and 14-100 ($80,861.14) Dollars. Out of this he paid his assistants.

The law imposes upon each one of us a Five ($5.00) Dollar per capita tax for school purposes. After the expiration of his term, the former City Treasurer, who is now the Democratic Candidate for Assembly, asked to be exonerated from the collection of certain taxes. Among other items was one for Thirty-one Thousand, One Hundred and Seven and 77-100 ($31,107.77) Dollars on account of this per capita or personal tax for school purposes. This exoneration was subsequently allowed. This means that almost 6,000 men and women, assessed for the single year of 1927 in the City of New Castle, did not pay this per capita or personal tax for school purposes. The treasurer did not collect it. All the information in this connection is on file in the Office of the School Board. It is a public record. That office is on East street. The records contain a complete list, by wards, of the names of the persons who did not pay, together with the reason assigned for not making the collection.

One Man Picked Out the Following In One Ward:

Case No. 1.

A man and his wife, under forty years of age, the man employed as a foreman. They own their own home and have lived in the same place for three years. The reason given—"Old, unable to pay."

Case No. 2

A man who makes Ten Dollars a day at his trade, and his wife. They moved four squares during the year but remained in the same neighborhood. The reason given—"Cannot locate." He has a straight line telephone and is listed in the telephone directory.

Case No. 3

A man and his wife who have lived in the same ward for more than five years. The reason given—"Moved, cannot locate." He moved one square.

Case No. 4

A young man and his wife who have lived in the same apartment for more than two years. The reason given—"Moved, cannot locate."

Case No. 5

An employee of a public service company, together with his wife. Moved from one ward into the adjoining ward. The reason given—"Moved—cannot locate." He is listed in the telephone directory.

Indictments In Pittsburgh Graft Probe Returned

Special Grand Jury In Pittsburgh Urged To Speed By Attorney Gardner

MANY WITNESSES GIVEN SUMMONS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—Urged to speed by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner, the special grandjury investigating alleged vice and corruption in Pittsburgh and Allegheny county today began the task of returning the formal indictments of 252 persons enmeshed thus far in the jury's net.

Although admitting that it will require rapid action to return all the indictments today, Gardner declared he is doing everything possible to facilitate the work, as the jury, behind locked doors, examined the voluminous pages composing the indictments.

A number of witnesses, summoned by subpoenas issued yesterday, were in the waiting room today as the jury's session began. The witness roll was expected to approximate 50 persons as the day wore on. As the grand jury proceeds with the work on the indictments, these witnesses will be called in by Gardner, probably for final verification of averments of overt acts contained in the indictments.

As the writs were returned Gardner hoped that the entire work would be completed by late this afternoon. Gardner wants to adjourn the jury over the week-end. The jury will reconvene next Wednesday and listen to evidence which Gardner believes will result in indictments of persons more important than those yet caught by the probe.

The regular county jury begins next Monday. This will necessitate new quarters for the special probe jury.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

AN APPRECIATION.
November 1st, 1928.

Mr. Fred L. Rentz,
Care News Company,
N. Mercer St.,
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Mr. Rentz:—

On behalf of the South Side Merchants I am directed to extend their sincere appreciation for the co-operation given by the News Company to the South Side Hallowe'en celebration.

The merchants of Slabtown, indeed appreciate the publicity that helped to make the affair such a tremendous success, and as general chairman I want to join them in extending my appreciation and thanks.

Everybody had a lot of fun out of it, and we all hope that next year we can have a bigger and better celebration.

Very truly yours,
HARTZEL HUSTON.

Six-Story Fall Fatal To Window Washer

MASSILLON, O., Nov. 2.—Anthony Muschick, 20 of Canton, plunged six stories to his death here when he failed to make a supporting strap secure while washing windows on the Ohio-Merchants Bank building.

Muschick, it is said, had fastened one end of the strap to the window but failed to fasten the other. When he leaned back to begin work on the windows, the strap gave way and he tumbled to instant death.

Chinaman, Said To Be 250 Years Old, Has Wed 14 Times

TIENTSIN, Nov. 2.—A man who is declared to be 250 years old and in spite of his years young and vigorous in spirit and physically strong has just been discovered in the little village of Shang-chuan, just north of Wanhsien, in the province of Szechuan, China.

Li Ching-yun is the name of this strange individual who is said to have been born in the 17th year of the reign of the Emperor Kang Hsi, one of the first of the Manchu dynasty. Many who have seen him recently declare that his facial appearance is no different from that of many who are two centuries his junior.

Li is a native of Ching-an. He has traveled extensively, and everywhere he goes he is welcomed by the people. Many military and civil officials have also conferred honors and presents upon him.

It is said that when he was only a few years old he could read and write, and that by the time he had reached his 10th year he had traveled throughout Kansu, Shansi, Sinkiang, Tibet, Assam, Manchuria and Siam gathering medical herbs. This continued to be his trade until he was 100 years old. Since that time he has been traveling all over China selling medicine for a living. He says he makes it a practice to walk every day at least 100 li, a little more than 30 English miles.

Li has been married 14 times, and at present has 11 generations of descendants. His children, grandchildren and so on down the line number in all 180 persons. His eyesight is still good, and the finger nails of his right hand are very long.

Scranton Waitress Victim Of Suicide

(International News Service)

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—Miss Edna Lisk, 18, a waitress, shot and killed herself in a park this morning.

The girl took her life near a group of city employes who were sweeping leaves in the park. They rushed to her aid, but she died before she arrived at a hospital. Police were at a loss in assigning a motive.

No Hunting Tuesday Under State Ruling

FRANKLIN, Pa., Nov. 2.—The hunting season lacks the enthusiasm this year it formerly held. For instance election day is near and there will be no chance to go out with dog and gun and bring home small game.

The week end privilege it not the success that the full hunting week has been heretofore; game protectors realize it; the average man with the gun knows it and the ones who haven't yet taken out licenses are not in a hurry to do so.

Democrats Given Clean Bill Today

Charges Of Corruption Against Indiana Democrats Found Not True

(International News Service)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 2.—The special grand jury summoned by Superior Judge Orlo B. Deahl, a Democrat, on the request of Prosecutor Samuel Schwartz, a Democrat, to investigate alleged conspiracies in Democratic political circles in St. Joseph county, to corrupt the election next Tuesday, today gave the Democrats a clean bill.

The jury in its report to Judge Deahl said that there was no evidence to substantiate sensational corruption charges aired in articles appearing in the Fort Wayne News-Sentinel and the South Bend Tribune. These articles, written by William Gross, an editor writer for the News-Sentinel, alleged that the St. Joseph county Democrats were importing "floaters" to swell the Democratic vote and were planning to "steal" the election.

Three executives of each of the two papers were witnesses before the grand jury.

Legendary Feat Almost Equalled By Equestrienne

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 2.—A modern Swedish Valkyr is Miss Linde von Klinkowstroem, who has almost equalled the legendary feat of King Charles XII in riding horseback from Constantinople to Stockholm. This daring young equestrienne is now enroute from the Swedish capital to Rome, riding unescorted on her nine-year-old horse "Castor".

She has just arrived in Berlin, thereby completing the first leg of her arduous journey. She was met at the outskirts of the city by members of Berlin's riding academies and hunt clubs, also on horseback. Both she and her mount were in the best condition, ready to continue the solitary trek to the Eternal City with no delay.

Two years ago Miss Klinkowstroem rode from Stockholm to Paris. She was escorted from her father's estate "Stafsund" to the city of Malmoe in the extreme south of Sweden by her friend, Miss Maja Flodqvist, but after crossing the Baltic to Luebeck in Germany on a steamer, she rode the rest of the way alone. In Brussels she arrived in time to see the wedding festivities for the Swedish-born Princess Astrid and Crown Prince Leopold. From there she continued direct across the recent battlefields to Paris, where she stayed with her sister, Thora, whis is married to a Swedish artist, Nils von Dardel. Before she reached Paris, however, she discovered that "Castor" had developed a saddle wound, but instead of waiting for it to heal, she shipped saddle bags to Paris by train and finished the last 90 miles bareback.

In Sweden Miss Klinkowstroem has long been noted for her equestrian feats. She is familiar with the care of horses and can shoe her mount herself with expert skill. Her father is a noted horseman.

Tax Exemption List Discussed

Council To Decide Volunteer Firemen Tax Exemption Problem Monday

Council today took up the much discussed Volunteer Firemen exemption list, juggled it around then sent it back to committee to be hauled forth Monday and decided, for this year's taxes, at least, when they convened in city hall.

Recently the matter came before council and Mayor Gillespie voiced objection to exempting the Volunteer firemen.

The school board exempted the volunteers from their school tax, $5, but some of them have refused to accept the exemption.

In fact, it is reported among the friends of the volunteers, that it isn't the tax exemption so much desired as the spirit that binds them to the fire department in which they are interested. As the result of their interest and aid whenever possible they are named volunteers.

Today Councilman Davies, head of the bureau of safety, which includes the fire department, called for the list.

"How many are on the list," asked Reeves.

"I move the exemption be granted," said Davies.

"Do we grant exemptions each year?" continued Reeves.

"The list has been here for perusal" answered Davies.

"How long has this been going on?" asked another.

Burns replied, in substance, since the city became a city.

"This is getting to be a pension list then?" asked Davies.

"There are people on that list who do not know they are on," informed Mayor Gillespie. "They pay their taxes," he declared.

Mayor Opposes Exemption

Davies explained that each company names a certain number of volunteer firemen.

"I imagine it is necessary then, declared Reeves.

"Although they don't go to fires," retorted the mayor.

"It is a good investment in some ways to the city," explained Councilman Tyler who added that many of them do attend fires and again there are some who on account of business cannot follow the fire-fighting apparatus.

"That is all perfectly well but we should cut down the list," maintained the Mayor.

"Some of these men on this list go to as many fires as the members of the paid fire department," Davies declared. "I wish you gentlemen would study the list."

Decide Question Monday

"I believe a resolution was passed some time ago asking the fire chief to make a recommendation as to who should be given exoneration," said Burns.

"I move that this list be held up," said Reeves.

The list went actionless so far as legislation is concerned after Mayor Gillespie had remarked: "It is the principle of the thing I object to." Council mutually agreed to let the list lay dormant until Monday. By that time Councilman Davies hopes the members will study the list and be prepared for a "Yes" or "No" vote.

There are 141 names on the list, it is said.

Tyler Goes After Holiday Auctions

Proposed Law Would Prevent Goods Being Brought Here For Auction

Councilman Walter V. Tyler today introduced an ordinance in council which met at the city building and which primarily is aimed at the person who conducts an auction sale.

The bill provides:

That it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to sell or offer for sale at public auction goods, wares or merchandise without obtaining permission from the city.

That the person, firm or corporation must make an application to the city treasurer, obtain a license good for only 15 days and place a bond good for 15 days after the auction is finished.

Tyler said his ordinance is nothing more than a protective measure as Christmas is coming and during the inquiry of applicants it may be possible to find out if the auction is legitimate or "goods are imported for the auction.'

The guilty would be punished by the payment of a fine.

Some councilmen thought the ordinance dealing with transient merchants covered the case but council deemed it best not to discuss the ordinace today and therefore sent it to committee where the merits of the measure will be aired fully.

Tyler's Sewer Bill Is Passed

City Hopes To Better Sewer Situation In City, Bill Shows

City council today met in formal session at council chambers, city hall and adopted Councilman Walter Tyler's ordinance which amends another ordinance pertaining to public sewers.

Acording to the bill to become a law within ten days, plugs cannot be removed or sewers tapped without consent and supervision of the city engineer.

Joints in sewer connections or house connections shall be made water-tight by the use of an approved asphaltic compound or in wet ditches by approved asphalt putty or cement grout by means of a device as good as the Weston gasket and form.

Can Condemn Connections.

The measure provides that house connections which are subject to leakage can be condemned and if surface water enters the sewer the house conection can be removed at the cost of the property owner.

All conections between any sewer and any house or other building shall be made with cast iron pipe except where the ground is solid sufficiently for a foundation and then a cylindrical terracotta pipe of the best quality may it be ued if laid on a smooth bottom with a groove cut in the bottom of the trench for each hub.

Second Coming Of Christ Theme

Nearly 2,000 Attend Service At Everybody's Tabernacle Thursday Night

MANY SEEK ALTAR DURING SERVICE

Nearly 2,000 people were gathered in Everybody's Tabernacle, South Mill street, between Division and Friendship streets, Thursday evening, participating enthusiastically in the singing of the gospel hymns that have now become familiar to the thousands who have been attending the services, after which they were held enthralled by the wonderful discourse of Evangelist C. H. Erickson on the topic "The Second Coming of Christ."

Quoting from various portions of the Bible and chiefly from the 24th chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew, Evangelist Erickson brought home to his hundreds of interested listeners the fact that the second coming of Christ has been predicted from the very beginning of time, as recorded in the Bible, that his coming may be anticipated at any time and that no one will know of that time until it has occurred.

His second coming, the evangelist said, was just as sure as His first advent on this earth and that the one best way to be prepared for that event was to have faith and belief in Jesus Christ and His teachings.

The evangelist said, among other things: "It's true that the second coming of Christ has been caused to fall into a certain amount of disrepute, because of those persons who, believing in His coming, have attempted to read the signs, set dates for His coming and be prepared for the eventful day. No matter, however, what these people may have done in their desire to be prepared, the second coming of Christ is assured and a study of the Holy Bible will establish that very firmly but no man can tell the time nor the manner in which he will come.

"In the first place, Jesus Christ, Himself, has said "I am going to prepare a place for you and I will come again to take you unto myself." Christ will keep His own promise.

"Teh Bible is filled from one end to the other with predictions as to His second coming, even before the occasion of His first visit on earth. Enoch told of the second coming, as did Job and Daniel and others in the Bible. The Holy Spirit urges us to be ready and I believe that it will occur some of these days.

"How is He coming? That is something that is known only to God. There will be no warning. Those who are ready will be gathered up and taken to that heavenly home prepared for them by Jesus Christ and the dead shall be among the first to rise and greet Him. We read in the 24th chapter of Matthew "But as the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be. For as in the days that were before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark. And knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be.'

"So you see, how or when the Son of God will make His second coming is not known. It is therefore better for you to be ready, for the time of His coming might otherwise find you unprepared."

With this strong concluding appeal, Evangelist Erickson then invited those under conviction to come forward to the altar and while the Alliance colored quintet rendered such selections as "Just Outside" and "Are You Coming Home Tonight?" and numerous ministers and workers assisted, approximately a dozen people made the decision for the better life and came forward.

After prayer for those who had made the decision and the singing of "I Surrender All", "Come Into My Heart" and "O How I Love Jesus" by the vast audience, those who sought relief through prayer and anointing from various physical ills, came to the front, where they were anointed and prayer was offered by Evangelist Erickson for their relief from their various physical ills.

Spurgeon R. Jones of the Alliance quintet then rendered "The Unclouded Day" after which the gathering was dismissed with prayer and benediction by Rev. H. L. Johnson of the Simpson M. E. church.

The service started at 7:30 o'clock with the singing of the wonderful revival hymns, which the services at the tabernacle are making popular in hundreds of homes of the city. Mrs. Erickson, wife of the evangelist, led in this part of the service and the tabernacle rang with the enthusiastic singing of the big congregation. The Alliance quintet then followed with a number of selections, which were well received. Rev. J. M. Carothers of Butler, an evangelist and singer, who was present on the platform, was then called upon and rendered a solo, "I Trust in the Lord."

Before starting on his sermon of the evening, Evangelist Erickson called for a short testimonial service on the part of those who have received benefit from the services of the tabernacle. There were a number of persons who gave such testimony.

An interesting feature of the service Thursday evening was the presence on the platform of a considerable number of ministers of churches of this city and vicinity. They assisted throughout the services.

Friday evening, Evangelist Erickson will deliver another of his highly important messages on healing. His topic will be "What is Faith?" Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Lacey will render "We Never Let the Devil Wink." Saturday night will be of interest and pleasing surprises. Miss Rita Carden, pianist of the tabernacle, will render a special vocal solo, while Spurgeon R. Jones of the quintet will render a selection on his violin.

Sunday afternoon Evangelist Erickson will preach on the subject "The Holy Spirit." This service will start at 2:30 p. m.

The revival services start on their seventh week this evening.

Civil Flying Is Making Progress

About 2,000 Airports Are Available In Country; Business Men Use Planes

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—America today is doing a substantial amount of civil flying, the American Air Transport Association reports. The great transcontinental system of air mail, express and passenger service is expanding almost monthly; new passenger lines between strategic cities are being started, better and more powerful equipment is being put on the regularly established routes. Executives are flying their own airplanes in the conduct of daily business.

Approximately 2,000 airports are available and the manufacturing industry has all the orders it can care for. The flying activities may be divided into three general classes, the association reports: Air transport, or scheduled traffic, over regular routes of mail, express, passenger; air service operations such as taxi service, crop dusting, photography, over-city flights, tours, and others and private, including pleasure aviation and the business travel of executives. The number of business men using airplanes in their daily affairs is rapidly growing.

Air Mail Service Opens In Mexico

Line Will Carry Mail And Passengers Between Mexico City And Yucatan

(International News Service)

VERA CRUZ, Nov. 2.—An air mail and passenger service has been inaugurated today between Mexico City and Merida the capital of Yucatan, by the Mexican Aviation company.

The service will be maintained by Fairchild machines of 540 horsepower, capable of carrying four passengers and 200 pounds of mail.

The contract made between the government of Mexico and the concern calls for 70-hour schedule between terminals and includes stops at Vera Cruz, Villahermosa, Ciudad del Carmen and Campeche. The service reduces teh present duration of transit by rail and steamer of from six to seven days to seven hours, Yacatan and its capital city being without rail connection with other parts of Mexico.

Supposed Dead Man Is Found Alive

CAMBRIDGE, O., Nov. 2.—The body of the man who died in Akron and was buried in a cemetery here, after being identified as that of George O. McCoy, 23, Cambridge, who later turned up alive, was exhumed and is being held, pending receipt of word from Akron authorities.

The mixup in identification remains unexplained. Mrs. Ida Braggs, mother of McCoy, and her two daughters, who identified the body in Akron as that of their son and brother, said today they were positive the body was that of McCoy when they viewed it in the Akron morgue.

They said the height, weight and facial features were the same, and that the body bore marks that they knew were on the body of McCoy.

McCoy also was unable to explain the mistake in identification.

Just before the man died in Akron, he said his name was George Whitney and that he lieved in Cambridge. Police here were notified but were unable to find anyone who knew George Whitney.

Later a man informed Akron authorities the body was that of George O. McCoy of Cambridge. McCoy's mother and sisters went to Akron and identified the body, which was sent here and after funeral services was buried.

Defeated Congressmen Are Forced To Remain In Office

NORRIS OBJECTS TO "LAME DUCKS"

Old Guard In Both Parties Defend Session As Institution

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—We shall be having another of those painful "lame duck" sessions of congress pretty soon.

That is to say—

On November 6, besides the presidential fight, one-third of the senators and all the representatives, except a few who are retiring voluntarily, will be up for re-election. Some are sure to lose — a great many in the event of a landslide.

It seems as if a beating ought to be bad enough. But no, a further ordeal awaits the victims.

Though licked at the polls in November, they will still remain in office and are expected to show up in Washington in December to serve three months more—defeated, but forced to stick around for the voters to gloat over, and to make fun of as "lame ducks."

* * *

It is as if a gladiator, who had just been knocked cold in the prize ring, were to be revived by the referee and required to stagger through an additional round.

A thing like that very properly would be denounced as a brutal spectacle.

There is a growing feeling in Washington that a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Politicians is needed to put a stop to the present biennial torture of lame ducks.

* * *

Senator Norris, in particular, has led in the demand that any lawmaker once crippled by the voters of his home state or district, be destroyed immediately.

It would be nice to think of the Nebraska solon as moved by sentiments of sweet compassion for the lame ducks.

However, the truth is that the mere matter of putting the lame ducks out of their misery enters not at all into the senator's calculations. What he objects to is the presence of a lot of lame ducks, hobbling around the Capitol building, soliciting sympathy, for a whole session of congress after their constituents have expressed a preference for other representation.

* * *

The argument against lame ducks is this—

The senator or representative who comes back to Washington, following defeat for re-election, already has suffered the extreme penalty that his home folk possess the power to inflict on him. Politically speaking, the worst has happened to him that can possibly happen to him.

Yet for there months he still has a vote in congress.

There usually are chances for him to cast his vote a few times so as to win the gratitude of interests which have plenty of juicy appointments to give out— some to public jobs; some to private ones.

* * *

The theory is that this is apt to be a temptation to a lame duck, with his term just ending, disgruntled and out of sympathy with his constituency, anyway.

Of course, it is a temptation which many lame ducks are proof against.

Nevertheless, a pretty sizeable bunch of them in the past have slid into mighty snug berths under rather suggestive circumstances, thus getting themselves considerably talked about.

BURNS FROM HOT COFFEE PROVE FATAL

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 2.—As a result of burns, received several days ago, when a pot of hot coffee fell from a stove and spilled over him, Harry Kline, 4, son of Charles M. Kline of Seward, near here, died today at Memorial hospital. The little victim was playing on the floor at the time of the accident.

COLLAPSE OF STEAM SHOVEL KILLS YOUTH

WELLSVILLE, O., Nov. 2.—Albert Armitine, 19, of Braeburn, Pa., was crushed to death when pinned between the moving "bucket arm" of a steam shovel and the stationary boom when the latter collapsed.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP

Brass Tacks On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

One of the earliest references to Christians in profane history speaks of them as a people "who sang hymns and paid their taxes." This is a combination of religious and civic duties which is the fine fruitage of our Lord's teaching when he said. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's."

The Reign of Law

The reign of law is Paul's theme in the first seven verses of our lesson. Though he was living under the unspeakable tyrant, Nero, Paul nevertheless prized his Roman citizenship and used it to the glory of God. In his estimation even a bad ruler was far better than anarchy. He knew that a God of order desired order in the civic affairs of men and nations, and consequently he counseled subjection to rulers as representatives of God. "Let every man be subject unto the higher powers. For—the powers that be are ordained of God." It was a bitter pill for Paul's people to pay tribute to Rome, but Paul counseled them to "render to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due; custom to whom custom; fear to whom fear; honor to whom honor."

If Paul could thus respect and use to the glory of God his Roman citizenship under Nero, what should be our appreciation and use of American citizenship? And yet thousands of our American citizens will have so little appreciation of their glorious heritage of American citizenship as to fail to use the sacred privilege of voting next Tuesday! Paul's precept and example should teach us that the election booth is as sacred to a Christian citizen on election day as the altar and sanctuary are on the Lord's day. Not that it is the church's business to mix politics and religion. The church must continue to raise up for and turn over to the state a righteous Christian citizenry, and the state is God's realm in which that Christian citizenry is to render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's. These two institutions of God, church and state, must no more be mixed with one another than arrayed against one another.

The Reign of Love

From the reign of law Paul passes to the reign of love as he says: "Owe no man anything, save to love one another: for he that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law . . . Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: love therefore is the fulfillment of the law." The Christian will not only discharge his civic duties to the state, but also his social duties to his neighbor and to society. He will pay all of his debts with the single exception of that debt of love which he must ever and always owe to his neighbor. This love debt he can never fully discharge. He must ever continue to owe love to all mankind.

The Realm of Life

Here Paul passes from the realms of law and love to the realm of life, as he exhorts his readers to live the life of soberness and decency which must always be characteristic of the Christian life. "Let us walk becomingly, as in the day; not in reveling and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and jealousy. But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts thereof."

(The International Uniform Sunday school lesson for November 4 is Romans 13:1-14, the subject being "World's Temperance Sunday", and the Golden Text Romans 13:10: "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor: love therefore is the fulfillment of the law.")

Armistice Day To See Reunion Of Survivors Of "Lost Battalion"

Arrow points to Brigadier General Frederick Strong, with members of the committee, dedicating field to Lost Battalion at San Diego, Cal.

By BRIGADIER GENERAL FREDERICK S. STRONG
Written expressly for New Castle News and the Central Press

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 2.—We have a rendezvous here with the survivors of death.

The World War's most famous soldiers—from the Lost Battalion—10 years after their seven days of hell in a shell-raked valley, gather here November 10-12 to relive their vivid experiences.

Five hundred and fifty went in with the late Colonel Charles W. Whittlesey; a week later, starved, 194 came out. Today about 130 of these are alive.

The Lost Battalion wrote one of the most stirring stories of military bravery in American history. Whittlesey was ordered to reach and hold an objective. He did. And the tentacles of the German army locked about them. His men obeyed his command—they held on like leeches though almost decimated by enemy machine gun fire, they refused to quit.

The story is complex. It became necessary to take Blanc Mont, 40 miles distant, and move intermediate divisions up through fierce fighting before the Lost Battalion could be rescued.

Whittlesey's lost group was composed of officers and men from the 77th and 40th divisions, the latter of which I commanded. Eight thousand men from the 40th had joined the 77th, and of the 550 that went in with Whittlesey, about 200 went from my own division.

But will the Lost Battalion survivors want to relive their experiences? They went in for the Meuse-Argonne battle with two days' rations. The first day half their food was consumed. Then they rationed enough for three meals to cover 18 meals. Airplanes, laden with rations, overshot the deeply wooded ravine and dropped food into the German lines. The Lost Battalion was starving and being shot at from three sides. Finally came the rescue.

The men do not offer themselves as a public spectacle. Rather, they come together to see with their own eyes how their buddies are faring in the world of peace. This is the first reunion of the Lost Battalion. And it will thrill their buddies of the 40th to see them together again.

We have consecrated at Camp Kearney, near here, a spot to the 40th Division and the Lost Battalion. Such memories should never be permitted to die. No military man wants to erase from his mind indelible memories of superlative heroism.

As the Lost Battalion survivors meet here with the 40th they present in living civil form a picture that often cannot be seen until histories record valorous deeds. In our midst we have men whose supreme daring and obedience to command have engraved their names for all time in American history.

We tint white satin slippers to match your gown. Also dye your light colored slippers to any shade you desire at a reasonable price.

Alleged Attack On Germantown Man Is Being Investigated

Man Claims He Was Seized And Branded At Republican Headquarters In New York

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Alienists at Bellevue hospital today were to examine Frank Kirkpatrick, young Germantown, Pa., broker who was found naked, bound, gagged and with the initials K. K. K. scratched on his shirt near the old Jerome reservoir in The Bronx.

Kirkpatrick told a fantastic tale of having been kidpaped by three men outside Democratic national headquarters in the General Motors building and having been stripped and branded with the Klan legend at Republican national headquarters. Then, he said he was dumped out on the vacant lot where he was discovered.

District Attorney McGeehan of The Bronx branded the affair an attempt by Kirkpatrick to gain publicity. Police Captain Bruckman who quizzed him at Fordham hospital said the case didn't interest police. He declared Kirkpatrick undoubtedly inflicted the K. K. K. initials on himself with a pin.

Stuffed in the Pennsylvania man's mouth when he was found was a pamphlet, "intollerance by an intolerant" written by Kirkpatrick.

Smokers League Meets In Paris

Congress Will Include Smokers And Tobacco Manufacturers

(International News Service)

PARIS, Nov. 2.—A "date extraordinary" in the history of tobacco is to be marked on the 18th of November, when the League for the Defense of Smokers will hold an international congress in Paris. According to the organizers it will be only second in importance to the date when Sir Walter Raleigh first put spark to leaf for the comfort of Europeans.

The league indicates that it is equally ready to co-operate with anybody who may have ideas as to how tobacco can be still better enjoyed, fire risks reduced and everybody made happier all around.

The congress will include smokers, representatives of plantations, manufacturers and workmen from tobacco, cigarette and pipe factories and even tax collectors.

Other officials invited are representatives of the fire brigade, the ministry of agriculture, the forestry department and the water works.

Immense New Modern Garage And Motor Car Home Is Completed

PUBLIC INVITED FOR INSPECTION

Occupation Of New Plant Is Another Progressive Step For Rick Co.

One of the finest and most complete garage and automobile show room buildings in this section will be opened to the public for a general inspection Saturday morning, November 3, when the new home of the J. R. Rick Motor Car Company will be open for business at the new brick fire proof building located on East Washington street, nearly opposite the county court house.

The new building which consists of two floors is an all brick and steel proof building, 185 feet in length and has a frontage on Washington street of 85 feet. It has been in the process of construction since early spring and is now completed and occupied by the local concern.

The new structure is built wedge fashioned with 85 foot frontage on Washington street and is 115 feet wide at the rear of the building some 185 feet back from the street.

In the front of the new building, a huge show car display room is found, representing a space of 85 by 40 feet. It is fronted entirely by glass and is lighted by multi-colored lights.

Immediately back of this is the general repair rooms and at the rear rooms for body repairing, painting and every type of automobile work. In the front, in addition to the store display room are the offices, balcony rooms, and stock rooms.

In the basement floor, the new feature not contained in other such buildings is a reconditioned car display room. This room is also 85 by 40 feet in size, being the same dimensions as the new car display room on the first floor. Immediately back of the lower floor display room there is a huge storage car room, battery charging room and car washing rooms. One feature of this compartment is the extreme length of piers enabling a car to be turned completely around in the center of the storage room without blocking by posts and supports.

The new structure is without duplication anywhere in this section of the state. It is a part of the movement which is being made and achieved by garage men in having a building built expressly for garage purposes.

In the plans of the building, the interior was constructed so that it would be a garage and show car room exclusively and thus these added features which go to make this one of the finest such structures in the state.

The local concern have been installing equipment for the past three weeks and at the present time is near completion. By Saturday, the date of opening and inspection, the Rick firm will be fully established in their new home.

The intent of the concern is to furnish 24 hour service in automobile repairing and service of all kinds for every make of automobile.

Saturday morning, November 3, the new building and establishment will be open for the inspection and tour by the general public.

This is the fourth location of the Rick company, states J. R. Rick, president. The first stand was in Hillsville, then a removal to Mill street, later to Shenango street and now to this newly equipped and up to date ultra-modern business structure.

Paint Works At Pittsburgh Hit Hard By Flames

Fire And Three Explosions Cause $15,000 Damage To Paint Factory

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—A spectacular fire, marked by three explosions, caused $15,000 damage to the Shields Paint works here today.

Paints, oils, turpentine and other material sent flames leaping high into the air, as two fire companies checked the blaze and prevented the fire from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Authorities started an investigation to learn the cause of the explosions which are believed to have started the fire.

Two New York high school students, recently married, thought they had found an easy way of maintaining a home, but it didnt work. They were arrested on charges of stealing $2,000 worth of groceries and furnishings from cottages nearby.

Lowest Priced Sedans Maintain Popularity

Whippet Fours And Sixes Hold Conspicuous Position Among Lower Priced Cars

Despite the fact that the past summer sales of the Whippet sport models of the roadster and cabriolet type were the largest in the entire history of the Willys-Overland Company, sales executives state that the Whippet four and six cylinder sedan models maintained their position of outstanding popularity with car buyers.

Marked preference for the Whippet sedans is said to have resulted from the high performance rating of the cars and to the fact that each in its classification represents the lowest prices in the entire automobile industry.

It is pointed out that but a short time ago four cylinder sedans were listed at a higher price than the present Whippet six cylinder sedan this disclosing the remarkable progress of the Willys-Overland company in the production of low priced cars with numerous features usually associated only with automobiles selling in the higher price ranges.

This also holds true in the Whippet Four, the price reduction of last January bringing these striking models in direct price competition with the lowest priced cars in the world and establishing for the sedan model a record low price.

However the production of these cars at the lowest prices in the company's history did not result in skimping the quality of materials and workmanship. On the contrary the quality of the cars was definitely increased and features added which were not included under the earlier higher prices.

This was brought about through various manufacturing economics perfected by the company through which the car buyer was benefitted. These manufacturing economics included operation of the new body building plant rather than have this phase of manufacture done by an outside source; installation of time and labor saving machinery and an increase in the company's volume of business throughout the world.

Willys Prediction Being Borne Out

General Trend In Auto Manufacture Is Toward His Forecast

With even the larger and higher priced cars adopting the low center of gravity type of construction, which was first seen when the Whippet four was introduced more than two years ago, it is interesting to recall that John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company predicted at that time that within two years time there would be a general trend toward this design throughout the entire automobile industry.

The success of this type of construction in the Whippet and its subsequent adoption by practically all the leading motor car manufacturers of the nation, is cited as a tribute to the Willys-Overland engineering departments. At the time the first Whippet apeared on the market in the summer of 1926 Mr. Willys declared that in design and advanced features the Whippet set an entirely new trend in the light car field and that in the near future many of these new Whippet features would be generally adopted by other car manufacturers.

A casual inspection of practically every modern motor car will show that Mr. Willys' farsighted prediction ran true to form.

Although the Whippet enjoyed a remarkable sales volume during its first 18 months it was immediately following the price reduction last January that the demand for these cars and other products of the company reached such a tremendous volume that production schedules were pushed month after month to the highest mark in the company's history.

Each successive month since the first of the year has seen the Toledo manufacturer establishing new sales and production records, making 1928 the greatest year in the company's 20 years' history. As a matter of fact, before the end of seven months, Willys-Overland's production eclipsed the total production for the entire 12 months of the previous year.

Who Is Using Oldest Gas Buggy In County?

Cars may come and cars may go but whose go on forever? Yes, who has the oldest car in New Castle and Lawrence county? Not an old one that is rotting away out in the back yard or one with all of the spare parts stored in the attic, but a real red blooded he man car that is still in a good state of existence and one that will sizz the jolly old atmosphere when the family hit for church on Sunday or to Uncle Will's house on Tuesday evenings.

Years ago, back around the time when the 1900's were in infancy, Frank C. Douds, Harry Camblin and a few other mechanics constructed a horseless carriage and really made it run. It was the first to be made here in New Castle. The old gas buggy has long since departed and only a pump and minor et ceteras are remaining.

Around the streets occasionally one sees an old car supposedly of a 1914 or about then parentage. Often an old right hand drive touring car is seen percolating about the streets. Apparently these old buggies are in good shape and running smoothly.

Surely there is some one who has a car older than any one else in the county. Who is it? Remember, it must be in use and run like a rabbit or it's disqualified.

Award Prizes To Hallowe'eners

Parade At New Wilmington Is Big Success—Other News Notes

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 2. At the mummers parade staged here Hallowe'en night prizes were awarded to the boy and the girl who had the best costumes. The boy who received the gold piece as first prize was Bert McCaslin and his Russian Cossack costume won for him that honor. Little Ellen Cotton who was arrayed as an old-fashioned grandmother, won a similar first prize.

The committee of judges who awarded the prizes was composed of Walter Schaffer, A. Funk, A. L. Cordray, Mrs. W. McElwee, Mrs. Lafferty and Mrs. J. M. Clark.

The parade and the following entertainment was a decided success and proved to be an effective, safe and sane Hallowe'en. Almost every child in the college town enthusiastically took part in the proceedings and proved the soundness of Jack Hulme's idea.

Having poured the final yard of concrete yesterday, the Minteer and Anderson Contracting Co., are fast bringing the new disposal plant to completion. After a few minor details of work have been finished the new local plant will be ready for use.

At a recent meeting the members of the high school here elected two of their number as official cheer leaders at the athletic contests. The new leaders are Charles Criss, Miss Becky Wallace and Miss Billy Wallace.

The Community Chest campaign began in the college town yesterday and will probably be completed by Saturday evening. It is the hope of the workers that the required budget will be raised before the final day.

Mr. and Mrs. Michmerhuizen of Grand Rapids, Mich., and Mrs. Eufema and Harry Euwema of Chicago, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Ben Euwema here.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Philips left yesterday to spend the week end in Erie.

Mrs. Hallie Taylor of Midway, Pa. visited at he home of her son Dr. A. A. Taylor here recently.

Colored Quintette At Simpson M. E.

Featuring the Sunday morning service at Simpson M. In Appreciation

The career of Willys-Overland Fine Motor Cars in New Castle and vicinity is a monument to the sales and service principles and practices introduced and constantly followed from the beginning by J. R. Rick.

Such conspicuous success as this comes only of two accomplishments—good merchandise and a service to the public well performed. To fulfill the first it has been the function of Willys-Overland. To fulfill the second has fallen to the lot of Mr. Rick. And it is our pleasure and privilege here to record that it is to his personal ability and integrity that the progress of Willys-Overland Fine Motor Cars in the New Castle territory has very materially been due.

Governmental Profit Next June Relies On Many "Circumstances"

Close Adviser To Secretary Mellon Says That Outlook Is Very Bright

Corporations Showing Better Business And Heavier Returns For 1928

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Whether Uncle Sam is going in the hole or will show a profit in the year ending next June depends upon three important "circumstances".

A close adviser to Secretary Mellon told the International News Service today that on the favorable side of the government's ledger is the fact that many of the big corporations already are in a position to anticipate materially heavier returns for their 1928 business than were shown last year.

Big Tax Yield

That means a greater proportionate yield of corporation taxes, although it will not offset the loss from a one-half per cent reduction of rates. The rate cut will not be felt until the March and June payments next year, since the reduction applies to 1928 incomes, returns on which are due March 15.

Increased productivity of business probably chiefly applies to about 5,000 of the 225,000 corporations in the country from which the government obtains taxes. The treasury obtains more from the 5,000 than all the rest together.

In addition the 1928 revenue act has released a considerable sum for reinvestment, with consequent tax yield. There is the normal growth of the country to cut down the tax loss.

With reasonable appropriations at the last session of the 70th Congress, and provided no heavy drains are made on the treasury by the possible extra session, the government will show a surplus at the end of the year.

However, this expert pointed out that the appropriation of heavy sums in December and an extra session that would provide additional expenditures for farm relief and flood control before June 30, undoubtedly would mean an unbalanced budget for the first time since the war.

Deficit in October

At the close of October there was a paper deficit of $357,000,000 compared to a $48,000,000 surplus a year ago. Owing to completion of the year's sinking fund operations in four months, however, the government is actually but $172,392,000 behind last year.

The 1928 revenue act means a loss of approximately $100,000,000 this year and $200,000,000 thereafter, as compared to 1927.

In addition to the theoretical $100,000,000 tax loss revenue will be cut about $160,000,000, as compared to last year, in repayments by railroads. The railroads have paid back to the treasury virtually all they borrowed just after the war. Ordinary expenses will increase probably $80,000,000, and there will be other minor reductions in revenue.

All of these items taken from last year's surplus of $398,000,000 indicate the narrow margin between receipts and expenditures for the year.

A deficit might mean that the first regular session of Congress under the next administration would be called upon to revise tax rates upward to restore a balanced budget.

COLOGNE, Nov. 2.—The city authorities have decided to maintain in permanence certain parts of the great "Pressa" Exposition which was closed on October 14, and to develop them into an international institute for "newspaper science."

The institute is to be made a part of the University of Cologne and to have its own professorship.

Faker Gets $12,000 For Injury Cases

"Milked" British Insurance Companies, Vet Now Is In Penitentiary

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—The world's champion accident faker has at last been caught after "milking" British assurance companies for $12,000 in two years.

He is George Winter Williamson, former officer in the British Royal Air Force, and he is now "resting" for 12 months in a London penitentiary.

Williamson's method of deceiving the assurance people was unique. He had an un-united collarbone, and taking advantage of this, persuaded doctors that he had a broken collarbone as the result of an accident.

Since 1926 he had made 20 claims on various assurance companies, nineteen of which were successful. The twentieth was his undoing, the assurance company on which the claim was made being more than usually astute.

Shop Girl's Romance With Merchant Prince Surprises Home Town

(Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The New Castle News)

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Between a dreaming little shopgirl in her modest Albany home and a wealthy London merchant prince stood more than 3,000 miles and $40,000,000.

But what are miles and money to Dan Cupid, little sprite of love and romance, whose arrows have coursed around the world?

Chalk up a bullseye in the person of John Robert Lawson-Johnston, a young multi-millionaire merchant of London, England.

Mark down the name of Miss Betty McCormick, Albany shop girl, whose folks live in a brick tenement in an unpretentious street not far from St. Ann's, where Betty learned her A. B. C.'s and where she was picked as the prettiest girl in her class.

Though the papers and the people of Albany were not to know about the romance between Betty and John until the wedding in New York, it leaked out somehow.

Betty, said her folks, met John in London when she visited there some time ago. The first marriage of Lawton-Johnston, once an attache of the British embassy, was to the former Barbara Guggenheim. It is said they were divorced a year ago. The marriage of Betty and Lawton-Johnston is to take place at New York soon, it is reported.

London Plans Place For Aerial Parking

"Parking Grounds" Now Being Built At Heston, Outside, City

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Indicatives of the time when Londoners will fly where they now walk or ride, the first aerial parking place in the country's history is now being built at Heston, on the outskirts of the capital.

Those responsible for the undertaking are anticipating the day when such parking places will be necessary, and believe in getting in "on the ground floor."

Several acres in extent, the "park" will include a large space for enabling airplanes to land and take-off, workshops, hangars, garages, clubhouse and restaurant.

A flying school for the instruction of would-be aviators is being established on the site.

EASTBROOK

CARNIVAL AND EXHIBIT

A Hallowe'en carnival and exhibit was held in the school building Friday evening. There was a good attendance and a variety of costumes. There was an exhibit of high school biology showing collections of leaves and insects. The grade school exhibits from East Brook and Hickory Heights were interesting and showed ability. They included small airplanes, art and maps and general school work. The high school athletic association realized about $60 clear on the evening's entertainment and the senior class cleared around $12 as their part.

GET REPORTS

The pupils of the high school received their report cards last Friday, October 26.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAM

The senior class was in charge of the Arbor Day exercises given in the auditorium on Friday afternoon. The program included vocal and instrumental music, short talks on hunting experience by senior boys and songs and recitations by pupils from each elementary grade. Assembly on Thursday of this week was a music assembly.

HONOR STUDENTS

First honor students for the first six weeks period are: Freshmen, Mary Lapp; sophomores, Alfred Barnes; juniors, Howard Hawthorne, and a triple tie in the senior class between Margaret Jameson, Goldie McKee and Elizabeth Kendall.

RETURNS TO SCHOOL

Hazel Hawthorne, a member of the senior class, has returned to school after a two weeks' absence in the Brookville hospital for eye trouble.

FRESHMEN LOSE

In the intra-mural basketball games this week the eighth grade defeated the freshmen 16 to 14 in a game that required two extra periods to settle.

CHURCH NEWS

There will be a union meeting for 8 o'clock November 4, at the U. P. the citizens next Sabbath evening at church. The meeting is sponsored by the W. C. T. U. of the M. E. and U. P. churches. The speaker for the evening is Attorney Clarence Patterson of New Castle. Citizens are urged to be present.

British R-101 Is Big Hotel For Travel By Air

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CARDINGTON, Eng., Nov. 2.—A huge aerial hotel, 724 feet long and 131 feet in diameter, is the best description of the Airship R-101, just being completed here for the British Government.

Its completion will end one of the most remarkable struggles ever seen between State and private enterprise.

Four years ago the British Government assented to the construction of two airships, both of which were to be twice the size of any previously built. An order for one was given to the Royal Air Force, and the other was to be built by the Burney Airship Guarantee Company. A level start was made under conditions of the greatest secrecy, and both are now nearing completion.

Differs From Zeppelin

The R.101 represents the effort of the Royal Air Force, and the most remarkable feature of it is a radical breakaway from the Zeppelin method of lattice-work construction. It is contended that its method of duralumin girders and special joints provide enormously increased strength.

Many novelties of design have been introduced. One of the most interesting consists of a reserve fuel supply that is run into special pressure tanks from which it can be blown by compressed air to any part of the ship.

The ship has been built to carry 100 passengers between England and India at a minimum speed of 60 miles per hour under conditions of luxury similar to those of a first-class hotel.

Inside its huge hull the passengers will be accommodated on a deck in the center of the craft which has an area of over 5,000 square feet, under which will be a lower deck with an erea of 1730 square feet, which, if necessary, could be increased to 4,000 square feet. This lower deck will be used by the crew and the upper deck will be fitted out for passenger accommodation.

Big Dining Room

It will have a large lounge with promenades on either side and inside the envelope, which will be fitted with windows. There will be a separate dining room capable of seating 50 persons, a number of two-berthed sleeping-cabins, and a smoking room. Below there will be a kitchen with electrical appliances for cooking food which will be brought up to the dining room in a lift. Special ventilation apparatus will control the temperature, and a large radiotorm fed from two of the ship's engines, will warm the air when necessary. 16 gasbags will hold nearly 5,000,000 cubic feet of hydrogen.

The airship will carry 37 tons of fuel, giving a cruising range of 4,000 miles. The fuel is not gasoline, but heavy oil which is less inflammable and the five engines are 650 h. p. Diesel type.

Farmers Read Many Agricultural Papers

Four Out Of Every Five Farmers Read At Least One Farm Paper

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Four out of five American farmers read at least one farm paper according to a survey by the National Fertilizer Association.

Over 900 persons were interviewed in conducting the survey.

Of the 47,628 farmers interviewed 79.7 percent stated they read one or more farm papers; 41.4 per cent read two or more and 20.3 per cent said that they read none.

The survey showed New Hampshire had the highest percentage of farmers reading these papers, the percentage being 95.7. Wisconsin was a close second with 95.5; Iowa third with 94.2 and Illinois and Ohio tied for fifth with 93.3 per cent.

Yale Joins Fight To Save Old Elms

Will Help Pay For Planting Of 100 Trees To Take Place Of Old Ones

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 2.—Yale and New Haven have combined, this fall, to aid in the perpetuation of the town's ancient title "City of Elms," and together have purchased and will pay for the plantings of one hundred new elm trees along Elm street where it bisects Yale property and along Grove and Cedar streets where they skirt Yale bounds.

Ancient elms fell when these streets were widened to handle traffic.

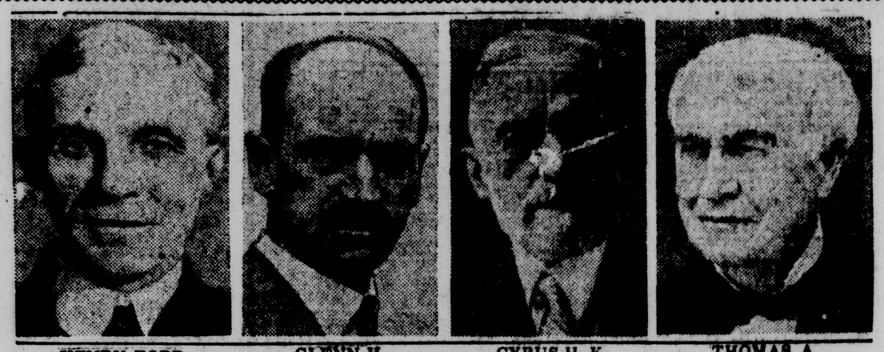
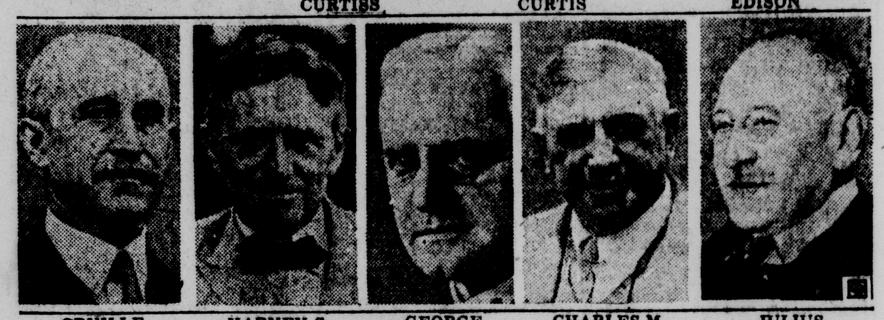
Conference of Major Industries Honors Nine Aces Of American Life; Pioneers Who Began Careers Practically Penniless, Rising To Great Wealth



HENRY FORD | GLENN H. CURTISS | CYRUS H. K. CURTIS | THOMAS A. EDISON



ORVILLE WRIGHT | HARVEY S. FIRESTONE | GEORGE EASTMAN | CHARLES M. SCHWAB | JULIUS ROSENWALD

By ALEXANDER C. HERMAN
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—An investment of three cents grew into millions!

A five-cents-an-hour organ pumper amassed a $15,000,000 fortune!

A three-dollar-a-week kitchen-sink experimenter found the secret that led to a $125,000,000 enterprise!

These sound like the catch-lines of a new series of "Work and Win" fiction yarns. But they are merely snatches from the lives of the nine men honored as "pioneers of American industry" at the fifth annual conference of major industries at New York.

Thomas A. Edison—Invention.
Orville Wright and Glenn H. Curtiss—Aviation.
Henry Ford—Automobiles.
Charles M. Schwab—Iron and Steel.
Julius Rosenwald—Merchandising.
Cyrus H. K. Curtis—Publishing.
George Eastman—Photography.
Harvey S. Firestone—Rubber.

Began Career With Pennies.

It was Cy Curtis who pulled the three cents miracle. He was 12 at the time, living in Portland, Me. He took the money, bought three newspapers, sold them for 9 cents, and started on his career—which has led him to the foremost rank of American publishers.

Ford, as a young man, dreamed of manufacturing a cheap watch. He even worked out blue prints for the factory to make flivver time-pieces. But he saw a steam engine on the street one day, got a new hunch, spiked the old, and began thinking about developing a self-propelled road vehicle. The grandma of his present automobile was born 36 years ago—in the form of a one-cylinder tricycle. The rest of the story is modern legend—with more than 15,000,000 cars of one model burning up the roads; a $78,000,000 factory, employing as many as 200,000 men at rush times, and a modern Croesus entrenched on a flivver domain.

The 5-cents-an-hour pumper was Julius Rosenwald, chairman of Sears Roebuck & Co., of Chicago. He began his ascent to industrial peak by pumping a church organ in Springfield, Ill. From this he advanced to free lance peddler, selling chromos from house to house. With his earnings he went into the manufacturing business in Chicago, and then expanded, until now he is considered one of the leading merchandisers of the time—as well as a most liberal philanthropist.

Kitchen Sink Wizard.

George Eastman was the wizard of the kitchen sink laboratory. He had to leave school at 14 and seek a job. He found one—for $3 a week. He worked and saved. And kept on experimenting in the sink. It took him 10 years before he discovered what he was seeking. But he found the secret of the photographic film, and made "picturing as you go" possible. His company had assets last year of more than $125,000,000—and his own benefactions have exceeded $60,000,000.

The dollar-a-day engineer's helper was Charles M. Schwab—after he had passed an apprenticeship as stage coach driver and grocery clerk in Braddock, Pa. By studying mathematics at night, he advanced to assistant manager of a steel plant at 19. He continued his studies, shifting them to the chemistry of iron and its compounds, and progressed further. In time he attracted the attention of Andrew Carnegie, and became his lieutenant. Then on to the presidency of the United States Steel corporation (which he resigned, when he felt that there were too many bosses), and now chairman of his own company—The Bethlehem Steel.

Pioneers of Air.

Orville Wright, with his late brother, Wilbur, were bicycle repair men in Dayton, O., when they read about aviation experiments in Germany. They developed a few hunches of their own, and flew the first heavier than air machine on the sand of Kitty Hawk, N. C., in 1903. They blazed the path through the air that made Lindbergh's achievement possible.

Glenn H. Curtiss put experimental aviation on a business basis. From the training developed in motorcycle manufacture, he built motors for the first dirigibles accepted by the United States government, developed a biplane of his own, a seaplane, and became a leading manufacturer in a new industry.

Edison's Record.

Of Edison, whom a whole world reveres, little need be told—for everyone knows that the wizard of Menlo Park has been a prime contributor to the development of modern civilization. His work has made telegraphy, telephony, movies, phonographs and cheap lights possible. But one may forget that it took 10 years of hard work, in which he made 40,000 pages of notes, and used 50 assistants, to perfect the incandescent globe.

Harvey Firestone, ninth of the pioneers crowned by the conference of major industries, has been so successful with his rubber developments that now he can spend $100,000,000 building a rubber empire in Liberia. It is interesting to note that all three of the most famous camping trio of the world—Edison, Ford and Firestone—are on this list of pioneers.

Were the successful writers of fiction to use these men as prototypes, they would be charged with imaginitis. Yet their records, from humble start to pinnacles of fame, have the most ambitious characters stopped to a walk-away.

London-Paris Planes Carry 2,000 Per Week

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Nov. 2.—Nine years of commercial flying between London and Paris, during which the number of passengers carried per week has risen from 20 to 2,000 and the speed flown from 60 to 120 miles an hour, were completed recently.

It was in August, 1919 that a small British airplane instituted the world's first daily commercial air service. The machine was a converted wartime plane, and the pilot was "Bill" Lawford, a war "ace." It carried two passengers who sat in cramped seats and who were lifted in the top of the fuselage. A 30-horsepower motor of uncertain age supplied the motive power.

First Air Liner

A few weeks later this machine was supplemented by another which carried four passengers and was then considered the "last word" in aeronautical progress.

The service really began to get going in March, 1920, when the taking off point from the English side was shifted from Hounslow to Croydon. There appeared the first real air liner, with plenty of room and comfort. It carried eight passengers at 100 miles an hour and had a magnificent cabin with a door at the side for entrance and exit. That was the beginning of luxury air travel.

Since then the air liners employed on the cross-Channel route have been getting bigger, faster and safer.

Today, on their de luxe service between London and Paris, Imperial Airways employ triple-screw machines, developing 1,200 horsepower, and carrying eighteen passengers, in addition to two pilots, engineer and a stewart, who serves refreshments from a snug buffet while the 8-ton craft speeds along at 100-120 miles an hour. The liners fly four times daily between London and Paris, Brussels or Cologne, and two thousand passengers are carried in an average week.

On a Busy Day

On a busy day as many as 50 machines—scheduled machines and specials—alight at the Croydon airport, while as many as 50 tons of merchandise are now carried in a week by passenger planes and special freighters. Americans make up the bulk of passengers during the summer months, according to officials at Croydon, while another interesting point is that women out-number male passengers by nearly 3 to 1.

Incidentally, "Bill" Lawford no longer flies as a pilot. He now directs the machines in the air by radio control from the comfort of an easy chair in the Croydon airport.

Budapest Man Seeks Wife With Lottery

Man Will Raffle Self Off To One Of 10,000 Women Wanting Husbands

(International News Service)

BUDAPEST, Nov. 2.—A marriage lottery is the latest sensation of Budapest. One of the biggest Hungarian newspapers, the "Budapesti Hirlap," publishes an astonishing proposal from a young man, who after announcing his intention of marrying, asks the paper to issue ten thousand lottery tickets at 2 Pengoes (35 cents) each, which may be bought by women (physicial deformities not excluded) in want of a husband.

The writer states his age, occupation, address, religion and testifies to the genuineness of his letter by the signatures of two witnesses. He offers to the editorial office 500 Pengoes ($85) for the expenses and an additional payment of 500 Pengoes.

The paper, however, declined the offer and conceals the name, because an editorial conference decided that this matrimonial idea is an immoral one. Although it is pointed out that the lottery-husband would win in addition to a wife, 20,000 Pengoes ($3500) as the lottery is based upon a bet.

Lumber Shows Gain Of Four Millions

Over 125 Millions Of Board Feet Are Cut In Western Part Of Country

(International News Service)

DENVER, Nov. 2.—Lumber produced in Colorado, Wyoming and South Dakota during 1927 approached a value of four and one half million dollars, according to a report recently released by the United States Forest Service in cooperation with the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce.

The total of 125 million board feet cut in the three states was a decrease, however, of 14 per cent as compared with the previous year.

More than 80 per cent of the lumber produced was western yellow pine, while the remainder was cut from lodge pole pine, spruce, Douglas, white fir and aspen.

Twenty saw mills in the territory cut a total of 80 million feet of lumber, or 2-3 of the total amount, while 80 mills out of the remaining 242 cut less than 50,000 board feet apiece during the year.

PULASKI

MASQUERADE PARTY

The members of Mrs. Charles Simpson's class of the Methodist Sunday school entertained at a masquerade party at Hotel Pulaski on Tuesday evening. The members of the Esther J. Smith Bible class and a few friends were special guests.

Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Ralph Ayers, Mrs. J. P. Clark, Mrs. R. C. Bilger, Mrs. Charles Simpson and Mrs. James Black.

The home was attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors for the occasion, and the costumes worn by the guests were wonderful in carrying out the characters they represented. Fortunes were told, also ghost stories and a variety of Hallowe'en games in which the black cat played a prominent part.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, 35 being present and Hallowe'en novelties were used as favors.

The guest list included Mrs. Joseph Evans, Mrs. E. L. Ayers, Mrs. H. K. Gilliland, Mrs. William Kerr, Mrs. Laura Wilson, Mrs. A. W. Graham, Mrs. Esther J. Smith, Mrs. Muryl Boyd, Mrs. J. F. Myers, Mrs. Lloyd Mitcheltree, Mrs. H. H. Knox, Mrs. Charles Wallace, Mrs. Robert Stowe, Mrs. E. Reese, Mrs. Adda Urey, Mrs. D. E. Funk, Miss Lois Kerr, Mrs. Francis Taylor, Mrs. H. M. Stinedurf, Mrs. Grace Wishart.

SURPRISE PARTY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Sturdevant was the scene of a very pleasant gathering on Saturday evening when a number of young people gathered in surprise fashion to celebrate Miss Pearl Campbell's 16th birthday anniversary. The home was prettily decorated in blue and gold and a very enjoyable evening was spent by the young people in a general good time. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter Pearl, and Mrs. Ruth Bunnell and Miss Mildred Barris. The honored guest received many lovely gifts in honor of the occasion.

Those present were Mrs. Ruth Bunnell and daughter Shirley and Miss Edith Fair of West Middlesex, Misses Rosalie Grill, Mildred Barris, Evelyn Grill, Raymond Urey, Floyd Myers, Adam Grill, William Campbell.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY

A very pleasant Hallowe'en party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wallace on Monday evening when their son Russell entertained a number of friends. The living room was beautifully decorated in orange and black and a number of amusing costumes were worn. A variety of games were enjoyed. A very elaborate lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Eileen Gilliland. Others present were Shirley Mae Stowe, Edna Mae Shaer, Martha Louise Bilger, Margaret McClennahan, Audrey Bilger, Ralph Stowe, James Fulton, James Winters, Hugh Wherry, James and Paul McClennahan, Russell and James Wallace.

Government Flier Is Head Hunter's God After Visit

Flies Out Of Sky In Silver Bird; Astounds South Sea Natives

(International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 2.—The latest tribal god of the Papuan headhunters is R. K. Peck, government aviator connected with the department of agriculture, and who recently returned here with an expedition from the Melanisian archipelago where they had searched for sugar cane specimens.

Peck's sudden elevation to ecclesiastical honors was brought about through his areonautical ability, divine activities not in his line. The fact that he would suddenly drop from the sky on the back of a silver winged, celestially roaring bird and land on a lake buried in the steaming jungle, was sufficient to convince the most sceptical cannibal that he was not a fit subject for the festive board.

Today he is known on government records as R. K. Peck, aviator, but on a small South Sea island, painted medicine men tell of a god who flew out of the sky on a great silver bird.

Latin Quarter Gets New Type Of French Girl

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, Nov. 2.—The emancipation of the French woman and new ideas of freedom brought over by her English and American cousins, have brought a new type of "jeune fille" to the Latin Quarter in Paris. It is what the French call a "student," l'etudiante, that is, a young woman who is working to acquire her independence.

Monique, which is one of the smartest names of the young girl of 1928, takes her "aperitif" every evening at the celebrated bar near the Pantheon. She arrives about seven, drives up in her little car, locks the door and pulls off her gloves. She tries her best to look very serious, but it is hard business with her short skirts, bobbed hair and unpainted face.

Fifteen years ago Monique would never have left the family roof without her mother or chaperone. Today she goes when and where she likes, morning, afternoon or evening. "A student today," says Monique, "is no longer a jeune fille—it's a real boy."

Evenings she is often to be seen at Gipsy's Bar or at the Noctambules dancing. Sometimes she goes to the Students' Association to see some friends. Certain evenings—oh no, they are not many—she goes home to study in order to obtain her much-desired independence as quickly as possible. Monique is really a "good girl" but her grandmother could certainly never be persuaded that she is.

America Invests Much In Flying

Over $100,000,000 Is Now Invested, Latest Figures Reveal

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—America's investment in aviation today is in excess of $100,000,000, indicative of the recent rapid growth of civil flying, according to the American Air Transport Association.

The great transcontinental system of air mail, express and passenger service is expanding monthly; new passenger lines between strategic cities are being started; better and more powerful equipment is being put on the regularly established routes. Executives are flying their own planes in the conduct of daily business.

The majority of the airplane factories are working to capacity, says the Association's statement.

Canadian business men, impressed by the speed of the New York-San Francisco trans-continental air mail now flown in 32 hours, plan a parallel air travel several hundred miles north to conneot Ottawa and Vancouver, 3300 miles apart, the American Air Transport Association reports.

Mail Planes Will Fly Great Distance

Government Expects Planes To Cover Over 10,000,000 Miles In 1929

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Mail planes will fly 7,600,000 miles this year, or two and one half million miles more than in 1927 over the air mail network now covering 37 states stopping at 102 cities which are trade centers for areas having 60,000,000 people, according to figures released by the American Air Transport Association.

During the first eight months of this year mail planes flew 94 per cent of the total mileage scheduled by the Post Office Department, or a total of 4,500,000 miles, but additional routes have forced the month mileage of the mail planes up to approximately 800,000 miles at the present time.

Critics Get X-Ray Of Brain Of Poet

Playwright Declares Brain Is Far Above Average In Contents

(International News Service)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 2.—Infuriated at what he was convinced were very unjust reviews of his recent play, poet Kiazam Bey had X-ray pictures taken of his brain and sent them to a number of his critics. He also inclosed a sworn statement by some of the leading doctors that both cranium and its contents were far above the average.

Boy Gangster Squeals; Police Find Him Killed And Accuse Pal, 13

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The New Castle News.

NASHUA, N. H., Nov. 2.—Adam Goodvitch broke the immutable law of the gang. He squealed. So he was shot, paying with is life for violation of gang law. Frank Rokas and John Misking were arrested and locked up, Rokas charged with the killing.

Just another outbreak of a Chicago gang war? Another of the kind. Just three Nashua children involved in one of the strangest killings the state has ever seen.

Goodvitch the victim was 12 years old. Roskas, accused of the actual killing, was the veteran of the gang. He is 13 and is said to have made a confession to police. Misking is 10. Rokas faces a life term for first degree murder being saved from the possibility of execution by his age, and Misking may get an indefinite term.

How long the activities of the gang had been carried on is unknown. But there were stories that one or more of the boys had been seen with huge rolls of bills so they came under suspicion. Finally a hardware store was broken into and much valuable goods stolen. Police went to the grade school attended by the three boys and had them brought to the police station for questioning.

Goodvitch was inclined to answer police questions, while the others would say nothing. Misking repeatedly nudged Goodvitch in an effort to make him hold his tongue. But the police got enough out of the lad and found the cleverely concealed hole where the loot had been stored. The boys were released with instructions to come back the next morning to have their cases disposed of with the warning that they would probably be sent to the state industrial school.

The next morning the three youngsters met at the school but left the school together. Police say Frank and John were still "sore" at Adam for "squealing" and took him to the place where they had hidden revolvers. Adam never came back alive.

In a juvenile attempt to build up an alibi Frank and John trudged 20 miles to the industrial school saying they knew they were to be sent there and wanted to be early on the job, according to police. The body was found a few hours after they reached the school.

All Are Aiding Program At Ben Franklin Stadium Saturday

Members of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs of New Castle are doing their utmost to make the Booster day affair at Franklin stadium Saturday a success. Each organization has promised its support, both collectively and individually, to do its best in getting a crowd out to tomorrow's game.

As a part of the proceeds of the South Hills-New Castle fray go to help cover expenses on new uniforms being purchased for the members of the senior high band, these civic organizations, as in every case, have hurried to the assistance of the school.

Tomorrow will see plenty of Rotarians, Kiwanians and Lions at the gridiron classic that is being offered at Franklin field.

Sixty Millions Are Spent For Stockings

British Women Use Much Hose; Figures Are Not Extravagant

(International News Service)

LONDON, Nov. 2.—An estimate that $60,000,000 is spent annually in England on women's stockings was given by Douglas Hacking, M. P., Parliamentary Secretary for the Overseas Trade Department, when he opened a hosiery exhibition at Nottingham yesterday.

Mr. Hacking said that, assuming there were 17,000,000 women in the United Kingdom, of which 10,000,000 wore silk or artificial silk stockings at 3s a pair and eight pairs a year, he did not think that figure extravagant.

What an enormous savings could be made, he added, if a holeless or ladderless stocking could be produced.

Eckener Disappointed, Sought Speed Record, Storms Proved Hamper

(International News Service)

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Nov. 2.—Although pleased with the wonderful performance of the Graf Zeppelin in riding through two storms—one on each side of the Atlantic—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the mighty dirigible, expressed disappointment tody that the elements had prevented him from making a better speed record.

It was revealed that the Graf will not be put in the regular tran-Atlantic passenger service because stronger ships are required for that use. However, the Graf will be sent back upon another voyage to the United States as soon as possible.

Never in my whole life did I have such bad luck with Zeppelins as on this American trip," Dr. Eckener told International News Service, "on the first voyage (westbound trip) the stabilizer was torn a misadventure which could only have happened through a combination of wholly inexplicable circumstances.

"On the return trip I wanted to show how fast the Graf really is, and would have done so if it had not been necessary to make long detours and if we had not run into a cyclone with the wind blowing 40 metres per second off Newfoundland.

"Just before we reached the European coast we struck another storm, which was certainly the toughest luck for one trying to make a record. But this ship stood the most severe test in splendid shape. And, for this reason, the voyage is most interesting to me personally.

"I realize that for regular trans-Atlantic traffic we must build bigger, stronger and speedier airships that can weather all storms without danger of breakage.

SPEAKS OF AMENDMENT

Oct. 30, 1928.

To the Editor:—

The Sproul commission on reorganization of the state government, of which I had the honor to be the chairman, and whose work contributed considerably to the reorganization effected under Governor Pinchot, was responsible for the amendment No. 1 of the 14 amendments to be voted up or down November 6.

The language of the amendment would lead the voter to suppose that the state intended to build a large printing establishment and impose a large expense upon the state treasury. Such is not the case. The intention, at least of our reorganization commission, was to use the penitentiaries for printing of the ordinary state papers. If amendment No. 1 were adopted, it would open the door wider for the employment of convicts in all penitentiaries to carry on a trade of printing. It would benefit the state also in the diminished cost of the printing bill.

The printers' union in New Jersey has accepted this arrangement in the Trenton prison, as a school for convicts, some of whom are already printers, so that a man who learns this important trade in the penitentiary comes out at the end of his term equipped to earn his living and support his family.

Will you not publish this letter or give us some form of publicity, so that amendment No. 1 will not be voted down in ignorance of what it really means?

Very truly yours,
GEORGE WOODWARD.

Jaworski To Walk To Electric Chair

Arch-Bandit Is Now Able To Stand Alone; Will Walk Soon

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—Paul Jaworski, Western Pennsylvania's arch-bandit and leader of the notorious Flathead Gang, who was paralyzed by a revolver bullet when he was captured in a gun battle with Cleveland police, will walk to his death in the electric chair.

Jaworski, was returned to Pennsylvania on a hospital cot and heard his sentence of death while bed-ridden. He has recovered rapidly and is now able to stand alone.

The arch killer stated today he believed he would be able to walk in a short time. He is able to move his left leg slightly.

Jaworski has been held in the county jail here under close guard since his sentence last October 22, to electrocution for the slaying of Isaiah Gump, mine payroll guard.

Get Patent For New Dump Cars

Beaver Falls And Koppel Men Granted Patents On New Car Bodies

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington News Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2. — Fred C. Schmohl of Beaver Falls, and John P. Anderson of Koppel, have been granted a patent on a bearing for tilting dump car bodies which they have assigned to the Koppel Industrial Car and Equipment Company of Pittsburgh, according to the official gazette of the United States patent office. Their application for patent was filed July 25, 1927.

The gazette describes the patented device as follows: 'In a dump car, body tilting bearings having central and eccentric bearing surfaces supporting a car body, independent pivots on an upper member, for each duming or carrying position, bearing in suitably disposed coplanar sockets of a supporting member."

Prisoner Escapes From Workhouse

Sharon Man Uses Dense Fog To Aid Him In His Break For Freedom

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 1. — William Singer, 40, of Sharon, escaped from the Allegheny county workhouse on Thursday, jail authorities reported.

Singer, working with other prisoners along the Allegheny river bank at Blawknox, made use of a thick fog to cover his escape. Singer had been sent here by Mercer county authorities to serve a 60-day sentence for vagrancy. He had been in the jail since Oct. 15.

Penn. Mother Was Guessing

When your child is underweight, pale and listless, is bilious, sallow, feverish, fretful, with bad breath, coated tongue and no appetite, nine times out of ten it's a sure sign his little stomach and bowels are weak.

Don't experiment in cases of this kind. Just follow the example of the millions of mothers who are using California Fig Syrup to regulate their children's stomach and bowels and give tone and strength to these organs so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Mothers all over Pennsylvania are eager to tell how this rich, fruity, pleasant-tasting preparation clears up the most stubborn cases of constipation and makes pale, lifeless children rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed and full of energy again. Mrs. Katherine B. Garman, 5438 Irving St., Philadelphia, says: "From the very first my little son, Edward, had trouble with his stomach and bowels. It had me guessing until I decided to give him some California Fig Syrup. It stopped his trouble quick, brightened him up, made him eat. Soon he started gaining weight and now he's the picture of health."

See that the Fig Syrup you buy bears the name "California," so you won't be imposed on by imitators.

Veteran Engineer's Record Is Spoiled Before Retirement

Crashes Into Automobile One Minute Before He Was To Retire

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 2. — Engineer Bon Hammill's perfect record of forty years at the throttle without an accident was marred today by an accident which occurred one minute before he retired from service.

The veteran had been employed by the Reading railroad for 51 years and had driven a locomotive more than 2,500,000 miles in his forty years as an engineer. The arrival of the Boardwalk Flyer at Camden last night was to be the last chapter in his perfect record.

Whistles were blowing on all trains in the nearby yards, and more than 200 officials of the railroad and friends were waiting at the Reading Y. M. C. A. here where a testimonial dinner was to be tendered Hammill in recognition of his long and perfect record. One minute before the express was due at the station, it crashed into a motor car which suddenly appeared on the Ninth street crossing.

Hammill cut the steam and threw on the brakes, but too late. One occupant of the automobile, Nikifor Rachiz, 47, of Camden, was killed instantly and his daughter, Vera, 10, died later in a hospital.

The veteran engineer retired officially from service today, crushed by the irony of fate which spoiled his forty year record at the last minute.

NEW CASTLE LADY RESTORED TO NEW HEALTH AND VIGOR

Miseries Of Kidney Trouble And Sluggish Liver Ended By New Konjola Medicine.

MRS. ANNA SPANISH
Seavy Photo

Health is the greatest asset we can possess. Without it life is uninteresting and we never seem to attain the utmost happiness we all strive so hard to acquire. Many of us go on from year to year with that half-sick feeling that comes from a rundown and disordered inner-system; complaining of aches and pains and remarking about the tired, drowsy feeling that comes over us so often. Since the introduction of the new Konjola medicine, many thousands of people throughout the Central States and Middle West have voluntarily offered strong words of praise for Konjola and hundreds of men and women have given their signed statements to the Konjola Man at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, telling of the wonderful benefits they derived from this celebrated compound.

One of the latest to describe the new health received from Konjola is Mrs. Anna Spanish, Moore street, South New Castle Borough.

"I had been a sufferer for many years", said Mrs. Spanish, "first trying one thing and then another, before I ever knew there was a medicine like Konjola. But now since I have taken this compound it has ended all my troubles and restored new health to me.

"My whole system was badly rundown and most of my miseries were caused by a sluggish liver and disordered kidneys. These ailments gave me untold trouble and no matter what I took for relief, continued to suffer. I think that these troubles were brought on by poisons and impurities in my blood. It never seemed to circulate in the proper manner and a peculiar numbness in my limbs was caused by this condition. Because of bladder trouble I had to rise several times every night and when I got up the next morning the first thing that I noticed would be a terrific pain in the small of my back that was almost unbearable. Finally I got so nervous most of the time and recently the least noise would upset me. There were pimples and skin eruptions on my face and body and in spite of everything that I did to correct this, they always came back.

"A friend of mine had been taking Konjola and has received amazing results from it. He advised me to give it a trial and so I started on the treatment. Before the first bottle was gone I began to feel better and I knew that this was the medicine for my case. My kidneys got stronger and now, I don't have to get up a single time during the night. Every ache and pain caused by them have been banished and I know that that ailment is permanently ended. Then Konjola regulated my liver and cleansed the poisons from my blood. Since Konjola did this the embarrassing skin eruptions have been cleared from my face and body. I have only taken four bottles of this medicine and yet, my health has improved one hundred percent. I am never nervous and my sleep is sound and refreshing.

"Konjola certainly is a wonderful medicine and I want to say once more that I am only too glad to indorse it to others".

The Konjola Man is at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy.

Konjola contains juices from 22 plants—more than other medicines. It is a new compound that works with the sufferer's food, restoring more healthful action to the important organs (stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels) and producing new energy and glorious health in a natural way, thru the entire inner-system.

Hoover Given Fine Welcome In Louisville

Twenty Thousand In Louisville, Ky., Armory Greet Herbert Hoover

RAIN HALTS PLANS FOR OUTDOOR SPEECH

(International News Service)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 2.—Cheered by a crowd of 20,000 in Louisville armory, Herbert Hoover today sounded his prosperity note to the echo of "My Old Kentucky Home."

In his second invasion of the debatable border territory, Hoover received a tremendous ovation along a two-mile parade route from the railroad station to the auditorium.

Defying the overcast skies and drizzling rain Louisville greeted Hoover with carnival spirit. An ovation which continued for five minutes greeted the Republican nominee when he was presented to the auditorium throng by Mayor William B. Harrison. Following the foot paths trod by Governor Alfred E. Smith three weeks ago, Hoover received assurances from Republican managers here today that Kentucky was safe for him next Tuesday.

Senator Sackett, who has headed the drive in behalf of the national ticket in Kentucky, told Hoover his reports from county chairmen within the last twenty-four hours assured him the state would be safely in the Republican column November 6. Although President Coolidge carried the state four years ago by approximately 25,000 former Governor James M. Cox of Ohio carried it in 1920. Republican managers declared Hoover's chances are better today than those of Coolidge four years ago because the state administration now is under a Republican governor.

"GOODBYE, MY LOVE," SINGS WAITE

Breaking into sad refrain, Waite Hoyt, star pitcher of the world's champion New York Yankees, sings a farewell ditty to baseball as he sorrows over a sphere of horsehide. Waite was snapped in his dressing room in a theater where he is appearing as a vaudeville performer. But don't worry. Waite will be back again on the diamond next spring.

Frightened Team Hurts Woman Driver

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Nov. 2.—Considerable excitement was caused in Punxsutawney when a team of big farm horses, attached to a light wagon ran off in an alley in the heart of the business section of town. Mrs. Andy Washnick of near town, was holding the horses when they became frightened at an automobile and started out of the alley onto a main thoroughfare. The steam roller used by the Walther Construction Company loomed up before the maddened animals and they turned back into the alley, throwing Mrs. Washnick out and upsetting the wagon. Mrs. Washnick was hurt, though not seriously.

House Is Burned; Man Saved By Dog

NEWARK, Nov. 2.—Fred Olsen, asleep alone in his home, at Union Station, near here, was awakened early by his dog licking his face and was startled to find he was surrounded by four burning walls.

He leaped from the window to the ground, followed by the dog.

The house and contents burned to the ground with a loss of $6000.

State Employes Donations Are Termed Illegal

Harrisburg Democrat Says Law Violated Asking State Employes To Contribute

(International News Service)

HARRISBURGH, Nov. 2.—Roy Egolf, Democratic candidate for the House from Harrisburg, today issued a statement, charging Benson E. Taylor, secretary of property and supplies, with violating the act of 1897 which prohibits the collection of campaign contributions from state and municipal office holders.

Taylor is chairman of the Finance committee of the Republican State committee, and recently sent letters to start officers and employes asking for "voluntary contributions." No amounts were specified, but employes who sent in checks for less than three per cent received them back with notations of the amounts "due", based on three per cent of annual salaries.

The act provides a penalty of one year in jail or $1,000 fine or both. Attorney General Thomas E. Baldridge was asked by Egolf whether he plans to take any action.

"The pertinent question is whether the Department of Justice of the state was consulted and advised that the plan of collection was legal and proper," said Egolf. "If the advice of the attorney general was not requested, then it is now too late to be the proper subject of his investigation."

Accused Of Failing To Feed 21 Canine Pets

APPLETON Wis., Nov. 2.—When P. A. Melcher, humane agent and an officer went to the New London farm home of Archie Babcock to investigate reports that he was not feeding his dogs they found 21 canines on the premises. Six of the dogs were in bed with Babcock and the rest were scattered throughout the eight room farm house. Two large sacks of bread were supplied and when that was gone the dogs yelped for more. The owner was taken to the county jail to await araignment.

SAILOR DOG BEFRIENDS FAWN

Gypsy, pet sailor dog of Captain Robert Judson, who found the dog drifting in the Hudson river near New York, now shares mascot honors with a fawn acquired by the captain at La Union, Salvador. At first Capt. Judson feared the dog would be jealous, but Gypsy has adopted the role of protector of the shy, little fawn. Now both set up a hullabaloo if separated even for a moment. The three are shown above.

GOOD LUCK

MARGARINE

BECAUSE you know the wonderful economy of Jelke GOOD LUCK Margarine, you may have doubted that its flavor matches perfectly the most expensive spread-for-bread. Possibly you have made the mistake of confusing GOOD LUCK with ordinary margarines made from inexpensive vegetable oils.

"Taste them both, please, and tell us, if you can, which is which," we challenged, after distributing samples of the most expensive spread-for-bread and Jelke GOOD LUCK to the entire cast of "Manhattan Mary" on the stage of Cohan's Grand Opera House in Chicago.

The result was another complete victory for this finer margarine, made from whole milk and choice meat products. "I don't know," was the reply echoed by every member of the company, including the famous beauty chorus.

Have you tried the Challenge Test? If not, get a package today. Let your family decide. Then use it regularly to obtain all the benefits of its wonderful economy.

In the production of some other margarines inexpensive vegetable oils, devoid of vitamins, are substituted for the whole milk and choice nourishing meat products that make GOOD LUCK Margarine so rich in both vitamin "A" and vitamin "D."

Boy Is Shot When Gun Falls From Clothes In Bedroom

BUTLER, Pa., Nov. 2.—Nicholas Uram, 12, son of Micholas Uram of Lyndora, a suburb, is in a serious condition in the Butler hospital as the result of what is said to be an accidental shooting last night at the home of a companion, Michael Stanko, at 98 Bessemer avenue, across the street from the Uram home.

Police were informed by John Stanko, 13, that he and the Uram boy went to a bedroom in the Stanko home for clothing. When a quantity of clothing was removed from the bureau drawer a revolver fell to the floor and was discharged.

The bullet penetrated the abdomen of the Uram boy, passing through his body, and lodged in the wall. The weapon was .32 caliber. Two ribs were splintered by the bullet.

Pennsylvania Transit Co. Seeks Charter

Subsidiary Of Pennsylvania Railroad Seeks Permits For Bus Service

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—The applications of the Pennsylvania General Transit company, the motor bus subsidiary of the Pennsylvania Railroad for trans-Pennsylvania service, will be heard before the public service commission next Thursday morning. The charter of the company covers 55 counties in the state, but each application must be made separately.

The applications are made by R. K. Stackhouse, general manager of the company, and by the company itself. The four proposed routes cover many cities and boroughs between Philadelphia and the Ohio State line near east Palestine. There are existing bus companies now operating in a large part of this territory and some of these have filed protests.

The application of General Manager Stackhouse covers routes from Philadelphia by way of Lancaster, Gettysburg, McConnellsburg, Bedford, Greensburg, Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls, and from Philadelphia by way of Lancaster, Gettysburg, Waynesboro, Mercersburg, McConnellsburg, Bedford, Greensburg, Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls.

The transit company's applications provide for routes from Philadelphia by way of Harrisburg, Lewistown, Huntingdon, Hollidaysburg, Blairsville, Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls and from Philadelphia by way of Harrisburg, Lewistown, McVeytown, Mt. Union, Huntingdon, Tyrone, Juniata, Altoona, Blairsville, Pittsburgh and Beaver Falls.

Kind Deed May Win Two-Million Dollar Fortune For Woman

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 2.—"To do good for others"—

That has been the aim of Mrs. Marion F. Wall. And now that she may inherit $2,000,000 her greatest desire is still—to do good.

It was through her own kindness of heart that Mrs. Wall has received her reward.

When Mrs. Marie Cavaline Bull was divorced from her husband, Judge Franklin P. Bull, California attorney, it was Mrs. Wall who took her into her own apartment and paid her expenses when she became ill. In spite of the care given her, Mrs. Bull died on May 27, this year.

In her will Mrs. Bull left only one dollar to her divorced husband; her clothing to a sister Mrs. Grover C. Wrenn of Portland, Ore., and the balance of her estate to Mrs. Wall. This may total $2,000,000 or even more. It is Mrs. Bull's share in an English estate.

Doesn't Care for Wealth.

"I never cared much for jewels or fine clothing," Mrs. Wall said in discussing her inheritance. "I wish with all my heart that Mrs. Bull might have lived to receive her fortune. But since she did not the money, if I get it, will be used in helping others who are most in need of it."

The probate action here recalled failure of a romance of old age and youth. Mrs. Marie Calavine Bull was the attorney's second wife. He was 71, his bride many years his junior, at the time of their marriage on June 12, 1922. Five years previously Mrs. Jessie A. Bull, his first wife, with whom he lived for 26 years, divorced him on the grounds of desertion.

Bull's second marriage lasted five years. Then he filed a terse, typewritten document of less than two pages in the superior court, petitioning for divorce. The lawyer set forth very little in his grounds for the action. He charged that his wife "associated with persons objectionable to him" and that she had left home and he did not know where she was.

On October 8, 1926 Bull and his young wife received congratulations, following an announcement from London that Mrs. Bull would inherit at least $2,000,000 from an old British estate valued at $40,000,000.

Husband Aided.

Through the legal assistance of her husband Mrs. Bull had been able to prove herself one of the heirs of a certain Berriman Jennings who in 1531, owned a farm on the banks of the Thames near London.

The estate went into chancery 100 years ago and as the years rolled by and railroads came and London spread the value of the property increased and rents were impounded and increased on compound interest until a huge amount of money was in custody of the court. And early in 1926 Master in Chancery Hugo Friend unexpectedly ordered distribution.

Although Mrs. Bull had not come into actual physical possession of her $2,000,000 inheritance, establishment of her claim leaves little doubt that her heirs will receive the money. But Bull will not be among them according to the will admitted to probate.

HUNTERS HERE THURSDAY

A number of hunters arrived here on Wednesday evening to be here early for the opening of hunting seaon on Thursday. Those who were out early arrived home by nine o'clock with the day's limit of rabbits. Hunters from New Castle, Bessemer, Pittsburgh, McKeesport and other points were represented.

VOLANT NOTES

Miss Charlotte Daniels was the guest of relatives in New Castle on Wednesday.

The members of the Indian Run Grange Hunt are requested to remember that the big hunt is scheduled for Saturday. Each member will report to his captain the number of points obtained.

Plans are almost complete for the supper given at the Indian Run Grange hall in honor of the men on Friday evening. It has been announced that supper will be served at 7 o'clock.

FIND "FRIEND IN NEED"

Mother and Daughter Praise Vegetable Compound

Johnson City, N. Y.—"My daughter was only 20 years old, but for two years she worked in misery. She was all run-down, nervous, had aches and pains and no appetite. I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with good results so she decided to try it. Before she had taken two bottles her appetite was better, she was more cheerful and was able to work. I cannot praise your medicine too highly. It is wonderful for mothers and for daughters. It's surely 'a friend in need.'"—Mrs. L. E. HALL, 223 Floral Avenue, Johnson City, N. Y.

Famous Trombone Artist To Appear With Marine Band

Robert Clark To Appear In New Castle On November 12

Although not so famous as his former brother Marine, Gene Tunney, Robert Clark has appeared in many more countries and before many more audiences than Gene. Clark, one of the world's greatest artists on the trombone, who will appear here on November 12 with the world famous Marine Band, was a member of the famous Kilties Band of Belleville, Ontario, when it made its record tour of the world. Seventy thousand miles of water and land were traversed, one hundred days were spent at sea, and the transportation costs alone were $60,000 for this tour which lasted two years and three months. One thousand concerts were given in twenty different countries.

Robert Clark was born on a farm in Iowa in 1866. His early life among the quiet waving corn fields was soon changed to a more thrilling one when his family joined in the land rush to the Cherokee Strip in Oklahoma. Cowboys became his companions along with the Indians. It may seem strange but like Will Rogers, cowpunching was his occupation and Clark retains today in his manner the friendly breeziness acquired years ago on the western plains.

When the Marine Band played in New Castle several years ago Clark was unable to come due to a paralyzed lip which became afflicted while the Band was playing in New York. Though Clark was unable to play for several months he has completely recovered and will be heard at his best when he renders one of his wonderful solos at the Cathedral on the 12th of this month.

Fred Lewis Pattee Leaves Penn State

Will Devote Time To Literary Work At Winter Park, Florida

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 2.—Dr. Fred Lewis Pattee, for 34 years a member of the Penn State faculty and until recently the head of the department of American literature of the School of Liberal Arts has resigned his post at Penn State and will retire to his home in Florida, where he will continue with his literary work started some years ago, it became known at the offices of President Ralph Dorn Hetzel this morning.

The resignation of Dr. Pattee came as a complete surprise to the faculty and board of trustees of the State college. Advancing years and opportunity to devote his time to his writings are cited by Dr. Pattee as his reasons for resigning. He will conclude his work at Penn State at the Christmas holidays. He expects to make his permanent home at Winter Park, where he will continue his work in early American literature and give a few special lectures to the students of Rollins college. Dr. Pattee is 65 years old.

Must Vote Early Next Tuesday

"Vote Early" Must Be Slogan And Aim Of Every Local Voter

Each day brings the election of November 6 closer to the American people and each day brings home the fact more pignantly that it is absolutely necessary to get out and vote as early as possible and do it as quickly as possible.

The ballots going out from the county commissioner's office are huge bundles and in some precincts additional boxes and booths are being sent out to aid the boards in getting the vote cast and boxed.

Help the Other Fellow

Voting this year becomes a matter of helping the other fellow. If you can get out to the polls at eight o'clock in the morning, do it by all means for the afternoon rush and early evening rush will be unprecedentedly heavy.

Housewives, office men, office women, and men on night turn should vote early in the day and thus aid the boards in getting the vote cast.

Make this resolution for Election Day. "I will vote as early as possible and waste as little time as possible in voting."

Trial Of Toral Gets Attention From Mexicans

Youth And Nun On Trial In Slaying Of General Obregon; Court Room Packed

(International News Service)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 2.—Hundreds of men and women slept in doorways, hallways and in the open about the San Angel district court building to get places of vantage when the trial of Jose De Leon Toral, self-confessed assassin of President Elect Alvaro Obregon, and Abbess Maria Concepcion Acevedo Y De L A Llata, mother Superior of a Catholic Nunnery, was resumed today.

A cordon of federal troops was established to prevent a rush upon the building when the doors were opened.

Postmaster And Woman Assistant Fired From Jobs

Lansford, Pa., Postmaster And Woman Assistant Are Removed From Office

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Robert H. Stickler, postmaster, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Bessie Burns Stickler, assistant postmaster at Lansford, Pa., today were removed from office by Acting Postmaster General Glover. The postoffice at Lansford has been placed in charge of Inspector George Leonard.

On October 19 Postmaster General New ordered the suspension of the two officials for violations of the postal laws and regulations.

They were charged with having connived with others to secure the mailing through the Lansford postoffice without postmarks on the envelopes and without identification slips on mail bags, anonymous circulars signed "non-partisan committee", attacking Herbert Hoover and candidates for local offices in that district.

Following suspension of the Sticklers, New ordered inspectors to investigate. Their removal was ordered today by Glover on recommendation of the investigators.

The mail matter the Sticklers handled had been daubed so as to conceal its origin.

Local Nurse Named To Health Position In Lawrence County

Will Succeed To Position Held Here By Miss Myra Ackerman

Announcement was made today by county health authorities that Miss Grace Ackerman of Stanton avenue, this city, has been chosen by Dr. Theodore P. Appel, state secretary of health, to fill the position of state nurse and Lawrence county health officer, made vacant recently by the resignation of Miss Myra Ackerman.

Miss Ackerman, a recent graduate of the New Castle Hospital School of Nursing, has already entered upon the duties of her office. Her jurisdiction will include the territory that was under the direction of the former health officer.

The new official of the county can be reached by calling 3772-W.

Grange Summoned To Face Charges

Court Orders Famous Football Star To Appear In Defense Of Woman's Charge

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—Harold "Red" range, former football star at the niversity of Illinois and in the professional leagues, was ordered to appear before Municipal Judge William R. Fetzer tomorrow to face his accuser, Mrs. Helen Morrisey Flozak, who claims Grange is the father of her 7-months-old daughter, Haroldine.

Mrs. Flozak appeared in court today upon a motion of the defense for questioning in regard to her charges, when Grange did not appear at the hearing Judge Fetzer ordered a postponement until tomorrow so that Mrs. Flozak may face the former grid star while she is being interrogated.

Youth Confesses Firing Of Barn

Youngster Five Years Old Admits Causing Blaze In Fathers Barn

(International News Service)

BRISTOL, Pa., Nov. 2.—Five-year-old Louis Luff Jr., son of a Richsboro farmer 12 miles west of this city, confesses to setting fire to his father's barn, causing a loss of $21,000, on October 9 last, County Fire Marshal William L. Stackhouse revealed today.

"I like to strike matches", was the sole reason officials could obtain from the youngster as he admitted causing the blaze. Parents of the child have refused to prosecute and the child will not be taken into custody, Stackhouse said.

Water lily seeds were an important food in Egypt 4,000 years ago and even today they are eaten by natives on the west coast of Africa.

Finefrock, Back In San Francisco, Relates His Travels In South Seas

In a letter to The News telling of his experiences on a cruise among the countries of the South Seas, Fred M. Finefrock, a local resident, writes that he is again back in the United States.

The letter, written while at sea, and mailed in San Francisco on his arrival there, follows:

Some Where at Sea,
October 16, 1928.

GEORGE W. CONWAY,
Editor New Castle News,
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Sir:

Well we are almost back to the States, after a month and a half of cruising the South Seas. We left San Francisco on the sixth of September and went first to Honolulu. We encountered rough weather the first two days out. Then the seas quieted down and little happened till we landed at Honolulu. Most of the passengers were sea-sick. I went out to the beach for a swim and enjoyed it very much, but when I tried riding a surf board again my success was just as bad as the last time.

It took the boat six days to go from San Francisco to Honolulu. We stopped over at the latter place about eight hours, and during this time I took some pictures besides going swimming. From Honolulu we sailed for Pago Pago, a trip which takes a week. Pago Pago is a two and a half days' trip below the Equator. On the way there, we had a Neptune party for those never having been across the line and you can believe me we sure had some time. I was King Neptune and had the other fellows before me to judge and set the verdict. All of them received the limit.

Well after the Neptune party comes Pago. To describe this place it is utterly impossible, that is to describe it well.

Pago is a small village with a few frame buildings intermingled with numerous brick ones. These are all controlled by the navy department. The remainder of the inhabitants live in grass huts. The natives of this place are about the same in color as those of Hawaii. They have a most beautiful land-locked harbor, with the small bay entirely surrounded by mammoth hills. The small mountains, for that is what they really are, are covered with tropical vegetation. Cocoanut trees, millions of them, wild flowers in abundance, bananas, bread fruit, oranges and most every kind of fruit a person could think of are grown.

The natives do not wear much clothes there for it isn't necessary. The weather is ideal, not too hot and not too cool. Cocoanuts are raised by the natives to make Copera to ship to the states. Our cocoanut oil and butter is manufactured from this when it reaches America.

Whenever a ship lands there, the people of the country turn out to give you a big hand. From Pago, the journey is just two more days to Suva in the Fiji islands.

Suva and Pago are as different as night is from day. The harbor there is not as beautiful as are the ones at Pago and Honolulu. Suva is an English possession. The natives dress very queer, wearing something like a skirt over their bodies, with an under skirt. Their hair sticks straight up in the air, and leave it to me I would not care to meet one of the inhabitants on a dark road at night.

One thing I forgot to say was that in crossing the 180-degree meridian, jumping forward a day from September 20th to the 22nd. My birthday happens to fall on September 21, so I lost out on my birthday you see. I guess that still leaves me 24 years of age till next year, doesn't it?

I took a few pictures in Suva and then we left for Sydney, Australia. Say, what a thrill! I have dreamed of going to that country for years and to have a dream of that kind fulfilled is more than a grand and glorious feeling. Sydney is a five days' trip from Suva. We hit some terrible seas en route as well as a typhoon. The water spot reached as high in the air as one could see, in one place. Thank goodness it was going the other way, about eight miles off at that time. The waves dwarfed almost anything. Well, I thought I was past the stage of sea-sickness but I found out differently.

When entering the harbor of Sydney, I could not figure out how we were going to get in past the big high cliffs. Nevertheless we went through a narrow channel and finally got into port. You could put two or three fleets the size of the United States navy into it and still have room for more. It took me some time to get used to the English money but I understand it like a native now.

Sydney has many beautiful parks and one of the most complete zoos in the world. The buildings are not even fair. The Castleton in New Castle is far better than any hotel they have in Sydney for looks, and the Lawrence Savings & Trust building is just as big, if not bigger, than any building there. When I was there, approximately nine ships from different countries were there waiting for loads of wool to take them to all parts of the country. We stayed in this place for nine days. I had a wonderful time throughout. Hundreds of people were down to see the mail boat off, for we carry all the first and second class mail to Suva, Pago, Honolulu and San Francisco. We encountered a little rough weather leaving Sydney, but we soon passed this up and ran into better conditions. I got some souvenirs at Suva and Pago to send to dad and mother.

Nothing much happened on the way back until we got two days and a half out of Pago Pago. Then a very interesting thing did occur. You are probably aware of the fact that the magnetic equator and the geographical equator run parallel with one another, and at times the magnetic equator tilts over the geographical equator. Well, when we crossed the geographical equator we found that we were crossing the magnetic circle simultaneously. Although these ships have been sailing down around there before, this never happened at any time. It is probable that it may never happen again for another 100 years. The reason was that it made a three point error in the compass, or 30 degrees.

I was steering at the time and the mate very near went crazy when he found out what was happening. This was on October 15, at 8:15 sun time. One other thing I forgot to mention was that incident in which the second butcher fell overboard between 5 and 7 o'clock in the morning. We never turned back to look for him at all. I would go aft and astern and just imagine myself back there in the wake of the ship, watching the ship go farther and farther off. I could imagine just how the man felt when he saw the vessel leaving him behind, and just thinking of it made the chills run up and down my back.

Well, we get into Frisco tomorrow. We have had wonderful weather coming from Honolulu. Last night about 10 o'clock. I was on the lookout and the sea was just as calm as glass, the stars reflecting in the water and the moon just placed a silvery path across the water and it just made me wish that I was a very part of it so I could do justice such a night should get.

We get into San Francisco but have to lay out for two hours for inspection before docking. I have all my clothes ready to go ashore just as soon as I can, so that finishes this trip.

The Dollar line has been hiring Chinese sailors for a long time, but this year they are taking a crew of 75 Americans on the journey. I am going to try for one of the Dollar round-the-world ships. I might not be able to get one this year for at the present time there are many sailors out of work. Every year at this time most of them come out to the west coast to escape the cold weather on the eastern coast. Well, I guess this will be all for this year. My best wishes to everyone.

Yours truly,
FRED M. FINEFROCK.

Miss Mae Davies, when interviewed, said that $12.00 a year was enough to spend for the proper cosmetics and it was no longer a secret how to keep the face powder on all day. Miss Mae Davies herself and all her screen star friends use and sincerely recommend Finesse Foundation Cream. It is a protective film cream which makes your skin velvety and fine, and keeps your face powder on all day. Miss Mae Davies has written a booklet, entitled "How to apply cosmetics properly." You can get free copy at

Will Broadcast Election Returns

Largest Network Of Stations Ever Attempted To Be In Service

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Through a chain of 65 stations the largest radio network ever attempted, the returns of the general election will be broadcast to the world next Tuesday night.

Compared with the broadcast of election results in 1920 when returns were broadcast to probably 50 owners of receiving sets in America by Station KDKA at Pittsburg, officials of the national broadcasting company estimated today that at least 50,000,000 persons will receive election returns through the giant hookup. There are more than 10,000,000 receiving sets in use today.

Special wires will transmit election returns as they are assembled by International News Service to the studio of the broadcasting company here Tuesday night. The broadcasting of returns will start at 7 p. m. Eastern Standard time and continue indefinitely.

Extensive preparations have been made by International News Service for fast and accurate assembling of returns Tuesday night, augmenting the returns, analysis of the returns will be provided by political experts of International News Service.

In addition to the chain of 65 stations in this country, plans were announced today to broadcast the election returns through three stations on short wave lengths to all countries of the world.

Rome Flight Plane Under Attachment

Aircraft Is Under $75,000 Bond In Hangar At New Castle, Del.

WILMINGTON, Nov. 2.—The Sesqui plane Roma is under an attachment levy by Sheriff Delaware S. Wright, it was learned today. The plane, groomed for a trans-Atlantic flight to Rome, is now in the visitor's hangar at the Bellanca field. The attachment was asked for it, is understood, by Dr. Leon Pisculli, former companion of Captain Cesare Sabelli, who has charge of the proposed flight.

The ship has been placed under a $75,000 bond. It is understood that Dr. Pisculli desires to obtain more than $35,000 which he says he invested in the proposed flight to Rome, with the plane under the command of Captain Sabelli. Both Dr. Pisculli and Captain Sabelli are out of town and could not be reached.

Will Be Buried In Cemetery He Founded

(International News Service)

BRADFORD, Pa., Nov. 2.—Fatally injured when struck by an automobile, Frank M. Webster, 63, president of the Oak Hill Cemetery Association, will be buried today in the cemetery he founded forty years ago. The coroner exonerated Hugh John Burger, 60, driver of the machine which struck Webster. Burger said Webster was attempting to cross the street in the middle of the block and stepped suddenly in front of his machine.

While water lilies are native to the greater part of the world the Pacific slope of North America and New Zealand have none.

One Vote Decides Great Contest

Brown Cites Instance To Show Importance Of Everybody Voting

OVER MILLION VOTES CAST IN INCIDENT

W. A. Brown of Wampum, city-county sealer of weights and measures, brought into The News office this morning a most imposing reason for getting out the entire vote on next Tuesday. The reason was a clipping from a newspaper, several years old, which showed that in an election in which over 1,200,000 votes were cast the decision was made by one vote.

Here is the clipping:

A Majority of One

The state of Indiana has discovered the best possible reason for getting out on election day and voting. Judge B. M. Willoughby, Republican, has just been declared re-elected to the state supreme bench over George K. Denton, Democrat, by one lone vote, the record standing 601,861 to 601,860.

So slight a margin in so voluminous a vote is unprecedented in our political annals. This is not, of course, the first instance in which a single vote has decided an election, for Charles Sumner was once sent to the Senate by that margin; Marcus Morton became governor of Massachusetts by virtue of a majority of one vote, and in Brighton, Col., this fall a county commissioner was elected because a chivalrous opponent had voted for him out of courtesy. However, none of these contests involved almost a million and a quarter votes, as did the Indiana judicial poll.

It would be the finest possible tonic to general exercise of the suffrage if one-vote majorities were a common phenomenon in American elections. Every person in Indiana who voted for Justice Willoughby is entitled to feel his vote was responsible for the victory. Every Denton supporter who failed to vote is liable to the charge that his delinquency alone was the cause of Mr. Denton's defeat.

"VOTE EARLY" NEW SLOGAN

Court Rules That No Ballots Can Be Placed In Any Box After 7 O'clock

BROWNSVILLE, Nov. 2.—Voters in the tri-borough section are asked to cast their ballots early by the leaders of the political parties here. This plea has been made in the hope that voters will not wait until after 6 o'clock next Tuesday before visiting the polls as judges in Fayette county have ruled that the law ordering all polls to close at 7 o'clock is mandatory and no voter can place his ballot in the box after that hour although he may be in the voting booth at 7 o'clock.

Indications point to an exceptionally heavy vote in the Brownsvilles. "Vote early" has been adopted as a slogan here and each voter is asked to study the specimen ballot in order that a minimum of time will be necessary in the booths. Fear has been expressed that owing to the immensity of the ballot and the large registration that the ballot boxes will not be large enough to hold all that are cast.

PLACES BAN ON SUNDAY GAMES

Following Complaints District Attorney McGoun Has Teams Notified

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 2.—District Attorney J. Blaine McGoun has invoked the blue laws and placed a ban on Sunday football games. In explanation Mr. McGoun said he had received numerous complaints from residents of Aliquippa and Ambridge about games there on Sunday.

Acting on instructions from the district attorney's office County Detectives C. J. O'Loughlin and Frank A. Weber began today to notify team managers and players of teams which have been playing on Sunday.

"If attempts are made to play on Sunday we will arrest managers and players said County Detective O'Loughlin today.

In some of the political ovations the classic term "ova" as a part of the word was too literally accepted—meaning "egg." — The Savannah Morning News.

Pays Tribute to Unknown Soldier

For the first time the colors of Germany have been placed upon the tomb of America's unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery. In the photo Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of Graf Zeppelin, is shown placing wreath bound with silken German flag upon marble slab. With him is Herr Rodolf Leitner, first secretary of the German embassy.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

FOR CONGRESS

Democratic Candidate

To the Voters of the 26th Congressional District of Penna—

In publishing my announcement, on October 3d, I requested my opponent, Hon. J. Howard Swick, to meet me in a number of public discussions of the issues of this campaign. I said to him that I believe the voters have the right to hear the issues of the campaign discussed by the men who aspire to represent this District in the Congress of the United States. The voters surely have this right—a right to have an opportunity to judge whether or not the candidates understand the issues—a right to have an opportunity to get some idea of the ability or lack of ability of the candidates.

J. Howard Swick refused to grant the request. As a reason for such refusal, he said he had formed his plans of campaign before I became a candidate. I do not wish to be discourteous to him, but I frankly say I have no faith in the sincerity of his reason, because, before I became a candidate, there was no candidate to oppose him. What elaborate plans of campaign would he need at that time? And why was he not willing to change a few plans, as a courtesy to the voters?

J. Howard Swick has not given the voters the real reason why he refused to discuss the issues. Either he does not understand the issues, or else he does not have the ability to discuss them in public meetings of his neighbors and fellow citizens at whose hands he is asking to be sent back to Congress. A candidate who lacks this understanding and this ability would surely be no more than a figurehead in Congress. A Congressman should be able to do more than simply draw his salary.

Will the voters of this district send back to Congress a man who runs away and hides when courteously requested to come out into the open and discuss the issues before his neighbors and fellow citizens?

Brief Outline Of 14 Amendments To Be Voted On

HARRISBURG, Nov. 2.—"There will be an unprecedented vote cast in every precinct in the state on November 6. In a majority of the precincts it is impossible to provide facilities fully adequate to accommodate a rush of voters. The ballot is larger than ever before, due to the fact that 14 proposed amendments to the state constitution are submitted to be voted upon separately.

Here is an outline of what the amendments provide:

1—Gives the commonwealth the option of doing its own printing and binding, and a similar option in supplying furnishings, fuel, paper and stationery.

2—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $8,000,000 for erection and equipment of buildings at State College.

3—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $25,000,000 for the purchase of additional forest lands.

4—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $5,000,000 for armory construction.

5—Permits the legislature to provide general exemptions from inheritance taxes.

6—Permits courts of quarter sessions to divide and change election districts without regard to the number of electors. This amendment is essential to the use of voting machines.

7—Authorizes the legislature to permit Pittsburgh to levy special assessments against properties benefited by public improvements, even though they do not abut.

8—Raises the debt limit of second class cities from seven to ten per cent of the assessed valuation.

9—Authorizes the legislature to borrow an additional $50,000,000 for improving and rebuilding highways.

10—Authorizes the legislature to borrow $50,000,000 for lands and buildings for state-owned penal, correctional and mental institutions.

11—Raises Philadelphia's debt limit from 10 per cent of the taxable property (real and personal to 14 per cent of the taxable real estate and raises the limit of councilmanic loans from two to three per cent.

12—Permits reciprocal tax exemptions to residents of other states.

13—Permits the legislature to authorize the use of voting machines by community option.

14—Permits the legislature to allow the creation of metropolitan Pittsburgh by consolidation.

Editor's Note—We believe the above tells the story of the amendments in the least space possible to make their exact meanings clear. Its reproduction should be a real service to the voter who wants to consider each on its own merit. Make a not of how you want to vote and take it to the polls.

BOY SCOUT Activities

FIRST CHRISTIAN TROOP.

The First Christian Church Troop 15 held their regular meeting Thursday November 1 at 7:30 p. m. at the First Christian church. The meeting was in charge of Scoutmaster Sidney Smith and Assistant Scoutmaster Richard Sheets.

The meeting was called to order by Scout Howard Hart playing assembly. Honor was given to the flag. Good turns were received. The regular meeting night was changed from Thursday to Tuesday night. Different games were played and the loser was asked a question in Scouting. Howard Hart passed the test in observation and other scouts were instructed in different tests. The meeting was then adjourned by playing taps and repeating the scout oath and law.

Ralph Montgomery—Scribe.

NEW WILMINGTON SCOUT NEWS.

The New Wilmington Troop No. 1 held the weekly meeting on Tuesday evening October 30. There was a very good attendance at this meeting.

The troop was called to order by the Senior Patrol leader and then by the bugler. The opening ceremony consisted of the color ceremony and the second scout law—A Scout is Loyal.

The scoutmaster gave a short talk on the second scout law which made it easier for the scouts to understand.

There was an announcement made about feeding the birds in which the New Wilmington troop is going to participate.

A special announcement was made that Scouts Hans Holms and Howard Lee are to receive the award of Eagle Scout.

There are now two Eagle Scouts, three Life Scouts and many scouts in other ranks in the New Wilmington troop.

The meeting was adjourned by the order of assistant scoutmaster.

The next meeting will be held at the city hall next Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. All scouts are requested to be present at this meeting.

Scribe—Thomas Rogers, Jr.

LIONS TROOP 13.

Lions Troop No. 13 held their regular meeting at the home of Jack Grittie, R. D. 2. There was a large attendance at this meeting. The meeting was in charge of Peter Grittie, scoutmaster and Assistant Scoutmaster Jack Grittie. The Indian sign language was in charge of Thomas Grittie. There were two flying models and bi-planes at this meeting. Next Thursday evening the scouts will hold a Hallowe'en party at the home of Jack Grittie and admission will be by pass words.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Tangled Wires

By CLAIRE WESSON

THE office was very quiet that morning. Colonel Gray had gone away for two weeks and Judith was alone. This meant plenty of time to think, and this was the last thing Judy wanted to do. It was thinking, during those dreary weeks since she had left Van, that had brought her up against the dead wall of her present wretchedness and despair.

At the time of her marriage she had wanted Van to buy a certain new little suburban bungalow, set in a grove of silver birches, and to keep her position in Colonel Gray's law office until it was paid for. Van insisted that she give up her job and that they live in town. They had compromised, temporarily. Judith kept on working and they took a tiny apartment. The subject, however, remained a sore one. They argued and quarrelled and finally Judith packed her trunk and went home.

But her wrath had cooled now. Life in the cluttered flat wasn't what it had been in her girlhood days. She grew white and thin and took to crying herself to sleep. She wanted Van. Last night was the climax. Her mother had a sick headache, Billy had the chickenpox and her father, tired and cross, had muttered something to the effect that a married woman's place was with her husband and that, if Judy didn't care about Van, he could probably find someone who would.

So to her other agonies was added the blight of jealousy. All night she tossed feverishly and now she sat at her desk, heart-sick, her head buried in her hands. Finally she drew a long breath and capitulated. Life in its present form wasn't worth living. Far better to abandon her own scheme of living and conform to that of the man she had married—the man she loved with all her soul.

Trembling, she reached for the telephone and dialed the familiar number. There was a palpitant pause, a phantom click, the beloved voice: "Hello."

But suddenly her courage failed her. She dodged the issue. Panic-stricken, she mimicked the mechanical tones of the professional operator: "This is the repair clerk speaking. We are testing your line."

It wasn't pride that made her do it, only shyness, and for a moment she held the receiver to her ear, hoping he might speak again. He did—but not as she had expected!

"You sound like a very nice repair clerk," he remarked conversationally, "I think I'd like to meet you. Are you busy every night?"

Resentment sent her blood boiling through her veins. Her father was right, then. While she had been pining for Van, he had been flirting with pretty voices over the telephone, smiling into sweet, pert faces in the street—perhaps even from behind the wheel of his roaster down into close inviting eyes. Well, she would get even! Outraged dignity and a passionate desire for retaliation suggested the way.

She laughed softly. "Not—every night, I'm busy now, though. Shall I call you again?"

"Please do!" came his eager reply.

That night she mapped out her campaign. She would lead him on; make a date with him; meet him and confront him with his own perfidy.

It worked like a charm. She called him every morning, carefully disguising her voice. She coquetted with him openly as the acquaintance progressed, but he was always a gentleman. If he had to be a villain, she thought, he did it well.

"You're a pretty good repair clerk," he told her once, rather wistfully. "I think you could mend broken hearts—and, goodness knows, mine needs it."

For a week she refused his invitations for a ride, hardening her heart against the coaxing tones that had thrilled her so during the brief sweet madness of her courtship and honeymoon; but, finally, on Friday, in a mood half pitying and half fearful, she yielded.

"How about Sunday?" she asked.

He assented joyfully. "A picnic—all day! I'll take lunch—I've a peach of a hamper." A sob caught her throat as she thought of the happy times they had packed it together.

She was terribly apprehensive, now the time to meet him arrived. They might have patched up the fragments of their life together, once. Could they—after Sunday? She doubted.

At 11 o'clock she stood at the entrance to the Arboretum, looking for the shabby roadster that had whirled her away one Autumn night, with Van, straight to Paradise. Presently she saw it, but stopped, abruptly, her hand upon her heart. For the driver, who got down now and came to meet her, wasn't Van at all, but a thin young chap in glasses with a friendly but uncertain smile.

"I think you're the young lady I'm supposed to meet" he said. "Van sent me. We're to pick him up later. It's all right, you know—I have his card." Her brain didn't seem to be functioning. Like a sleepwalker she got into the car.

It was a queer ride. Van's messenger offered no explanation and she asked for none. At first she had no idea as to where she was, but after a while her surroundings became familiar. The old house with the windmill—the duck pond, a grove of silver birches gleamed in the sun and they swung into a gravel driveway and stopped—before her House of Dreams!

The spectacled youth vanished, the door opened, and Van came down the steps. He lifted her bodily from the car and held her close. "Don't cry, Judy girl," he whispered, his own eyes suspiciously wet. "You're home, now, you know. Don't cry!"

The roadster stood in the drive all day. They explored the house and Van told her how he had bought it, and furnished it, and grown to love it better than any other place in the world. It wasn't all completed; some things he had left for her. "That little room off ours, for instance," he explained. "I thought you might like it for a sewing room . . . It's been a hustle," he added dreamily. "I've done it all since the day you called me up and said you were the telephone repair clerk testing the line."

They were sitting on the davenport, her head on his shoulder, and she looked up at him with wondering eyes. "How did you know it was me?" she asked.

He hugged her tight. "You've got a funny trick, honey," he chuckled. "When you're excited you can't pronounce a word beginnng with "r" without putting a p in front of it. You said, 'This is the p-repair clerk speaking' and then I knew."

They ate their dinner on their own gray painted table, and soon it was dark, and time to go. They stood on the porch with the moonlight pouring down on the silver birches, and Judy sighed.

"Couldn't we stay here tonight, Van?" she begged. "I'll telephone Mother I—I can't leave it!"

There didn't seem to be any real reason against it, so they went in again and closed the door behind them, and, their arms around each other, climbed the stair. But on the threshold of the little room next theirs, Judy halted her tall young husband, and he felt her trembling against his side.

"I—I'm going to give up my job at the office, Van after all," she murmured unsteadily. "Dr. Grant thinks I'd better. And . . . I guess we won't have this for a sewing room, dear. We'll paper it with those adorable bunnies and kittens—and put Mother Goose p-rhymes—all around the walls."

Professor—And did I make myself plain?

Frosh—No, God did that.

OLD MAN WATSON

By MONTE DARRELL

IT was going to be a big day for Ol' Man Watson. Yes, sir! He cleaned the little white house from top to bottom, mowed the front lawn; engaged Maggie Ryan, his next-door neighbor, to cook dinner; got his hair cut and mustache clipped at Jim's Barber Shop, and was prepared to meet his three children, whom he had not seen for two years.

"Ma" Watson had died ten years before, and Ol' Man Watson had undertaken the task of rearing three children. He had refused to engage a housekeeper, saying that he guessed he was fit to raise his own family. And as the village said, he had done right by his kids. They all worked in the city.

Joe, the eldest, was a thriving real estate agent. He himself boasted that with his "line of gab" he could sell the Brooklyn Bridge. Maisie, the oldest girl, was private secretary to the vice-president of the National Insurance Company, Flo, the youngest still called "Baby" by her father, worked as a model in a cloak and suit house.

At 1:55 Ol' Man Watson was ready to greet his children. He felt happy and excited, and wondered how they would look and act. He imagined himself saying to them: "Your old Dad is glad to see you back. Yes, sir!"

Br-r-r! Ol' Man Watson opened the front door with a trembling hand.

"Hi, there, Dad!"

"Hello, Father!"

"Oh-h-h! Daddy!"

He was surrounded on all sides. Joe was shaking hands with him. Maisie was hugging him, and Flo was trying to kiss him and talk at the same time.

Tears came into Ol' Man Watson's eyes. They were fine children. Yes, sir! Fine children!"

The dinner seemed to be a great success. Ol' Man Watson told them all the happenings of the past two years. Joe related his business transactions, which were so punctured with, "I did," "I am," and "I have," that Ol' Man Watson's chest expanded with pride.

It was a hot, stifling day, Ol' Man Watson told himself that he shouldn't have eaten those lobsters. He took off his collar and necktie, and wiped his perspiring forehead.

"Pretty hot here," he began, "haven't had a spell like this for a long time. I guess—"

With a low gurgle, as if he were swallowing the rest of the words, he pitched forward.

"Good Lord!"

"Daddy!"

They laid him on the couch in the living room and called the doctor. Yes, it was a heart attack. Yes, pretty dangerous. No, couldn't tell how long he would last. He might go In an hour or he might live ten more years. But one thing was certain; he would now need someone to take care of him all the time.

The three looked at one another for a moment, and then looked away.

"Of course," Joe said half mumbling, "I'm entirely out of this. You can't expect me to take care of him. It's between you two girls. Fight it out!" and he left them.

Flo stood biting her lips while she ran her fingers through her boyish bob.

"Gee! Maisie," she began, "you don't think I'm going to stay in this hole all my life, do you? No, sir! Besides, you're the oldest. It's your duty, not mine! And anyway . . ."

"Keep still, Flo." Maisie broke in "you don't know what you're talking about. I don't know any more about nursing than you do. And I'm not going to give up my job for anyone, d' you hear? Just when I expect a raise, too. Besides, you're the youngest; so you ought to stay home!"

They didn't know that Ol' Man Watson had become conscious. At first he heard merely words . . . "your duty" . . . "my job" . . . "This hole all my life . . ."

He tried to grasp what they were saying. Duty . . .job . . . In a flash he understood. He was to be a burden to them. He was going to hinder them in their work. No, Sir! He didn't want to do that. He wanted his children to be successful. They were good children, fine children.

Ol' Man Watson's breath came in short gasps. His hands were clinching convulsively. Suddenly, his eyes closed and he became quiet.

The Isle of Content

By JOELLA JOHNSON

"HOW many in the family?" The cross-examiner, in the person of a prospective successor to a suddenly departed cook, flung the all-important question at little Mrs. Allanson.

"Only myself and husband," responded her potential mistress meekly, albeit with a shade of triumph in her tone. "He's quite a famous author," she added fondly. "You've heard of Gilbert Allan, haven't you?" But the well-known nom-de-plume did not register with Sally Dee..

"Do much entertaining?"

"Oh, no, Mr. Allanson's too busy with his writing. Once in a while we have some friends over for Sunday afternoon tea, but that's about all. We really don't need two maids, but since you won't go without your cousin—"

"No, ma'am, I've had enough of being all to myself in the country and near to dying of lonesomeness. If you don't think you want two, there's plenty of others as is only too anxious for a good cook and second girl." The gay rose on the prospect's hat waved belligerently, while the little "second girl!" caught her breath nervously at this declaration of independence from her more sophisticated cousin.

Mrs. Allanson considered a moment—"Very well. Would you be willing to start day after tomorrow? Oh, I neglected to mention that our cottage is on a small island in the lake, about a mile from shore. Perhaps you would find it rather dull," she added dubiously, mindful of previous tragic instances where maids had left in high dudgeon on account of the lack of excitement.

"That suits us," was Sally's unexpected rejoinder. "Ann an' me ain't much for gaddin, or dances, and it sounds like an awful good place to save money."

So it came to pass that they became members of the Allanson household and were bundled off to open up the cottage.

Three mornings later the Gilbert Allansons arrived at Lakeview and found old Charlie Merrill waiting to transport them across the lake, just as he had awaited them every Summer since Gilbert's childhood. A little grayer, he was, to be sure, but keen of eye and filled with the strength imparted by an out-of-door existence in the pinetree region.

"Got your telegram," he announced. "The hired girls came two hours ago. The fat one purt' near wrecked the boat gettin' in." His weatherbeaten face crinkled into a smile. It was indeed a landlubber who couldn't get into a boat without such a to-do. He watched Jean approvingly as she hopped lightly aboard like a born sailor.

The leisurely ride across the unruffled waters was delightful, only the rhythmic chugging of the motor importing a materialistic note to the setting. From the chimney of their cottage on the Isle of content, which was Gilbert's fanciful name for Spruce Island, they perceive a wisp of smoke floating lazily upward, welcome testimony that Sally and Ann were already at their tasks. When they entered the house and found the dining table daintily laid and Ann just igniting the logs on the hearth Jean felt that she had achieved the impossible and ensnared two perfect maids. And when they had partaken of a meal that called forth extravagant adjectives from Gilbert and sent Ann jubilantly out to report to Sally their mistress started to worry about being able to retain them throughout the Summer.

"We must be very careful about how we act toward them, Gilbert," she cautioned. "I don't imagine Ann is at all difficult to handle, but that Sally appears to have the temperament of a movie star, so if you hope all Summer to have food fit for the gods, don't for pity's sake go out in the boat and forget to come back in time for meals, as you always used to."

"But, dear, when I get started writing, time means nothing. With the best intentions in the world, I'd probably slip up very frequently."

"Don't worry, I'll fix that," smiled his wife. So every time that Gilbert set out in his boat to woo his muse, the alarm clock was his faithful companion.

For several weeks matters were almost unbelievably ideal. Ann and Sally were mutually agreed that Mrs. Allanson was the perfect mistress, of whose existence they had hitherto been extremely doubtful. She actually took an interest in their well being, and showed the same solicitude for their comfort as she would have for that of any of her friends. And Sally and Ann responded like grateful flowers to the unwonted gentleness. Nothing was for them too difficult or too irksome to be undertaken if it added to the pleasure of their employers.

One morning at breakfast, Mrs. Allanson was discussing a letter just received.

"We really must send for Roy and Robbie, Gilbert. Ted says they're just eating their hearts out for a sight of us, and I certainly do miss them. We should never have left the poor little things at home."

That was news! Ann rushed out to the kitchen to pass it on to Sally, who simply nodded her head sagely. "I knew 'twas too good to last," she avowed. "Well, it's us who start packing this very night, Ann. It's no use for us to try to put up with two young ones under our feet all day long—and they can't be very big, for the two of them's been married only five years. I must say I didn't think she was the kind to play such a sneaky trick on us, though."

"It's a shame," pouted Ann, "when everything was going to be so fine and all." The table bell put an end to her comments, but Mrs. Allanson's quick eye discerned that something was amiss. She was not left long in doubt, for when she visited the kitchen after breakfast to give her instructions for the day, Sally brusquely announced their determination to leave, immediately and unconditionally.

"But I don't understand." Mrs. Allanson floundered helplessly. "What in the world has happened?"

"Well, Ann tells me you're sending for your two children, and we don't like to work where there's children around to bother with all the time. I do think you might have told us before we got 'way up here."

Unexpectedly, Mrs. Allanson commenced to laugh. "That's the best ever," she exclaimed between peals of mirth. "Wait until Gilbert hears it."

However, Sally and Ann failed to join in the merriment. They had scarcely anticipated that their decision to leave would be received so lightly.

Finally, when Mrs. Allanson had regained her composure she set about negotiating for their former pleasant relations.

"Won't you girls just stay one week longer," she pleaded. "We like you awfully well, and should hate to see you go. And I am sure you'll just love Roy and Robbie—I guarantee they won't be a bit of trouble to you."

Sally was loath to listen to any such arrangement, but eventually yielded reluctantly to Ann's insistence, and once more affairs progressed smoothly, although in Sally's vicinity the atmosphere was rather tense.

At length came the day when the additional members of the family were to arrive, and Mrs. Allanson, in a flutter of excitement, rode over with Charlie Merrill to meet the boat on which they were due.

Sally and Ann were in the kitchen, engrossed in preparations for supper, when they returned, and were completely taken by surprise when Mrs. Allanson burst in upon them accompanied not by two boisterous children, but by a pair of the most adorable Scotch terriers imaginable; and Sally, mightily relieved, and although the joke was on her, laughed as she had not laughed before in years.

Paradise Farm

By CLYDE WELDON

MISS BELL! This feller's fainted. What'll I do?" it was the landlady at 17 Whitby terrace calling.

Miss Bell hastily seized aromatic spirits and ran down two flights of stairs, to find at the bottom step, in the dimly lighted hall, a young man, unconscious.

"How long has he been here?"

"Come last night. Said he was a student; paid in advance for that small top room."

"Get hot water, a glass and spoon," dictated Miss Bell.

Drop by drop, Kitty Bell forced the mixture into the half-open mouth of the unconscious one, the landlady grimly watching.

"I dunno nothin' about bringin' a man to. I seen plenty of wimmin faint and come to."

The young man slowly responded to the effort of Miss Bell, opened his eyes and saw her sunny hair like an aureole 'round the face of a saint. He suspected that he had passed on, and was receiving first aid at the hands of an angel.

"Swallow one more dose!" commanded the angel. "I'll get him a cup of tea, same as I give wimmin folks." The landlady disappeared. When she returned, patient and nurse had vanished.

Miss Bell was 40—and more. Therefore, it was quite a proper act for her to tap on the young man's door, enter, and set a tray of refreshment before him. He smiled and pointed to the strongest chair A cheerless room, an asylum for discarded furniture, decrepit bits of faded carpet, window undraped.

"I'll wash the dishes," she said, disappeared to finish her own lunch.

Miss Bell often walked to a weekly band concert, where the air was less stifling, and the music fine. Clouds of tobacco smoke, squeals from babies, rasping yells of boys, were accompaniments. On occasional meetings, the young student told of his home in New Hampshire, where his aunt governed domestic arrangements, his mother having died many years before this narrative began. In Summer she missed his friendly confidence, for the room opposite hers was vacant.

She received an invitation from a distant cousin to spend some time in a town adjoining that of her young student friend. During her visit much was expected by her hostess in return. There were alleviations, however, such as walks to be taken with the children and stories to be read. Once a sudden storm came. The group huddled together in a small shed, while rain deluged the place. When they hurried to their cottage they found two young men about to set forth.

"Miss Bell!" exclaimed one, "you here?"

"I'm visiting here."

The younger man was her student friend, whose home was in the next town.

One week later Kitty was alone, the family having sought diversion elsewhere. A man came to the door inquiring for Miss Bell, announcing that he was Mark Thresher's father, and that he had come to acknowledge her kindness to his son.

"Mark was trying to live, without my financial help, in the house where you first met him. He won the wager, however, and I admire his grit."

Continuing, Mark Thresher said: "My son told me of your first aid, of course. I appreciate your help."

"I only did as I would be done by, Mr. Thresher."

The middle-aged visitor regarded her with a keener scrutiny, and added: "We shall feel honored if you and your friends here will spend next Saturday afternoon at Paradise Farm. My sister chaperons Mark's company."

Saturday, came the Thresher car, into which were crowded the distant cousin, three bobbed-haired children and Miss Bell, all to be grandly received by Mr. Thresher's sister. Such a day they had never spent. They had lunch served in the outside lounging room, fragrant with odor of honeysuckle and roses.

Mark junior told funny stories to the three bobbed-haired children. Miss Thresher was a perfect hostess, listening to their chatter with interest.

Mark suggested driving the children in his old pony cart. The vehicle was ordered to be dusted, the fat old pony much surprised, was harnessed carefully, and a most delightful ride those children had, while the others inspected the conservatory. Nothing was left undone to add to their entertainment.

"We are indebted to you all for our glimpse into fairyland," said Miss Bell, as the party waited the coming of Mr. Thresher's car.

"You must repeat this visit very soon," said their host. "You have seen but a part of the grounds. See that mountain yonder! There's an observatory I want to show you."

As they stood laughing at young Thresher's whimsical description of his father's private beach, Mr. Thresher continued to assure Miss Bell and the cousin that he had many interesting features to delight them with when they honored him again. When the visitors were all ready to start, the gardener appeared with a huge basket of flowers.

The Summer was a marked one for Kitty Bell. She was frequently asked to go motoring with the owner of Paradise Farm. On one of the trips they visited the observatory, leaving the chauffeur and car at the foot of the mountain. By an easy, circuitous path they came to the lookout, commanding a view of the Thresher acres and beyond. The brisk walk had brought color to Kitty Bell's face. The owner of pretty much all he surveyed turned from contemplation of his lands abruptly. "I'm older by years than you, Kitty, and, until a few weeks ago, had not given a second marriage any thought."

Then, drawing a little nearer, he blurted more abruptly his fateful question.

"Kitty, do you think you can be happy, if you live the rest of your life as my wife?"

And Kitty Bell smiled as she answered with another question. "Rather can I make you happier, if I say yes?"

Just Forget It

By PARKE WHITNEY

PERHAPS you have never heard how Doc Gorham got his wife. Perhaps you have never even heard of Doc Gorham before.

Doc Gorham is the man in our town for whom everybody just naturally runs the minute any danger threatens. No matter how sick you are, you forget all thoughts of dying the minute he comes into the room. He jolly well laughs you out of every fear you ever had of anything.

It is years ago now since I first met the Doc, and I've thanked the Lord for every year I've known him since. I suppose all doctors naturally come up against the same he ran into that first day my story begins. I don't know. Fact is, I don't know many doctors. Doc Gorham's always been doctor enough for me and my family.

I was in his office that day when two men came running in. They were pretty well excited, and they both blabbed away at the top of their lungs and all you could, get was a word or two in between, like "wife" and "spasms" and "dead," and things that sent little shivers down my spine. One of the men was the Mayor. He had money and influence, and what not—just the sort of man a young doctor ought to get intimate with. The other one I didn't know at all. He was shaking as though he had the ague, and twisting his hat in his hands till it resembled a floor mop, and his clothes weren't any too highbrow.

Doc Gorham beckoned each of them to a chair, and said, patient-like: "One at a time, please. Let's get this thing straight."

The Mayor sat down. He was kind of out of breath by this time. The young fellow seized his opportunity to speak.

"I had a doctor on the case," he gasped, "but he left us cold because I couldn't pay his fee right off. He gave her up, too. Said they wan't nothin' else he could do, an' that proberly the baby won't pull through neither, Doc," he pleaded, and his eyes were just like one of those innocent wood animals caught in a trap. "I can pay. Honest to the Lord I can, if you can wait a couple months."

Then the Mayor started in.

"My doctor's off on his vacation," he broke in, excitedly. "You must come right off, doctor. I didn't know anybody else to go to. They said you were pretty good, and my wife's been taken bad. I'll pay you anything, only you come with me at once."

Well, the doctor deliberated just for a minute. Then he says, very calm-like and courteous: "Of course, you both understand I can only come to one of you. How about sending a colleague of mine, a very fine and clever man, over to see your wife, Mayor?"

Without waiting for an answer, he took his telephone and called Dr. Rivers. That's Doc Gorham. No grass under his feet. He just threw about $5,000 to the winds just like nothing at all.

Well, the Mayor was kind of purple about the Doc's not coming with him, but what could he do? So he just scowled and went home to his sick wife. Doc Gorham told me to pack his emergency kit and get ready to come along.

"Got anybody with your wife now?" he said to the young fellow. "Else we'll leave Miss Collins" (that's me) "there for a few days."

"Her sister's there with her," was the reply. "She'll stay long's she's needed."

"Good!"

Well, it was all night work pulling that poor woman back to earth. I don't think anybody but Doc Gorham could have done it. He kind of held on to her, giving her of his strength and courage. And the infant—a limp, weazened thing! Several times I thought it wasn't even breathing; but Doc had just the right stuff to give it, and you should see that baby now! Goliath had nothing on him, and he's only 17!

But it was the sister I was going to tell you about. She was the stuff saints and nurses are made of. When it came to obeying orders, crisp orders like the Doc's, I couldn't have done better carrying them out, and I graduated two years before from the Hospital on the Hill. She was a little country girl, too, slim and fair as a daffodil, her head topping her slenderness just like the flower. Cheeks red and ruddy as apples. Little rays of sunlight shining in the clear blue of her eyes. The things that girl had to witness that night not many girls of 20 have to go through, but she was as steady as the Doc himself. Only once Doc Gorham took the time to take a good look at her, and from that minute I know he was hard hit.

In the morning the patient slept as sweetly as the infant. I packed up the Doc's things.

"Thanks, Doc," quavered the young fellow, and he was crying like a child. "In a month or two I can pay you."

"You just forget it," he said kindly. "To get your wife well and strong is payment enough for me."

Doc Gorham was like that. That's why he never got rich, I guess. Only popular as the Great Teacher Himself.

He was looking at the sister all the time he said it, and she sort of blushed, and looked down. She was only a little country girl, you see.

"I'll be in again later," said Doc Gorham, still looking at the sister.

Six months later I was bridesmaid at their wedding.

That's all. I hope I haven't bored you.

Smith Making Usual Wind-Up

Last Effort Of His Campaign In New York City As Usual

HOOVER IS GOING HOME TO CAST VOTE

(By HARRY R. BLACKMON)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 2.—The biographies of Governor Alfred E. Smith delight in describing the terrific drives he launched against his Republican opponents in the last two weeks of each of his gubernatorial campaigns. The inference is that the opponents have crumbled under his thrusts, and have been left gasping and speechless by election day. The truth is that they have given the governor blow for blow, and have beaten him badly in upstate New York, only to succumb to the great majorities he has rolled up in New York City, with the aid of the Tammany machine.

Running true to form this year, Governor Smith is closing his campaign in spectacular fashion, firing at random all the remaining charges left in his pouch. But this battle is so much greater than those to which he has been accustomed that his strategy is of no avail. The nation finds his anti-Republican diatribes amusing rather than convincing. Straw votes, betting odds, the attitude of the party leaders, all point to the election of Hoover and Curtis by an overwhelming vote. Not even Governor Smith's Tammany cohorts in New York City can save him this time.

Herbert Hoover winds up his campaign by going home to vote, and thus fulfills the duty of every good citizen. He has made one of the most remarkable campaigns on record. In seven speeches he has set the nation's mind at rest on the leading issues. Of equal importance has been his success in convincing a majority of the voters of his dependable stability and his determination that equal opportunity for all shall be safeguarded in every possible manner. His campaign addresses have been devoid of glittering promises. What he proposes is a program of definite action, in which each problem will be handled upon its merits. His own record as an engineer, developer of great and efficiently operated properties, relief director, food administrator and cabinet officer supplies the necessary assurance that such a program will be put into action with all possible dispatch.

It can be said without exaggeration that Herbert Hoover's specialty is solving problems and administering his own solution thereafter. His career is the best evidence of the truth of that statement.

Talking to representatives of the press in New York City recently, he was asked whether he really enjoyed his task of campaigning, and what particular features of it interest him most.

"I like it very much," he answered without hesitation. "I have always enjoyed every kind of intensive mental effort."

And that, it may be added, is just the way he has always attacked the big undertakings which have been put up to him.

Veterans Can Now Apply For Converted Insurance, Says Secretary

Any person who was in service during the World war and who applied, or who was eligible to apply, for yearly renewal term insurance, or converted insurance, may now apply to the veterans' bureau for converted insurance under the terms of section 310 which was added to the World war veterans' act by the amendment of May 29, Pat J. Dempsey, executive secretary of the Lawrence county chapter of the Red Cross announced today.

"There is no time limit to such applications provided the person is in good health and furnishes satisfactory evidence to this effect," the secretary continued. "No more than $10,000 can be carried by any one person, but if an eligible veteran is carrying only a small amount of insurance now, he can increase the amount to $10,000 even though he may have taken out a smaller amount or no insurance at all during his service. However, converted insurance for which the cash surrender value has been accepted cannot be replaced.

"Men now in active service may apply for government insurance within 120 days after their enlistment. If such a man was a World war veteran the 120th day in that case is not operative, but he may apply at any time provided he meets the health requirements."

HOMESTEADER'S WIVES OBJECT TO HARDSHIP

SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 2.—Prevalence of divorces among homesteaders wives is worrying the federal department of the interior so seriously that the Association of Western States Engineers has been asked to consider what can be done about it.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE HOME-OWNERS

In candytuft and marigold
In blossoms on a patch of ground
Who owns a house and gives it care
Is loved and honored everywhere.

Four walls to keep the wind away,
In treasures old and trinkets new

Who buys a home gives guarantee
That steadfast to his task he'll be.
The cold lines of the contract hold
But soon to grace that sordid debt

He'll write his life in loveliness
And terms no contract can express.
The grass will win his tender care,
The birds will know a friend is there
And every passer-by will find

Youth Is Killed By Rabbit Hunter

Shooting Took Place Near Wilkes-Barre And Was Accidental

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Nov. 2. — While playing near the family home, four-year-old William Jackson was shot and killed Thursday by a neighbor, Stephen Nichols, who was hunting for rabbits, according to state police.

The Jackson home is at Trucksville, a country section about ten miles from here.

SENTENCED TO PEN 90 MINUTES AFTER ARREST

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., Nov. 2.—Williamsport police and court officials here claim to have established a new record for speedy justice when they arrested a man and sentenced him to prison in a time elapsed of just 90 minutes.

Charles Stella, 21, was arrested at Hughesville, as he emerged from a robbed railroad station. The $1,000 in cash stolen from the station was in his pockets.

Stella was taken before a judge and sentenced to a term in the Rockview penitentiary. He was safely in jail awaiting transportation to prison just 90 minutes after his arrest.

Ewing Park Annexation Is Under Discussion At Club

Probable Addition To Ellwood Discussed From Many Phases At Rotary Club Dinner

L. W. Monroe, Borough Manager, Tells Facts Concerning Proposed Project

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2. — The annexation of Ewing Park to Ellwood City, a topic of interest to many people, was the subject of discussion at the weekly dinner-meeting of the Rotary club, conducted Thursday evening in the dining room of the First Presbyterian church .

Three prominent business and professional men, who are interested in the project from varied angles, were the speakers: L. W. Monroe, Borough manager, gave the unbiased facts concerning the merger, and it was noticed that there was little opposition to the project. In fact the club members seemed to be heartily in favor. The action on the annexation will probably be taken at the next meeting of the Borough Council, as the petition signed by the majority of Ewing Park property owners, was presented at last month's meeting of the council.

J. W. Humphrey, attorney, gave a talk on the legal side of the proposed annexation, presenting interesting aspects to be considered. The toll bridge across the Connoquenessing river, is privately owned, and cannot be taken in at present.

Prof. W. Ray Smith, superintendent of the Ellwood City schools talked on the project from the standpoint of education, and seemed in favor of the merger. In case Ewing Park is admitted to the borough, it will probably be named Fifth ward.

Boggs-Ely Marriage Is Announced

Miss Pearl Boggs Announces Previous Wedding At Pretty Party Thursday

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2.—At a prettily appointed announcement party Thursday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. W. Boggs, of Ewing Park, Miss Pearl Boggs made known her marriage event of September 19 to George Clarke Ely, son of Rev. James Ely of New Athens, O.

The news was given out by means of red hearts tied to rose favors, given to each of the 24 members of the younger set. Home decorations were in pink and white, making a pretty setting for the wedding news. The ceremony took place in the manse of Rev. Keene of the First Presbyterian church of New Cumberland, Pa. At the same time William J. Mehard of this city and Miss Ruby Morris, a nurse in the local hospital, were married, the affair being a double wedding.

The evening concluded with a few games of bridge and a delicious luncheon served by Mrs. Boggs, assisted by Mrs. Ely. For the present the couple is visiting at the Boggs home, not having fully decided where to make their residence. The congratulations of their many friends are extended to them.

Pretty Opening Party For Elks, Ladies And Guests

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2. — The opening party for the ladies of the Elks club and their guests took place Thursday afternoon in the form of a pretty bridge-luncheon. In honor of the event each guest received a lovely little rose bouttonierre. Other decorations were carried out in Hallowe'en colors.

Covers were laid for 72 and a pleasant afternoon at cards was enjoyed. At the conclusion of play score honors for the guests was won by Mrs. Henry Passemore. Member honors went to Mrs. Myron Gelbach and Mrs. Taylor. In two weeks there will be an afternoon party in the club rooms.

Many Planning To Attend Rally Here

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2.—Many Republicans, both men and women, are planning to attend the Republican Club rally Saturday evening and avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing from prominent politicians the issues of the day and an explanation of the many amendments coming up for consideration on the state issue.

The coming election is a most important one, and it behooves all property owners to vote as they think best, but to vote. The club is conducting the rally Saturday evening on the first floor of the Sons of Columbus hall for the purpose of informing the voters of Ellwood City on the highlights of the coming election.

Among the speakers will be Senator George Weingartner and Assemblyman M. A. Bickett. Other prominent Republicans are expected to be present from this community.

Kiwanis Hears Of Theatricals In Talk By C. E. Cook

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2. — C. E. Cook, of the Rogers Producing company, spoke at the weekly dinner meeting of the Kiwanis club which took place Thursday evening in the dining room of the Trinity Lutheran church.

In view of the fact that the club is sponsoring a play in the near future, for the benefit of their scouts and crippled children's clinic, all members were interested in what Mr. Cook, had to say. He told interesting facts concerning the production of amateur theatricals, and complimented the town on possessing much talent, both dramatic and musical. He further informed them that reharsals for the musical comedy "That's That" were shaping up nicely and would be ready for production in about two weeks.

Attorney Clyde Gibson of New Castle was present and gave a short talk on "The Constitution." This talk was scheduled for some time ago, but owing to some misunderstanding, Mr. Gibson was unable to be present.

Success Attends Hallowe'en Party Of Orange Lodge

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2.—One hundred and seventy-five members of the Loyal Orange lodge and auxiliary enjoyed a Hallowe'en party on Thursday evening in their lodge room in the post office building.

An entertaining program of dancing and games caused the hours to pass quickly, and the hall presented a striking appearance in Hallowe'en motifs.

The evening closed with the serving of seasonal refreshments, with Mrs. M. Jones and T. B. Yahn heading the refreshment committee.

Mrs. S. U. Christy Dies Yesterday

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2. — Mrs. Elizabeth Christy, aged 61, passed away at her home in Wurtemburg yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. She had been an invalid for six years, death coming as the result of a stroke suffered two days ago.

She is survived by her husband, S. U. Christy, three brothers, E. P. Workley, Charles Workley and John Workley; and sisters, Mrs. J. S. Swintsburg of New Castle and Mrs. Phoebe Morrison of Wurtemburg. Mrs. Christy was a faithful member of the Wurtemburg United Presbyterian church, from which place the funeral services will be conducted Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Burial will take place in the Wurtemburg cemetery.

Legion Opposes Amendment 5; But Favors Amendment 10

J. Wilbur Randolph Post Calls Members Attention To Various Coming Amendments

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 2. — The J. Wilbur Randolph Post 157 of the American Legion desires to call the attention of its members and the voters of this community to two amendments to the Constitution to be voted on at the election next Tuesday November 6.

The first one is amendment No. 5. This amendment gives the General Assembly the power, by general laws, to exempt from taxation, public property used for public purposes, places of religious worship, places of burial not used or held for private or corporate profit, and institutions of purely public charity. Section one of Article nine of the Constitution, which is in force at the present time, exempts the above mentioned property also, personal property owned, occupied, and used by any branch, post or camp of honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, or marines. If amendment No. 5 is voted on favorably at the election it will mean that ex-service men's organizations will have to pay taxes on their property. The local post is of the opinion that property of ex-service men's organizations should not be taxed and should be exempt from taxation the same as the properties listed in this amendment No. 5. The local post of the American Legion at the present time, does not benefit from this exemption from taxation, as the Bill as passed by the General Assembly in 1925, exempts only property of ex-service men's organizations used solely by them and from which no revenue is secured.

The second one is amendment No. 10 which is the $50,000,000 bond issue for State owned hospitals and institutions for the mentally defectives, and epileptics. The hospitals for the feeble minded and the insane, under the State administration, are entirely inadequate to meet the present demand for hospitalization. This condition often causes the confinement of insane War Veterans in county almshouses and local hospitals, in which institutions they do not get the proper treatment or care on account of these institutions not having the facilities to care for this type of sickness, also the lack of adequate hospital facilities in State institutions frequently prevents families of limited means from hospitalizing dangerous cases before untold damage has been done and even tragedies have occurred. The local post is of the opinion that amendment No. 10 should be voted on favorably so that the feeble minded and the insane of this State might receive the proper care and treatment in our State Hospitals.

The local Post will appreciate it very much if our friends will vote NO on amendment No. 5, and YES on amendment No. 10.

Further Testimony Taken On Proposed Boro Incorporation

Additional testimony is being taken before Judge Hildebrand in court today on objections to the incorporation of Ellport borough. According to Assessor Tillia, who was on the witness stand this afternoon, the total assessed valuation of the property that it is proposed to incorporate into a borough is $470,000.

There are about 1,200 lots in the plot, which are assessed at from $50 to $150 each. The houses, numbering nearly 200, are assessed at from $400 to $2,000, a majority of them averaging around $1,500. It is claimed by those objecting to the incorporation that the signers to the petition do not represent a majority interest in the real estate holdings.

If it is true that people of the same type are antagonistic, Philadelphia police should make short work of the criminals.

The Philippines As An American Colony
Aguinaldo Grows Restless

AGUINALDO, THE PRESIDENT OF THE FILIPINO REVOLUTIONARY GOVERNMENT, WAS GREATLY DISTURBED WHEN HE BEGAN TO SEE THAT THE PURPOSE OF THE UNITED STATES WAS TO ACQUIRE THE PHILIPPINES. UPON THE ARRIVAL OF GEN. MERRITT'S ARMY HE HAD RELUCTANTLY AGREED TO WITHDRAW FROM HIS TRENCHES BEFORE MANILA AND ALLOW THE AMERICANS TO TAKE POSITION THERE.

AGUINALDO RESENTED THE REFUSAL OF THE AMERICANS TO RECOGNIZE HIS GOVERNMENT, AND WAS OFFENDED BECAUSE THE AMERICAN LEADERS DID NOT INVITE HIM TO TAKE PART IN THEIR COUNCILS OR EMPLOY HIS TROOPS.

WHEN MANILA FELL (AUG. 13, 1898), THE AMERICANS WOULD NOT PERMIT THE FILIPINOS TO ENTER THE CITY, AND LATER ESTABLISHED LINES IN CERTAIN QUARTERS BEYOND WHICH THE NATIVE SOLDIERS WERE NOT ALLOWED TO PASS IF ARMED.

THE FILIPINOS RETIRED FROM THE CITY TO AVOID ANY CLASHES BETWEEN THE SOLDIERS OF THE TWO ARMIES, BUT THEY WATCHED THE PROGRESS OF THE PEACE NEGOTIATIONS AT PARIS (TO WHICH AGUINALDO HAD SENT A COMMISSIONER) WITH KEEN INTEREST AND CONCERN. NOVEMBER 15TH THE FILIPINO JUNTA IN HONGKONG ADDRESSED A LIST OF GRIEVANCES TO THE AMERICANS AND ASKED REDRESS.

STAGE SET FOR BIG BOOSTER DAY GAME

South Hills Will Battle New Castle

New Castle High Team Faces Tough Assignment In South Hills; Pittsburgh Eleven Coming Here With Hope Of Victory; Coach Bridenbaugh Switches Line-Up; Booster Day Committee Plans Feature Events; Expect Enormous Crowd

By "BUGS" WALTHER

SLIGHTLY revamped New Castle High school football team awaits the whistle tomorrow afternoon to send them into action at Franklin field against South Hills High of Pittsburgh. The game, which has been designated as Booster Day, will start at 2:30 o'clock.

Long before the teams ramble on the field the boosters will start boosting this, that and everything, and plenty of steam will have been worn off before the game actually gets under way. The boosters are going to Franklin field tomorrow with a purpose in mind of accomplishing two things: first, to aid New Castle Senior High band to obtain new uniforms, and second, to show the young gridders that the people of New Castle appreciate their efforts.

As for the game itself, New Castle will meet a team from Pittsburgh that ranks among the best. Where Schenley and Westinghouse failed, South Hills hopes to succeed.

Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh, seeking to instill a better offensive attack in the team, has reached down and shaken up the bag and is going to pull out a slightly different combination. It is only an experiment, it may prove for the better and it may not, one can never tell about these things.

Shaffer at Quarter

When the New Castle team emerges from the dressing room the youth who will start calling signals will be Glenn Shaffer, former University High of Illinois star, and lately understudy to Arthur Sillman at quarterback on the local team. Bridenbaugh has hit upon the idea of using Shaffer as defensive halfback and signal barker. With Shaffer in the line-up New Castle will have a "triple threat" man. He can kick, pass and carry the ball.

The backfield starting Saturday may have a youth in the line-up who has not started a game this year, and a player who for quite some time has been plugging along in practice and seemingly destined for bench duty, but in the general shake-up Merle "Red" McIntosh, 185 pounds, is going to get the call at fullback. McIntosh is going to be a big help in ripping holes in the South Hills line.

The halfback posts will go begging for the most part, it was intimated, but it is a foregone conclusion that "Tommy" Harper, the human battering ram, will be at left half. Either McAuley, Fernati or Sillman will get the call for the other post.

"Nickie" DiCarbo, who has been used at a defensive halfback job so far this year, goes back to his old position at left guard. DiCarbo is a whale of a lineman and it is said that he would rather be on the forward wall. There will not be any other changes on the line. DiCarbo replaces Howley.

Aerial Attack

The game here tomorrow may be fought in the air. New Castle has the best set of passers and receivers this year that has graced the team for many years and considerable yardage has been gained through the ozone. South Hills High is said to possess a couple of good forward passers, and if these reports are true, the game will no doubt prove most interesting.

While the 0-0 deadlock at Washington last Saturday is nothing to hide under the dresser, yet the red and black gridders have taken it to heart and are determined to show the scholastic grid world that they still deserve high ranking. A healthy sized score against South Hills will act as balm to the locals.

Face Stiff Task

New Castle High grid team faces a stiff task starting with South Hills high tomorrow, then Greensburg and Beaver Falls before the big Turkey Day game with South High of Youngstown.

South Hills comes here supporting a fine record so far this year, having tied Perry High, 6-6, and having defeated Oliver and Allegheny. The South Hills boys are all pepped up over this New Castle game and will be in good condition when it comes time to start the contest.

In Captain Davis and Pietsch the South Hills team sports two fine backfield men, both are fast and bulky and hard to stop. In Risko, the signal barker, the Pittsburghers will have a tricky youth who can direct a team and also carry the ball at critical times.

The locals wound up their intensive training on Thursday afternoon at Franklin field with a two-hour workout that included scrimmage and signal drills. The practice session this afternoon was to be light.

Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner announced today that the officials for tomorrow will be: referee, Shanks (Buffalo); umpire, Harr, (Geneva); head linesman, Hick. Gardner is co-operating with the Booster Day committee and has promised them full sway in the program of the day.

New Castle		South Hills
Ostrosky	L.E.	Parke
Cuba	L.T.	Dague
DiCarbo	L.G.	Whetsel
Ciccone	C.	Brown
Mooney	R.G.	Lambert
Alexander	R.T.	Waddill
Craft	R.E.	Currie
Shaffer	Q.B.	Riske
Harper	L.H.	Davis
McAuley or Fernati	R.H.	Critchlow
McIntosh	F.B.	Pietsch

No Increase For Booster Contest

An impression has been gained by many football fans throughout New Castle that, owing to the Booster Day ceremonies at Franklin Field for the New Castle-South Hills game, the admission price has been raised. The admission has not been changed and will be 50 cents per person.

The boosters have a fine program outlined and the price of admission will be the same as on other Saturdays.

Boosters Ready For Ceremony Saturday

Part Of Proceeds Of New Castle-South Hills Game Goes To Band

Elaborate Program Of Entertainment Has Been Provided For, Is Report

By "BUGS" WALTHER

General Chairman William Connery, of the New Castle Booster Day committee, said today that everything was in readiness for the big blow-off tomorrow afternoon at Franklin Field. The ceremonies will start at 2 o'clock and continue until game time.

Considerable "whoopee" will be made by the former students and members of the Alumni. It will be recalled that the Booster Day game last year was a riot of fun. This year the program calls for a little more seriousness, but nevertheless should be highly entertaining.

Plane to Feature

D. Roy Bradford, president of the New Castle Aircraft Inc., has kindly donated the use of one of his airplanes in helping make the occasion a fitting success. Prior to the game or at about 2:25 o'clock the Bradford plane will hover over Franklin field and drop a football upon the playing field. Plans are under way to have a parachute jumper here from Detroit, but it is not known for sure whether this stunt will be pulled off or not, depending entirely on the arrival of the "Dare-Devil" jumper from the Michigan city. Anyway a football will be dropped on the field from the plane.

The New Castle Senior High School uniformed band will be out in full force and will be headed by John Paton. The band boys are going to benefit through this Booster game, and they have promised some lively music to help the occasion. A group of New Castle Boy Scouts will assist in the flag raising exercises prior to the game.

Ask 1923 Class to Attend

It is asked that as many members of the Class of 1923 as possible attend the game tomorrow and be ready to lend assistance in the dedication of the bronze tablet to be erected at the stadium. It was the donation of the 1923 class that gave the concrete stand idea a big boost. Dr. C. C. Green of the City schools and President Charles Young of the New Castle School Board will deliver short talks in the dedication exercises that will take place between the first and second half of the grid game. Howard Kirk, president of the Class of 1923 is assisting in the ceremonies. The tablet is being made at the Johnson Bronze company.

Wear your colors tomorrow and show the South Hills High aggregation that New Castle knows how to support a football team and band.

There will be a few more features at the game, but these have not as yet been worked out. The Booster committee holds a final meeting tonight at the Sporting Goods Store to arrange all details. The meeting is called for 7 o'clock.

There seems to be a general impression that the admission price of the Booster game has been raised, this is not correct, there has been no increase in the price.

Lion Team Leaves For Contest With "Galloping Ghosts"

Will Play Notre Dame On Franklin Field, Philadelphia, On Saturday

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 2.—The Penn State football team, accompanied by its coaches and managers left this morning for Philadelphia, where it will meet the Notre Dame outfit Saturday afternoon at Franklin field, to decide the final outcome of the three game series which was arranged some years ago. The party will proceed directly to quarters outside the city when the train arrives at the North Philadelphia station this afternoon.

All though this week's light but vigorous practices an undernote of grimness has been predominant in the Lion grid camp. Past Notre Dame scores against Penn State teams and the bad starting of the season seemingly had hitched Nittany hopes to a big rock for this game.

Holding Syracuse to a 6-6 tie last Saturday however sent the Lion stock and morale up. An aerial attack is expected to form the mainstay of both teams in Saturday's tilt.

Booster Program In Compact Form

2:15 p. m.—Flag raising ceremonies, assisted by Boy Scouts and New Castle High band.

2:25 p. m.—Football dropped from airplane donated by D. Roy Bradford, of New Castle Aircraft Inc. Parachute jumper depending on arrival of man from Detroit. Will land on field if jump is made.

2:30 p. m.—Kickoff of New Castle-South Hills High grid game.

Conference Title At Stake Tomorrow In Reeves' Stadium

Grove City And Geneva Ready For Class B College Title Contest

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 2.—The Beaver Valley are all "het up" over the annual Grove City game scheduled for tomorrow. Victory will probably carry with it the small college championship of the district and the battle is bound to be hot. So great is the interest, that local high schools are playing their games on Friday that all fans may see the epic struggle. Neither teams seems to have a pre-game advantage. Grove City is undefeated while Geneva has lost only to Bucknell. Grove City have disposed of Allegheny and John Carroll decisively, the latter conqueror of Davis-Elkins. Geneva recently disposed of Duquesne, conqueror of Wash-Jeff. Given a dry field the game is certain to be fast with the Speedy Day and Angelo opposed to Knapik and Pinkerton and Preece. Geneva scouts have reported Grove City to possess a fast charging line and diversified attack. Their passing attack is but fair. Geneva is bound to attempt to advance the ball by the latter method, and Grove City will be taxed to repel the Covenanter's air attack.

A record crowd is expected to attend the game in Reeves' Stadium on Saturday.

Syracuse-Pitt To Battle Saturday

Pitt Hopes To Make Good Showing Against Strong Syracuse Team

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2. — Syracuse University and Pittsburgh will battle here tomorrow afternoon in what appears to be the one of the leading Eastern grid attractions. The Orange, with a well-balanced eleven, is hopeful of evening the count in its history of games with the Pitt team. In seven meetings there have been two tie games, three Pitt victories, and two wins for Syracuse.

The visitors have most of their hopes on Capt. Hal Baysinger, generally recognized as the best triple threat quarterback in the east. Western newspapermen and Coach Ernie Bearg of Nebraska two weeks ago declared him to be the best quarterback, both defensively and offensively, seen in the Missouri Valley in a couple of seasons.

With Baysinger at the helm, the Orange may plan on either an aerial or a running game. He is without peer as a passer and has completed several for 50 yards or more this season. With two other passers in the backfield and a number of good receivers on the squad, the Orange aerial offensive has enough deception to be successful against a team on the alert for just such plays. But with four excellent ball carriers in the first string backfield, the wily Baysinger may be depended to mix his plays continually.

Directing A Tornado By Feg Murray

Southern football long ago demonstrated its class, but when Georgia Tech knocked over Knute Rockne's Ramblers the other day for the first time, there was much applause for Coach Bill Alexander, his players and the class of football played below the Mason-Dixon line in general. The Yellow Jackets seem headed for another Southern Conference championship, and as they were not scored on by Virginia Military Institute, Tulane and Notre Dame, it seems quite possible that they will be strong enough to defeat Vanderbilt, Alabama and Georgia.

Coach Alexander was a former star player for the Golden Tornado, and long a disciple of the "Heisman shift". But the shift has gone the way of the "flying wedge" as far as Alexander is concerned, and with stars like Captain Pete Pund, Warner Mizell, "Stumpy" Thomson, "Father" Lumpkin and Durant, he can win without even shifting his quid of plug cut from one side of his mouth to the other.

W. A. Alexander was among those present on board the President Roosevelt when that noble vessel bore the United States Olympic team to Amsterdam and back. Accompanied by a party of Southerners, Bill took in the games as part of his vacation, and watched his boy, Ed. Hamm, win the Olympic broad jump championship. "He would make a good football player," Bill told me, "but he's much too good a broad jumper to risk on the gridiron in his last year in college."

"Alexander the Great" they call Bill now, since his Yellow Jackets stung Rockne's men. His record, so far this season, is much better than that of "Old Pete" Alexander of the St. Louis Cardinals. Alex's boys, even without Ed. Hamm, seem quite able to bring home the bacon.

Westminster Warriors Off For Battle With Duquesne

Team Is Seriously Handicapped By Injuries To Three Stars

Victory Over Dukes Will Place Westminster High In Tri-State

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—Coach "Dike" Beede's Westminster College gridders, although battered and bruised from the hard Grove City and Thiel games of the last two weeks, leave here tonight for Pittsburgh, where they will meet the somewhat Dubious Dukes on the Bluff field tomorrow afternoon.

Dible, who was injured in the Thiel game, is not to make the trip. The backfield flash will be out for two weeks, according to Dr. Charles Smyser, team physician. Lauder, another halfback, hurt in the Thiel game, will not see action. Forsha, stellar end, is another of the regulars who will not even be in uniform.

Despite the inroads of injuries upon the squad, it would not surprise followers of the blue and white greatly if the Dukes were given a tough time of it tomorrow afternoon. There is latent power in the United Presbyterian team, as was shown in the Thiel game.

A victory over the Duquesne outfit would practically assure the blue and white of a place in the tri-state district grid sun. Even with substitutes in the varsity berths, however, the team has been optimistic all week at the light practice sessions.

While the football team is battling at Pittsburgh the Westminster cross-country team will race the strong Carnegie Tech team over the Fayette five and one-half mile course here. Last year the Tartans defeated the United Presbyterians at Pittsburgh, and the blue and white distance men would like to avenge the defeat.

In all probability the Westminster harriers will enter the Allegheny mountain championship race at Pittsburgh November 10. Last year Westminster defeated the Geneva harriers twice and then the Covenanters entered the A. M. championship and won. Westminster plans to enter this year to give the Covenanters some competition.

JUST ASK FOR SCORE PLEASE

When you call The News on Saturday afternoons for the score of the New Castle high school football game, it is not necessary to say "Can you give me the score of the New Castle high school football game?" Simply say, "Score please," if you want the New Castle game and The News operator will know what you mean.

You will save a lot of valuable time for others who are calling for the score, by eliminating a lot of unnecessary statements.

Bessemer-Wilmington To Battle Saturday

Both Teams Undefeated This Year; Fine Game Is In Prospect

Bessemer Alive With Excitement Awaiting "Big Contest"; Look For Crowd

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, Pa., Nov. 2.—The football populace of this man's domain is quite stirred up today. Twenty-four hours before the big game finds "football in the air". Bessemer high school team will clash with New Wilmington high team tomorrow afternoon. The game is to be played on the Bessemer field. The starting time is 2:30 o'clock.

The prevailing topic today was football. It was discussed at the breakfast table, at lunch and again for supper. The fans have caught the spirit of the occasion and when the class B schoolboys trot out on the greensward tomorrow afternoon they will be greeted with a thunderous cheer by several hundred ardent followers.

As far as class B football is concerned the Bessemer-New Wilmington game is the biggest thrill of the year. No matter what kind of a season both teams have, when they meet there is bound to be a gridiron contest that appeases the most rabid of fans. Excitement there will be in abundance, thrills galore and two very evenly matched grid machines seeking to gain that coveted supremacy.

Really one finds an air to these small school games that is lacking in most college and class A scholastic contests. The do or die tendency makes it highly interesting. They take a defeat to heart, and on the other hand they celebrate a victory most gloriously.

Who Will Win?

Last year Bessemer triumphed 7 to 0. The year before that New Wilmington was on top. The results have been seesawing back and forth ever so long. Will the spell be broken tomorrow? Will Bessemer arise to the occasion and grab that second straight victory? This question is being picked to pieces like a Thanksgiving day turkey.

There is an angle to the game that is quite a coincidence or shall we call it fate. The Bessemer high team is coached by a youth named Fredericks and New Wilmington is coached by a Mr. Olson. It has been brought to light from official source that both coaches were graduates of the University of Illinois last year and are the best of friends. Both received their football knowledge from Coach Zuppke at his famous coaching school. Tomorrow the coaches face each other over the gridiron, at the helm of rival teams.

Bessemer high to date has defeated Harrisville, Hickory and Ben Franklin trade school and tied West Middlesex. New Wilmington holds victories over Sandy Lake, Mercer, trade school and tied with Union high. Both teams are undefeated and both have played one tie game.

The Bessemer boys really enter the game underdogs as the New Wilmington high team has a most impressive record and are perhaps in better physical condition, but the underdog not always takes another one on the chin and it is not likely that Bessemer high will be beaten without a noble fight.

New Wilmington high students are planning an invasion of this town tomorrow full strength. The game is attracting attention from the entire county.

Following are the probable lineups:

Bessemer		New Wilmington
Ruehle	L.E.	Lee
Engle	L.T.	C. Greer
D. McCurdy	L.G.	Klumph
Ulah	C.	Rose
Davidson	R.G.	N. Greer
Cappezuto	R.T.	McConnell
Mack	R.E.	Smith
Shrefler	Q.B.	Neal
Grist	R.H.	Patterson
Aquaro	L.H.	Eagleson
W. McCurdy	F.B.	Davis

YES, INDEED

Professor—Waiter, have I left my hat here?

Waiter—No, but your friend, Prof. X has been waiting here for three hour for you.

Business College Floor Team Meets, Plan Fast Quintet

Business College Basketball Team Has High Hopes For 1928-29 Season

At a recent meeting of the New Castle Business College basketball team plans were laid for the coming floor season. The enthusiasm shown by the players at the initial gathering augurs well for success this year.

Coach Bennie Weiss has consented to coach the team again this year and Rome will manage the team. Rome was re-elected at the meeting. Four men from last year's team will be back in school and will try out for positions on the team: Drake, Rome, DiMuccio and Houke. Of the new men available this year the most likely looking candidates are: Richards, formerly with the Lincolns; Ed. Spencer, formerly with the Tip Tops; Bill Spencer, formerly with North Street Junior High; Goodhart, formerly with Zelienople High, and Davis, a well-known local player.

This year's team promises to be one of the best in the history of the school. The team will be outfitted with new uniforms and all home games will be played on a local floor. Practice will start in a few weeks' time.

Grid Program For Saturday Filled With Good Games

Many Intersectional Games To Feature Collegiate Grid World Tomorrow

UNDEFEATED TEAMS FACE STIFF TASKS

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 2.—Finding neighborhood affairs temporarily at a standstill, intercollegiate football is about to take itself by the hand and toddle off down the block to the great, big exciting world beyond. The greatest intersectional Saturday of the current season is on the books for tomorrow, with at least six games involving many good ones of the North, South and Middle West coming down to a decision.

The greatest meeting of this greatest intersectional day will couple Princeton, unbeaten in the East, and Ohio State, possible winner of the Big Ten title, in a game that will have a definite effect on the final ranking of national contenders, as well as its natural bearing on the merits of the East versus West situation. It isn't often that the principals can contrive to come up to a game like this with neither defeated; so this one is something that should make you want to part your hair lip neatly down the center.

Many Imposing Games

Wisconsin vs. Alabama; Penn State vs. Notre Dame; Pennsylvania vs. Chicago; Army vs. De Pauw and Colgate vs. Wabash.

A truly imposing list when first conceived, it might once have decided everything except possibly the third race at Hawthorne. Instead, Penn State, Chicago and Notre Dame have had disquieting seasons. Pennsylvania passed away as a national contender last week and Colgate simply hasn't belonged since it finished second to Vanderbilt weeks ago.

However, the Princeton-Ohio State meeting and that between Alabama, a representative team of the South, and Wisconsin, contender for the Big Ten championship, can just about figure to carry anything, including that big, round goiter on the back of Atlas' neck. The Penn-Chicago affair will not be without significance, either, if Penn loses. If it doesn't they will write it off as just another pain in Stagg's collar band.

Meanwhile, the strictly sectional stuff won't be altogether inert as long as we have the following efforts toward self-determination:

East—Georgetown vs. New York University; Middle West—Michigan vs. Illinois and Northwestern vs. Minnesota; farther west—Nebraska vs. Kansas and Iowa State vs. Oklahoma; farthest west—Southern California vs. Stanford and California vs. Oregon; South—Florida vs. Sewannee, Georgia vs. Alabama Poly; Vanderbilt vs. Kentucky; Texas vs. Southern Methodist; Texas Christian vs. Baylor.

The Georgetown-N. Y. U. game might easily determine the final identity of the eastern champion. The least it will do is narrow the list of West Point's rivals for that distinction, a list already so narrow that it could march by squads through the crack in the liberty bell. There is nothing in that Big Ten line-up apparently except Illinois in one game and Minnesota in the other, but Nebraska will just about declare itself on the Big Six championship if it bests Kansas.

California vs. Oregon

And, any time Stanford and U. S. C. couple up the coast title is almost on the line. However, the California-Oregon meeting is highly significant, if only that it will determine whether the Bear is yet to challenge the Stan-U. S. C. winner in the final ranking. Florida and Georgia should survive a pair of the southern meetings, but Vanderbilt may have picked up a live one in Kentucky, while the Texas-Southern Methodist game is just one of those free-for-nobody things. Tennessee, However, gets a breather with Carson Newman.

Others who should breathe with freedom and marked regularity are West Point against De Pauw, Boston College against Manhattan and Iowa against South Dakota. Those that will not feature breathing except in short, painful gasps are Yale against Dartmouth, Columbia against Cornell, Bucknell against Villanova, Brown against Holy Cross and Pittsburgh against Syracuse. Just how the Navy will do its breathing against West Virginia Wesleyan is not known because of its rather eccentric policy of losing the ones it should win and winning the ones it should lose.

Guidance Conference Begins On Saturday At Y. W. C. A. Camp

Approximately 75 persons are expected to be present at the adult guidance conference being held Saturday, Sunday and Monday at the Y. W. camp at East Brook.

Attending the conference will be leaders in Girl Reserve work of western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, including Girl Reserve secretaries, Girl Reserve advisers and committees.

Miss Elsie Ewing, Girl Reserve secretary of East Liberty, will have charge of the porgram.

Miss Reed of North Carolina will be the chief speaker of the conference. Miss Reed will speak on "Family Relationship."

PUNTS AND PASSES

(International News Service)

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Nov. 2.—The big Syracuse University football team will hold a drill here this afternoon on Geneva College's athletic field as final preparation for its game with Pitt at Pittsburgh tomorrow. The Orange squad is supposed to stop for a short while in Pittsburgh before coming here.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 2.—With every man except fullback "Pug" Parkinson ready to start against Syracuse tomorrow, Pitt will concentrate its defense on stopping Baysinger, sensational quarterback of the Syracuse eleven.

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 2. — Grove City today put on the finishing touches today in preparation for its game tomorrow with Geneva, traditional rival. All week, Coach Berry has been developing a defense against Geneva's passing attack. The game is for the championship for the so-called class B colleges, those teams which are ranked in power next to Pitt, Tech and Wash-Jeff in Western Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 2.—With a crippled squad, Wash-Jeff football team left here last night for Easton, Pa., where they will arrive today and put on the final practice drill for its game with Lafayette tomorrow. Three regulars, it was announced, will not play. They are Capt. Aschman, center, Douds, star tackle, and Robinson, quarterback.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 2.—With most of the squad in good condition, Duquesne's football eleven was given final instructions today on the style of play to use against Westminster tomorrow.

Grove City Faces Stiff Game With Geneva Saturday

Grovers Attempt To Perfect Defense Against Geneva's Aerial Attack

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 2.—Practically every drill this week at Grove City College has been devoted to perfecting a defense against Geneva's highly touted air game. The Crimson has a wholesome respect for the ability of their opponents tomorrow, but Coach Berry has shown by his tactics this week that it is a passing game he fears. A decided improvement is noticeable after several days' drill against this type of offense.

The Grovers have shown little ability to check a passing attack in the games played to date. Westminster and Allegheny, although defeated, gained consistently through the air, and with Geneva reported to feature an aerial game, Berry has reason to be pessimistic.

Again this year the Grove City-Geneva game will determine the championship of the smaller schools of this section. The Crimson is undefeated, while Geneva has made an imposing record. The Golden Tornado will be playing before a large Homecoming Day crowd, while the Grovers will be out to avenge a 13-0 defeat handed them last year.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and The New Castle News

The lean days are upon the University of Michigan, as far as football is concerned.

This becomes more apparent as the present season swings into the last month.

From the halcyon days of the "point-a-minute" period the fortunes of the Wolverine team have finally slipped to the point where Michigan is now a three-points-a-quarter squad. And the sad part of it is that it is the other fellows who get the three points.

Michigan's opponents scored a total of 49 points in the first four games of the year—an average of two touchdowns a game, or three points a period.

True enough, this is not a huge total. Against any other team the mark wouldn't seem nearly as black. But, from Michigan's standpoint, this showing is the worst the team has experienced in the quarter of a century and more that Fielding Yost has been boss of the gridiron there. And, to top this, is the weak efforts offensively speaking. Michigan scored but twice in those four games—once against Ohio Wesleyan and once against Ohio State. And the touchdown charged against the Ohio Big Ten member was the result of a fluke.

* * *

The fear has been expressed that the ever-increasing number of sectional football games will eventually steal all the thunder—hold the lion's share of attention every fall. The traditional rivalry that has existed for years between teams of given localities will die out, the fearful ones cry.

Perhaps.

Dartmouth had trounced the always formidable Columbia team 21 to 7 previously. Harvard had apparently found its level in taking a 15 to 0 beating at the hands of the Army.

And then old John Harvard up and cracked the big Green team from Hanover 19 to 7.

Then, the same week-end, there was that battle between Purdue and Chicago, next door neighbors as states go, and long standing rivals in the Big Ten.

When the teams met this season Purdue could boast of but five victories in 32 attempts to trounce Alonzo Stagg's team. But just to get even for that overwhelming list of defeats the Purdue team rose up and socked Chicago, 40 to 0.

And similar upsets bob up in every section every year between old-time rivals in copious enough quantities to offset any furore the intersectional games may cause temporarily.

Firpo And Hybert Tried, Found True

Fight Monday May Be More Sensational Than First Bout

JOEY GOODMAN TO BOX LUPICA

By ED FRITZ

Several weeks ago Floyd Hybert and Henry Firpo, welterweights, fought at Jolly bowl and the day following the fight we wrote as follows: "Fandom which has been asking the question 'How good is Firpo?' was served with a delightful dish of pugilistic fodder at Jolly bowl when Floyd Hybert and Henry Firpo fought ten vicious rounds."

And now that the welters have been remated and are scheduled to again show their ability at Jolly bowl, next Monday night, it would not be surprising were one Bill Jolly to find it rather difficult to house the crowd. The first fight has acted as a stimulus and the Fight Hungry's appetite has been whet to a keen edge. In fact most of the fans who trot to fights can hardly wait until the pugilists crawl into the ring.

Evenly Matched.

Hybert and Firpo have proved beyond the shadow of a doubt that they are evenly matched. Hybert is very good at close range and Firpo is no slouch at long distance fighting. Body punching, while not as spectacular as long range "going" is equally as devastating. During their first fight Hybert fought to the body and Firpo battled for the jaw. A knockout in the coming fight Monday night is not without the realm of possibility.

Hybert and Firpo are training vigorously in Cleveland. Firpo is preparing at the gymnasium of his manager, Jimmie Dunn. Hybert is getting in condition in the gymnasium of Eddie Mead. No one need fear that they will be out of condition. Each is trying to ascend the ladder which pays big dividends when the top is reached and the winner will meet "My" Sullivan in St. Paul late this month.

Witness Real Battle.

Rather than give you an account of what we believe will occur when they battle, we'll just clip from our October 9 story and we expect to write even a "Better Fight" on Election morning. Take for instance this sentence: "The crowd went to Jolly bowl last night to see a fight and they witnessed one." And again: "Firpo last night stood up, fought back and when the 'going' in some rounds was against him, kept pegging away."

And what about Hybert? This is what we said and it was true: "Hybert? He lived up every iota to his reputation which preceded him and Billy Jolly can be given credit for bringing on a fighter, one who acts as though he would like to have fight served for breakfast, dinner and supper." In the fourth Hybert had a big edge and in the ninth Firpo had a wide margin. We also gave Firpo the eighth.

Goodman Can Punch.

They're coming back again and naturally there will be keen excitement. Eddie Mead, manager of Hybert, believes that Floyd will win. Jimmie Dunn is devoting an entire week to the Cause of Firpo and naturally believes his protege will win. Owing to the rivalry it is believed by the fight public that out-of-town officials will decide the winner although there are no ties that bind here.

Before the grand finale in the Drama of Punch goes on, Joey Goodman, the Hebrew of Norfolk, and Tony Lupica, Italian of Toledo, will clash in a six round semi-final. Goodman chalked a niche in the Tri-State Hall of Fistic fame when he chopped down Jack MacFarland, the game Irishman. He is a lethel puncher. Lupica is said to be no foe's cone to be cracked at will.

Adair Meets Rio.

Frankie Rio, the former Farrell, Pa., high school boy, and Louie Adair, Toledo, featherweights, will romp for six rounds. Adair is a stablemate of Lupica. Frankie has not fought here in several weeks and it is probable that he will be given a kindly reception. Adair has been cavorting rather briskly throughout rings close to the hometown of Ad Thatcher, his manager.

There isn't a dyed-in-the-wool fan here who doesn't realize that Tom O'Leary, bantamweight, is a thoroughly game fighter. He proved this when Young Itovino and he battled sensationally a few weeks ago. They ate up punches, scattered blood all over the ringside spectators and O'Leary won finally. He will battle Bernie Dugan in a four round bout.

Elmo Versus Brown.

Elmo The Mighty, a light-heavyweight who is a Jolly bowl idol, will take on Steve Brown of Elyria. Elmo has been laying his ponderous fist against many of their "tummies" and jaws. He has been having things easy but is certain to run into another "Stine-like" Carroll some day and when he does—good-bye; but until that time Elmo will continue to roll in the lap of idolatry.

New Castle Woman Escapes Injury In Conneaut Lake Fire

Word has been received here that fire caused by crossed wires nearly destroyed the cottage of Mrs. J. A. Herbert of 113 East North street at Conneaut Lake on October 28. Mrs. Herbert, her maid and three guests narrowly avoided serious injury in their escape from the burning building.

Volunteer firemen of the lake villages and district extinguished the blaze after a battle for an hour. The fire caused much anxiety for the buildings nearby which included two hotels and it was thought for some time that the blaze would be carried to these other buildings.

The fire occurred at 4 o'clock in the morning. The volunteers extinguished the blaze before the Meadville companies, which were called, arrived on the scene.

3-Threat Lineman

Bruce Dumont, captain of Colgate's grid team, who is one of those rarities—a triple-threat lineman. Though a guard, and a good one, Dumont often plays in the backfield and excels at running punting and passing.

About the only way you can tell a Democrat or Republican these days is to watch and see which party he bolts to.

Duquesne Has Stiff Program For Basketball

Duquesne University Basketball Practice To Start Monday Afternoon

SCHEDULE CALLS FOR HARD GAMES

(Special To The News)
By SEBASTIAN ISABELLA.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 2.—With the din of the football cleats still in the air, Duquesne University will take up basketball activities. Coach Charles "Chick" Davies has called the initial practice for the basketeers of Duquesne for Monday afternoon.

Graduate Manager John D. Holahan has arranged a firt class schedule for the team. On the schedule is found some of the fastest teams in the collegiate basketball world.

It will be remembered that it was the strong Westminster college team that put the Duquesne team out of the running early in the season.

Duquesne University was defeated on the home court and then traveled to New Wilmington and handed the Westminster team a startling setback. The "Dukes" finished second in the Conference race. Westminster will be met in New Wilmington in the first game of the new year and the third game for the "Dukes."

The Duquesne team will take a five day trip to the east. Two New York teams will be the hosts on succeeding nights and then Washington, D. C. will play host for two nights. Ohio Northern University and Marietta college will also be found on the schedule. Eleven Conference games will be played as per schedule. The "Dukes" will play 19 games for the season of 1928-29.

Six Veterans.

Coach "Chick" Davies will have a nucelus of six veterans to work with for a championship team. Of the last year squad there are Captain Rosenberg, Stephens, Benedict, Vernon, Losman and Collodi. Benedict will not be out for basketball practice until the football season is over. It is rumored that about 100 candidates will be cut for the positions Monday.

The first game will be played December 21 with Ohio Northern University at home. Marietta college January 4 at home. January 11 will find the "Dukes" at New Wilmington to play Westminster college. Manhattan college will come to Pittsburgh and fill an engagement for Janary 15 with the "Dukes." Thiel college at Greenville, January 19, January 22 Geneva college will play at the "Dukes" court. January 29 Waynesburg at home.

Plan Trip East.

The team will go on a short trip to Bethany, W. Va., and play Bethany college February 2. After a few days at home the team will entrain for a five day trip in th east. February 8, Manhattan college and February 9, New York City college, both games will be played in New York city. The American University and Catholic University will be played in New York city. The American University and Catholic University will be met on February 11 and 12 at Washington, D. C. The team comes home for a three game stay. Waynesburg college February 15, Bethany college February 19 and American University on February 22.

The Yellow Jackets will be met at Waynesburg February 25. Thiel college will play the "Dukes" March 1 on the home court. Westminster college will come to Pittsburgh March 5 and the 1928-29 season will be closed with the Geneva college team at Beaver Falls on March 8.

Sentence Court Saturday Morning

Court will be held tomorrow morning at which District Attorney J. Elder Bryan expects to be able to present a number of pleas of guilty made by prisoners now in the county jail. They will be sentenced by Judges Hildebrand and Chambers. Most of the pleas will be by persons who have been arrested for violations of the prohibition laws.

Today you can wear a Worsted-Tex suit and dress with all the dignity and dressiness that should be yours . . . . at moderate cost.

Worsted-Tex is the kind of cloth you see at a custom-tailor's, and will wear as well as the best suit you can buy at any price.

Three Coats In One

Never wrinkles—never gets out of shape—seldom needs pressing—and can be worn 10 months in the year.

Just come in and slipon a famous Knit-Tex coat in any of the new English tweed patterns. You will be pleased with it's smartness—the way it feels, and drapes and looks.

A Knit-Tex Coat $30
A Worsted-Tex Suit $40
Both for $70

Italy's "Margot"

Italy's "Margot Asquith," Vittoria Colonna, Duchess of Sermoneta, who is engaged in writing her memoirs which Rome expects will cause as much discussion as Lady Asquith's did a few years ago, is planning a visit to the United States. She is to be the guest of Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks in California.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—Stocks were very irregular today, as ambitious but rather unsuccessful attmpts were made by those working for the rise to absorb the waves of selling that passed over the market. It was apparent in the forenoon that opinion differed regarding the further tremendous increase in brokers' loans last week, and sentiment was somewhat depressed by the calling in of about $10,000,000 in loans by banks.

Popular motor, oil, copper and industrial stocks were pressed from the opening and, nervous selling increased as the morning lengthened. Coca-Cola tumbled 7 points to 60¾, and other market leaders like Radio Corporation, U. S. Steel, Sears Roebuck, Victor Talking Machine, Atlantic Refining and International Nickel were down 1 to 4 points. A 5-point loss appeared in General Motors.

An impression was evidently made by the expansion of 134,871,000 in brokers' borrowings. The present outstanding total of such loans is $1,835,000,000 greater than a year ago and $344,000,000 above the high point reached last June. The increase for October, as nearly as the weekly statements measures it, has exceeded $337,000,000; in previous month, even at the height of last spring's speculative excitement, has matched that figure.

Small recoveries were made, only to be lost again, but there were many gains interspersed with the losses.

New York Gives Smith Reception

New Kind Of Demonstration Occurs In New York Today

DEFINITELY PLANNED FOR POLITICAL EFFECT

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 2.—The Sidewalks of New York curled up and stood on end today to salute and welcome Al Smith back home from his campaign travels.

From the greying old Battery, looking out to sea, to Fifty-ninth street, which was way up town when he was a boy, he paraded today as a presidential candidate in a shower of ticker tape, torn paper, adultation, adoration, and deafening applause and cheers.

Perched high on the back of an open car, in a drizzling rain, the Governor took the acclaim of his home town with a wide grin, and many waves of the brown derby that is now known from Butte to Boston.

Different Reception

The welcome home which New York gave to Governor Smith was different from any of the wild receptions he received in his 12,000 miles of campaign travelling during the last two months.

There wasn't much politics in it, for one thing. The parade was arranged by the Associated Business for a Better New York, and it was designed not so much to show that New York is for Al Smith personally and politically as to show that the great business interests of the city have confidence in him.

There was none of the Governor's old East Side cronies in the show, no Tammany marching clubs, no Democratic organizations with their whoopee devices. All these were excluded. It was a business parade more than a political parade, however much it may have been planned for political effect.

And New York business responded nobly to the governor. There was missing the acclaim today, up Broadway and fifth avenue, the fanaticism of that almost unbelievable Boston celebration a week ago; neither was there the frenzy of the crowds that almost mobbed him in Philadelphia, and Chicago and Baltimore and Hartford.

Instead, New York came out and stood in a drizzling rain, thirty deep along the ten-mile route, to sincerely cheer him and wish him luck next Tuesday.

To the shrieking of ship sirens in the bay, the motor cavalcade, with the governor at its head, shoved off promptly at noon. Swinging into lower Broadway, for a mile ahead the street was packed from building line to curb, and presented the picture of a heavy snow storm from the ticker tape, the torn up newspapers and telephone directories that fluttered from the mile-high windows on either side.

A reverberating roar that echoed and re-echoed through this grand canyon of finance and business ran apace with the slow-moving car in which he rode with Mrs. Smith, Mayor Jimmie Walker and Judge George W. Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall.

ARMY MULE SEES NATIONAL FOOTBALL TITLE AHEAD

Sweeping forward like the doughboys did 10 years ago, the Army football team has stamped Boston university, Southern Methodist, Providence, Harvard and Yale underfoot and appears to be headed for a possible national football championship this year. Above are coach, captain and outstanding players of the big cadet aggregation.

Unusual Ruling In Compensation Case

POTTSVILLE, Nov. 2.—Referee Thomas C. Seidel, of the Compensation bureau, made an unusual award when $3,763.22 was ordered paid to Mrs. Mabel E. Stirk, of Bethlehem, for the death of her husband, Charles, on August 20, 1928. Testimony revealed that Stirk, superintendent at a plant of the Kurtz Brothers, Bethlehem, had been shot by the night watchman of the plant following an argument.

Seidel ruled the watchman was an employee and that Stirk was acting in line of duty, entitling his widow to compensation.

Oldest Citizen To Receive Cane

CAMBRIDGE SPRINGS, Nov. 2.—The famous gold-headed cane which was given by citizens of Cambridge Springs several years ago to George D. Humes who died recently at the age of 101, has been returned to Burgess B. B. Hawthorne by members of the Humes family.

The cane now will be presented to the oldest bonafide resident of the Springs, Burgess says in a printed announcement. "It shall be the further duty of the committee to designate the time and place of such presentation and to prepare a suitable program for the same."

Dry Agents Nab Biggest Still In State Is Belief

Still Captured Near Reading Had Capacity For Thousands Of Gallons

(International News Service)

READING, Pa., Nov. 2.—Federal prohibition agents today seized what is believed to be the largest illicit still ever captured in Pennsylvania at the old abandoned Grey Iron Foundry plant here. Seven men were arrested and 25 barrels of whiskey and a number of barrels of mash were destroyed.

The still had a capacity of thousands of gallons and measured more than 30 feet in diameter. The plant was three stories high, prohibition agents reported.

William J. Cousins led the detail. Three men are reported to have escaped. The others taken into custody are reported to have included Stanley Cozak, alleged proprietor of the plant, and three Philadelphians.

Indiana Bandits Get $10,000 Cash

MARION, Ind., Nov. 2.—Three young bandits held up J. W. Ball, cashier of the Gas City State bank at Gas City, near here today, and robbed him of a $10,000 cash shipment which he was carrying from the Gas City postoffice to his bank in preparation for cashing pay checks tomorrow.

Prunes Are Sent On New Air Mail Route

Five Pound Box Of Breakfast Fruit Is First On Shortest Route

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Nov. 2.—The once humble and maligned boarding house prune has just taken on added distinction, for a five-pound box was transported via air mail, the American Transport association reports.

The shipment originated on the world's shortest air mail line, a 30-mile hop connecting San Jose with San Francisco and Oakland. When the route started October 15 some extra-luscious prunes were dispatched by air mail to Assistant Postmaster W. Irving Glover at Washington, D. C.

However, prunes are not the first food products which have moved air mail, for recently a shipment of ice cream was dispatched from Philadelphia to Greensboro, N. C., and a thousand loaves of bread were sent from all parts of the national bakers' convention in Chicago. Loaves from 35 states were transported by air mail in 12 to 14 hours.

The most intolerant man has been found. He had rather cough than use coughdrops made by the Smith brothers.

Cabaret Singers Are Ordered From Mexico

Signed As Tourists To Avoid Taxes; Now Must Leave Land

(International News Service)

TAMPICO, November 2.—Eighteen American cabaret artists now appearing at Tampico, State of Tamaulipas have just been invited by the Mexican immigration authorities not to stay longer in Mexico than they can help following a recommendation toward that end made by the department of the interior.

The steps taken are said to be due to the cabaret players having declared at the time of their entry into Mexico that they were tourists in order to avoid paying as it is seen here the slight tax put on immigrants. Foreigners engaging in gainful occupation in Mexico are rated as immigrants and lay themselves open to expulsion if they assign to themselves any other status.

Note To Sweetheart Bore Valued Stamp

Girl Uses Money From Stamps To Purchase Trousseau; Gets $1500

(International News Service)

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 2.—When a young Swedish boy promised to write his sweetheart every day for a month he didn't know she would one day have fifteen hundred dollars for the stamps he had pasted on the envelopes.

A few months ago the Swedish government issued a number of reprinted stamps. On certain sheets they were printed upside down a fact which made them all the more valuable in the collector's eye.

These were the ones that the young Swede happened to buy. A philatelist happened to discover them one day and offered her two hundred crowns for each one of the thirty. She used the money to buy a trousseau.

Copy Of Contract For Church Filed

A no lien contract was filed at the prothonotary's office this morning for the erection of the First United Presbyterian church by J. Clyde Gilfillan. The building is to cost around $130,000. Work has already been started on the property recently purchased at the corner of Albert street and Clen-Moore boulevard
